PORTO RICANS DREAM OF BEING MADE A STATE

Cry of Independence Dead for All Time.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 7.—Beautiful, prosperous Porto Rico, which, like Jeshuran, has waxed fat and kicked under twenty-five years of American rule, is going to remain American.

The independence movement is dead even as the purely political maneuver it appears to have been. It was buried today at the inauguration of former Congressman Towner of Iowa as governor of the island, with the witnesses including Secretary of the Navy Denby and his party of American officials.

No governor could have entered upon his duties more auspiciously, and great things are expected of his administration both by Washington and by the Porto Ricans, who had been affronted by the actions of the retiring governor, E. Mont Reily, and forced his resignation.

Towner Popular Choice.

As an able statesman who has demonstrated his interest in the welfare of the island through frequent visits, his chairmanship of the house committee on insular affairs and his influence on Porto Rican legislation beginning with the organic act, Mr. Towner was the popular choice for governor expressed to President Harding through Felix Cordova Davila, Porto Rican commissioner in Washington.

Gov. Towner in his inaugural address said he came to lead, not to coerce, and to respect and preserve revered native institutions and traditions. But Porto Rico, all will agree—the new governor blandly opined—is permanently a part of the American union. Right there the independence movement gave up the ghost amid the huzzas of the populace as soon as the populace gathered the purport of the translated welcome to the governor and the governor's response.

Later at a luncheon to Gov. Towner and Secretary Denby it was learned that the promoters of the independence movement are now with no less ardor yearning, nay, demanding, statehood in the American union and indissoluble union thereby with the nation from which they so lately have pleaded for freedom.

At this luncheon there sat on the right of the new governor Antonio R. Barcelo, president of the senate and leader of the Unionista party, which advocated independence until recently. Señor Barcelo established his reputation as an orator in an address in which he said:

Pleads to Enter Union.

"Our minds and our hearts, as regards all the purposes of our life, without reserve, are set on living in frank solidarity of action with the great people of the United States, because that is our natural inclination, and because such a close and personal association will guarantee our existence, progress, and liberty in the international order.

"And I will say more. I will say that if at this very moment the people of the United States would allow us to enter the union as a state they could do nothing more satisfactory to us and give us no cause of more legitimate pride; for we would join the union immediately, as our governor very well said, with the personality, characteristics, and idiosyncrasy of a people whose character is already formed and who have for centuries had a civilization perhaps older than yours.

"What we do not wish, what frequently disturbs our minds, is the thought of having to undergo a painful, indefinite process, during which all those characteristics will perish, and which will annul our personality to such an extent that upon the accomplishment of that solution, if it ever be accomplished, it will not be we who will share the immense benefits to be derived therefrom, but a shapeless hybrid, resembling us in nothing and differing from you also.

Dislike Being a "Possession."

"The idea of being a mere and perpetual possession of the United States disturbs our spirit and defrauds our greatest hopes. In view of that idea, it is wholly excusable—and I hope that, as Americans and free men that you are, you will so understand—if there are some among us who think of other solutions compatible with the sentiments of liberty and dignity proper in all beings who feel in their souls the natural inclination of being free in the land of their birth."

Curiously enough, it was the unpopular Gov. Reily who forced the Unionistas to expunge the independence plank from their platform. He went up and down the island explaining that the Unionistas were against him, and naturally would be against him because

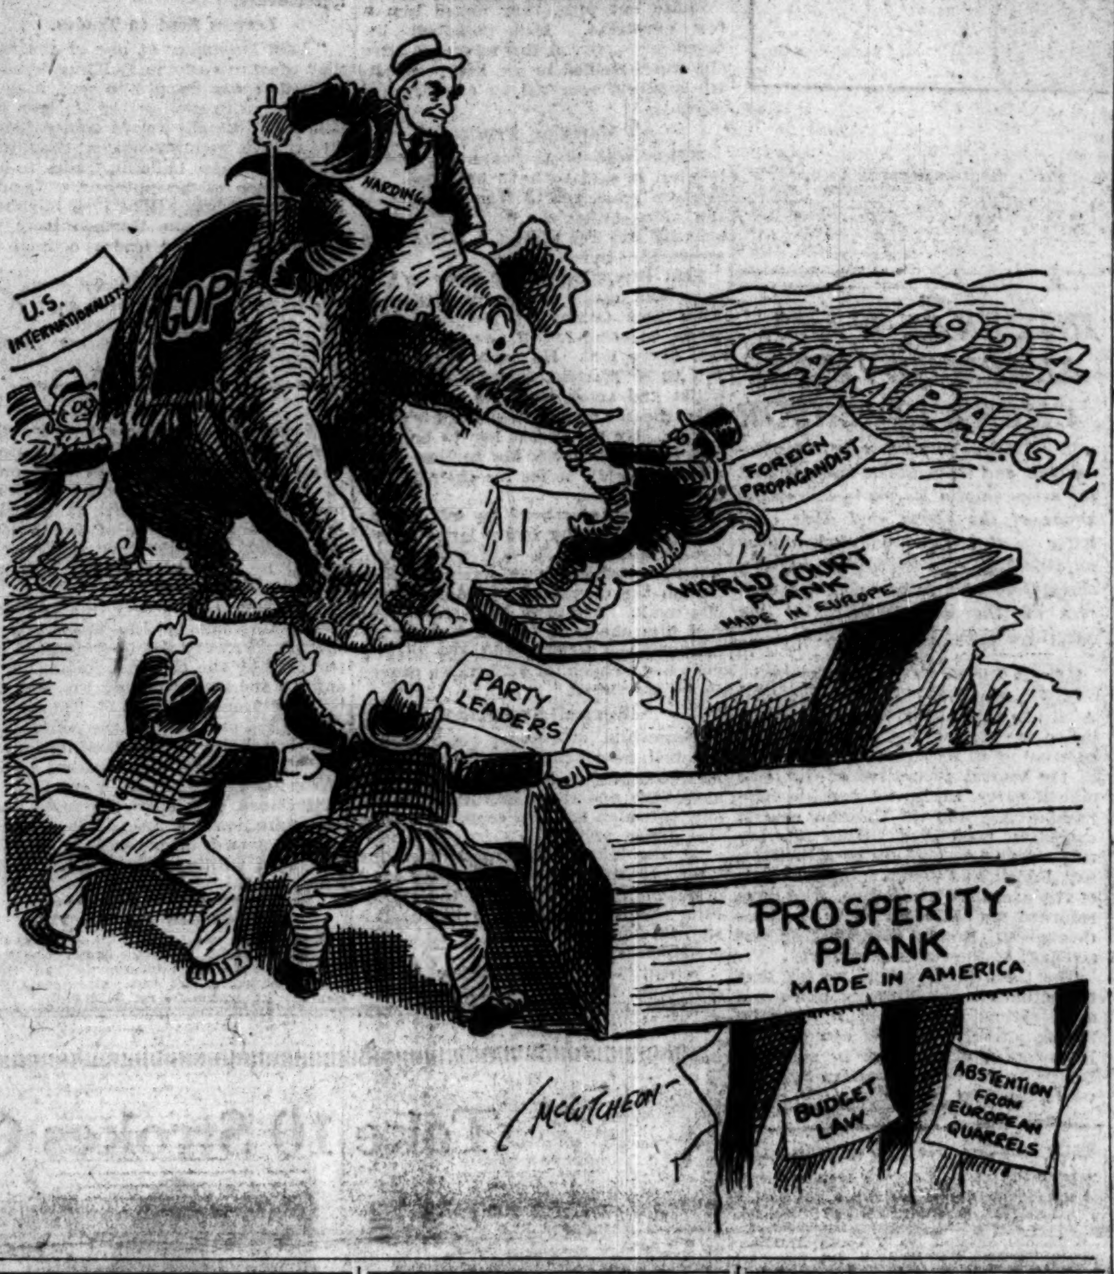
THE ELEPHANT BALKS

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]



YOUNG HOFFMAN SEEKS DIVORCE; CRUELTY, CHARGE

Five exciting weeks of nuptial "bliss" during which he was kicked about, abused and even bitten by his bride, are described by Gordon H. Hoffman, eldest son of Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman, in his suit for divorce from Mrs. Ruth Erickson Hoffman, 4731 North Monticello avenue.

The petition, which was filed in the Superior court, climaxes a romance which had its inception when young Hoffman fell desperately in love with the then Miss Erickson in February, 1922, when she was convalescing from a suicidal attempt after collapse of her affair with Lawrence Miller, 4541 Ellis avenue.

Despite bitter opposition of his father, young Hoffman was the constant companion of the girl until July 16, when, after a canter on the Lincoln park bridle path and a Green Mill garden dinner, he swallowed forty grains of veronal. Rushed to the county hospital, the youth smashed his way through a circle of internes and escaped by jumping from a first story window.

"MILLION OR CELL BEFORE I'M 25"; HE LANDS CELL

Morphine and cocaine sales from the display windows of the Franklin Drug company store at 334 East 31st street, yesterday caused the arrest of Ira Goldman, 22 year old proprietor of the store, by federal narcotic agents.

Goldman, who is said to have declared to business associates that he would "have a million or be in prison before he was 25 years old," had foiled efforts of the federal agents to bring about the latter alternative by spreading his narcotic supplies, without apparent carelessness, throughout his window displays.

A "tipoff" from an addict, however, spoiled the ruse and led to the uncovering of what federal agents say is one of the most completely established dope violation cases developed in the south side narcotic centers.

In July, 1921, Goldman, who had just taken over ownership of the store, was arrested and his narcotic supply seized. Because of his youth, he was able to avoid the penitentiary.

Women Arrange to Tab Evanston Bootleg Cases

Evanston women decided yesterday to attend trials of bootleggers and other violators of the dry law as an aid to law enforcement.

At a meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the Hemenway Methodist Episcopal church, Mrs. Flora K. Hanson, president of the Evanston W. C. T. U., said she had called the Evanston chief of police on the telephone and he had promised to notify the women when trials of accused dry law violators would take place. Forty women volunteered to take turns in being on hand when notified.

CHIEF BREAKS UP BASEBALL POOLS

Raids Ticket Printers and Arrests Thirty-six.

Baseball pools, comprising a form of gambling which practically has been immune in Chicago for years, were struck at their roots last night by a series of raids in the South Clark street district and Englewood. The raids were ordered by Chief of Police Collins. Thirty-six printers and pool operators' agents were taken.

Operators of the pools, whose agents in cigar stores and restaurants throughout the city number in the hundreds, are said to have reaped a harvest of more than $1,000,000 during the 1922 season. The chief's attention was called to conditions on the day following his appointment, and he laid plans to act by striking at the shops in which the pool tickets are printed.

Pool operators, in high spirits over the success of their operations, had planned for an even more intensive cultivation of the crop of baseball gamblers this year and the quota of tickets had been increased for the 1923 season.

Seize 18 in First Raid.

Lieut. John McCarthy, formerly head of Chief Fitzmorris' vice squad, led the raids. The first place visited was the fifth floor at 727 South Dearborn street, where eleven printers were taken, together with seven others who gave their occupations as clerks, but in reality have been acting as runners and agents, according to the police.

Jacob Seibert, 2128 Morse avenue, and Charles Goddard, 2140 LeClair avenue, proprietors of the printing house, were among those taken in the raid. Simultaneously two nearby establishments were raided by squads under Lieut. McCarthy's orders and eleven more printers and employés were taken.

Not many minutes had elapsed after the prisoners had been booked at the South Clark street station on charges of operating a lottery game before professional bondsmen, summoned by grapevine, arrived to offer $2,000 cash bonds for release of those arrested.

Raids in Englewood.

Two more raids in Englewood added seven to the total number of arrests. At the plant of the Rapid Printing company, 739 West 63d street, two men were taken, and at the plant of the Englewood Typesetting company, 730 West 63d street, five were seized. The five were loading 6,000 pool tickets into an auto, the raiders said.

Two squads from Chief Collins' office under Sergt. Edward Goggin and Charles McGurn combed the south and west sides for general gambling, while other squads descended on disorderly houses no North Clark street and the west side. Little gambling was found and few arrests were made.

TRANSFER ORDER NEARS

Chief Collins during the day took two steps to protect the city from moonshine crazed policemen.

He announced that First Deputy Superintendent Alcock will be his representative on the police trial board and that Alcock has been instructed to vote for the dismissal of every policeman who is found guilty of intoxication.

The second step was the chief's declaration that he will back up his first deputy by refusing to recommend the reinstatement of any policeman dismissed either for intoxication or for crookedness.

Chief Collins was undecided as to whether he will issue a transfer order tonight or put it off until late next week. When it comes, the order will involve captains, lieutenants, sergeants and some patrolmen, he said.

FOUR QUIT USING AUTOS FOR YEAR TO ESCAPE JAIL

Bow to Ultimatum of Judge Walker.

Four speeding or intoxicated motorists voluntarily surrendered the privilege of driving their automobiles for one year yesterday rather than accept the alternative of jail sentences offered them by Municipal Judge Henry M. Walker.

JUDGE H. M. WALKER.

While legislators pondered over Coroner Oscar Wolff's proposed amendments to the vehicle laws providing for mental, physical and mechanical examination of automobilists, with authorization to revoke offenders' licenses, Judge Walker ordered speeders and drunken drivers to Dr. William Hickson, city alienist, for inquiry into their sanity.

During the day, Cook county's toll of motor fatalities mounted to 180. Two of the victims were 6 year old boys.

Two Drivers Found Unfit.

Examination of Henry Shott and Alfred Larson during the day by Dr. Hickson indicated that both were mentally unfit to pilot automobiles in Chicago, according to the alienist's report to Judge Walker. Shott, who was charged with driving his car at more than 42 miles an hour, was placed on probation for a year after he had promised to refrain from driving his car for that period. Judge Walker indicated a similar fate awaited Larson.

Walter Pantell, found guilty of driving while intoxicated, was sentenced to serve a 30-day jail sentence and pay a fine of $100. The sentence was suspended and Pantell placed on probation when he also promised not to operate his automobile for a year.

Sentence of one year in the House of Correction imposed upon Henry Kappell was suspended after he agreed to give up his automobile for twelve months.

Injuries Kill Four.

Six year old Barney Blenk, 2168 North California avenue, was killed at Milwaukee avenue and Talman avenues by a taxicab driven by Leo Klein, 3075 Elbridge avenue. Klein is held pending an inquest.

Bruno Dermont, 6 years old, living at 712 West Seventeenth street, died of injuries sustained Thursday night when he was struck by the automobile driven by Frank Curin, 6512 West 28th place. Curin, an employé of the Commonwealth Edison company, is being held.

Mrs. Marie J. Eigman, 4308 West Grand avenue, who with Mrs. Jennie Massover, 448 East 44th street, was struck by a "vampire" motorist on April 18, died at the Chicago Lying-in hospital. The women were struck as they attempted to cross 44th street at Grand boulevard.

Mrs. Martha Seldomridge of 1243 Rosemont avenue, sister of Judge Charles F. McKinley of the Municipal court, died at Ravenswood hospital of injuries received April 3 in an automobile collision.

Driver Cleared of Death.

Henry C. Kerl, 609 Diversey parkway, was found not guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of Ernest E. Schmidt, 2658 Belmont avenue, by a jury in Judge John A. Swanson's court. Schmidt, an undertaker, was struck by Kerl's car at Washtenaw and Belmont avenues and died on the way to a hospital. Kerl admitted going at more than twenty miles an hour, but the jury held the accident unavoidable.

HAMMER SLAYER IN HONDURAS; HER ARREST ORDERED

Sacramento, Cal., April 20.—A woman closely resembling Mrs. Clara Phillips, convicted hammer murderess, who escaped from the Los Angeles county jail, is a guest at a Tegucigalpa, Honduras, hotel, according to a telegram received here today by Gov. Friend Richardson from the state department at Washington.

Arrest of Husband Ordered.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 20.—Arrest of Armour L. Phillips, husband of Clara Phillips, hammer murderess, was ordered tonight by Sheriff Traeger, after a conference with Chief Deputy District Attorney Asa Keyes.

"We will hold Phillips as a material witness," the sheriff said. "In the meantime I have asked for the arrest of Mrs. Phillips in Honduras."

Union Demand May Spell End of Orchestra

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Will the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the greatest artistic asset of Chicago, be a two-thirds asset next season? Or will it be in existence at all? No one around Orchestra hall seems able to answer.

For several weeks there have been rumors that all was not well between the musicians' union and the Orchestral Association of Chicago. Last night matters came to a head. Whether the orchestra is to continue as it has this season, whether it is to operate on a two-thirds basis, or whether there will be no orchestral concerts at all next season, is a matter for the future to decide.

Salary Raise Refused.

At present matters stand thus: The musicians' union has served a demand on the Orchestral association for a 25 per cent salary increase for next season. The Orchestral association answers that last season it suffered a deficit of $70,000 and feels unable under any circumstances to increase its burden.

The irresistible force apparently has met the immovable object. When the Chicago Symphony orchestra finishes its final concert of the season tonight it will be technically disbanded. No contracts with any members have been signed for another season, and the notice that is being sent to orchestral subscribers today reads that renewals for another season will be accepted only on the condition of there being another season.

That the present state of affairs is serious is not denied by any one connected with the orchestra in an official or artistic capacity. In a history of thirty-two years, since the foundation of the orchestra in 1891, this is the first time that association and players have come into open conflict. In the past all salary adjustments have been made peaceably, and in a manner considered equitable on both sides.

No New Contracts Signed.

A short history of the controversy is contained in the Orchestral association's statement. It tells that on March 21 of this year a delegation from the musicians' union headed by President Petrillo presented and discussed a demand that the minimum salary for members of the orchestra be increased from $60 to $75, which, since a number of the players receive more than the minimum scale, would mean a horizontal increase of like amount throughout the orchestra.

After a full explanation of the situation the delegation was informed that it was impossible to meet the demand in full or in part. On the following Saturday [March 24] the union served notice that no member of the orchestra should enter into a contract for the season 1923-24 until the question of the scale had been adjusted. Accordingly, none has been signed for next season.

Horace Oakley, one of the vice presidents of the Orchestral association, points out the inability of the association to meet the demand. In the first place, he says, the association is a corporation not for profit. After paying fixed charges, taxes, interest, upkeep, and indispensable repairs, all the rest of its income is devoted to the orchestra. Its resources are three: Receipts from concerts, rentals of hall and building, donations and income from endowment funds.

Deficit to Be Met.

In the year 1921-'22 the orchestra ran behind some $30,000, after using the net earnings of the hall and building of about $40,000, or about $70,000 total. In order to meet this deficit, securities from the endowment were sold. This season the price of tickets was increased to the extent of $16,000, and office rents in the building were raised about $5,000. With endowment funds now available, this year's deficit will be met.

The present union scale for orchestral players in Chicago is the best in the country, a minimum of $60 for four concerts a week and four rehearsals of nine hours for twenty-eight weeks. There are such additional benefits as life insurance to the players, sick benefits, and old age pensions, for none of which are the members of the orchestra assessed one cent.

Mr. Oakley declares that three courses are open. The orchestra may accept the old scale; the orchestra may next year number sixty-five players instead of the present ninety-two; the orchestra may be entirely disbanded.

DROPS SUPPLIES FROM PLANE ON FOX ISLE

Another Ship Makes Forced Landing.

BY MORROW KRUM.

Gaylord, Mich., April 20.—(Special.)—Nine men and a woman who were facing starvation in a loggers' camp on South Fox island in northern Lake Michigan are tonight enjoying their first square meal in three weeks.

MORROW KRUM.

The Tribune airplane expedition from Rantoul field, Illinois, consisting of a big De Haviland army plane, with Lieut. Henry E. Wooldridge as pilot and your correspondent in the rear cockpit, manipulating two canvas bags suspended from a rope, flew over the South Fox island camp at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, dropped the provisions, and saw the men and woman of the camp seize and carry them into their cooking cabin.

Then we flew away again, because there was no safe landing place near the camp. Further, we wanted to get back to the mainland, where we could tell the outside world that the food had reached its destination.

On our way back we paused briefly to land and offer assistance to another plane.

Pounce on Food.

You should have seen the party of marooned loggers rush out of their little house when they first heard the noise of our engine over the forest. They pounced on the canvas bags with 200 pounds of food dropped to them and rushed into the house with them.

We rose again into the clouds and scudded through the fog, over the dangerous ice floes of Lake Michigan to the safety of the mainland. Here we are tonight at the Gaylord landing field, thirty-five miles southeast of Charlevoix.

Parker Forced Down.

Besides the people on the island who had sent out an appeal to the world for food, we found there another airplane, which had been forced to land some four miles away from the loggers' camp and which had not been able to reach the woodsmen. This was a plane driven by John Miller of Chicago. Frank Parker, owner of the plane, was there, as were two representatives of another Chicago morning newspaper. They had a narrow escape when their motor failed over the lake. We offered this marooned party help, but they said they were all right.

The success of The Tribune expedition to South Fox island is due to the great skill and courage of Lieut. Wooldridge, one of the crack pilots of the American army.

Lieut. Wooldridge was selected by the commander of Rantoul field for this trip because of his unerring skill and judgment.

Second Plane Joins.

We left Rantoul, 115 miles south of Chicago, at 6 this (Friday) morning. The De Haviland was driven by a Liberty motor. The first stop was at the air mail field in Maywood, where we were joined by a second De Haviland, piloted by Lieut. E. Hamilton Lee, carrying Murrell Tinsley, a Tribune photographer, as passenger.

Four hundred pounds of provisions were put in sacks and divided between the planes, as it was felt that the chances of reaching the island safely were not great and that where one plane failed the other might succeed.

Land at Muskegon.

Both planes left the Maywood field at 8:45 o'clock this morning and flew together to Muskegon, arriving there at 10:45 a. m. We traveled around the edge of the lake. The landing field at Muskegon was bad, but it was safely negotiated, and after lunching and taking on more gasoline we left that town at 1:20 o'clock this afternoon.

Lee led off and rose to a height of 6,000 feet. Wooldridge took a still higher course, about 7,000 feet, and an hour out of Muskegon lost track of Lee in the high fog.

Flying over Northport, which is the farthest point of the peninsula embracing Grand Traverse bay, we came to the ice filled stretch of lake between the mainland and the island. This is an eighteen mile field of ice and water and its passage formed the most dangerous part of our trip. If the motor failed here it meant crashing into ice and water.

Sight Fox Island.

Flying 7,000 feet above the water, we came in sight of the crescent shaped island which was our objective. It is one of two small islands about fifteen miles south of Beaver island, familiar to all upper lake travelers.

North and east of Fox island the lake was filled with floating ice. On the west side we saw open water. The island appeared to be about one-half mile wide and four or five miles long.

We came down and flew over the island. We saw five men and a woman. They came out of a little house near the center of the island. Then we came down low, just over the top of the forest. I was in the rear cockpit with the food in the bags, tied to ropes and hanging out ready to be dropped. I dropped one sack in an open space and saw them run after the food. They picked up the sack and ran into the house with it. We went around the island again, came low and I dropped the second sack.

After this we went higher and circled over the island, watching for Lee and Tinsley and looking for a good landing place.

See Plane on Beach.

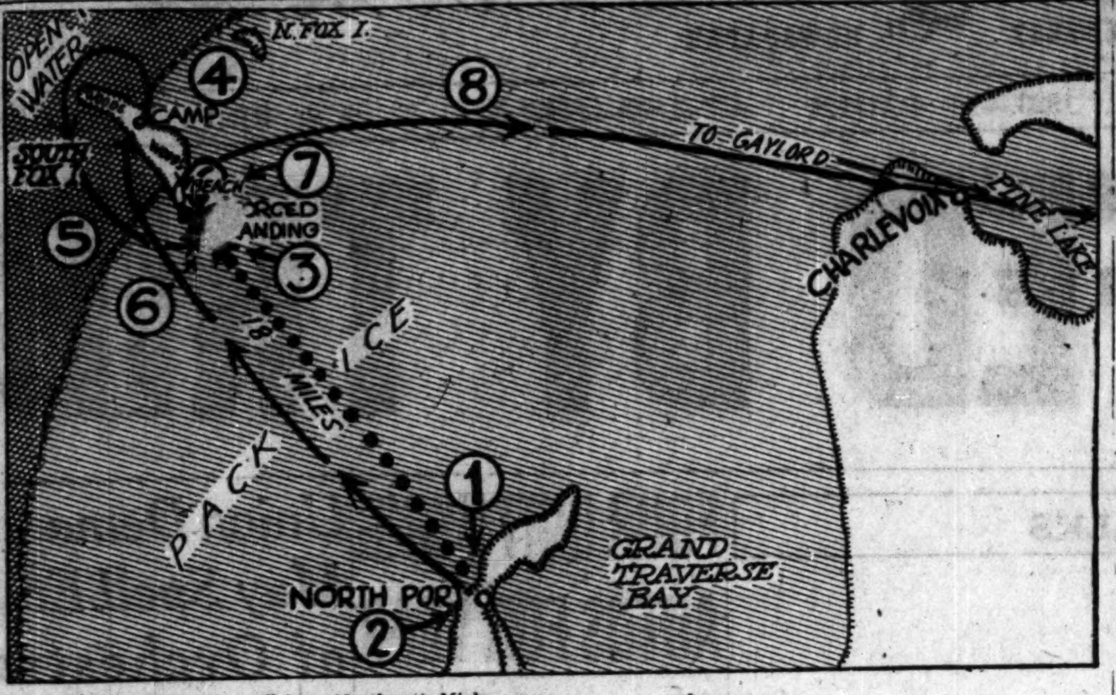
We saw an airplane on the ground at one end of the island. We landed in a bad field about 3:30 o'clock and found the plane—the Briquet—on the ground with Parker, Miller and the two Chicago newspaper men there beside it.

On their way down to the island they had nearly lost their lives. They left Northport at 2 p. m. and their motor went bad over the water and they just had time to make a landing on the beach. They had not found any people on the island and they asked if we had seen any one. We proffered food or help, but they said they still had some provisions. Their pilot thought they would be able to get off soon. They were about three or four miles from the loggers, separated by a dense undergrowth.

We waited a while and then took off a little before 4 o'clock. It was a dangerous take-off, as we just missed the trees. This man Wooldridge is the best pilot I have ever seen.

We headed east for Charlevoix and landed at Gaylord in two feet of snow, reaching here at 4:30 o'clock. The other people may be on the island all night, and again they may get their Briquet righted and be able to fly again.

EVENTS IN FOX ISLAND RESCUE



1. Parker plane takes off from Northport, Mich.
2. TRIBUNE food plane arrives at Northport. Takes off for South Fox island.
3. Parker plane, forced to land, just reaches island; drops on the ice at beach.
4. TRIBUNE food plane sails over starving inhabitants; drops sacks of food to them; sees them get it.
5. TRIBUNE plane flies about island.
6. Sees fallen Parker plane on beach.
7. Lands to see if crew of Parker plane needs assistance.
8. Finds no one hurt, takes off, and flies to Gaylord, Mich.

MANY FALSE RUMORS

Rumors as well as airplanes were flying about Lake Michigan yesterday and last night concerning the fate of the marooned South Fox islanders and the various rescue expeditions that took the air. This before the definite news sent back to THE TRIBUNE from its staff man, Morrow Krum.

From Detroit late last night came this query:

"Reported from Northport that all planes lost in Lake Michigan. Have you anything on it?"

A news service bulletin from Northport late last night reported:

"The fate of the woman and nine men marooned on South Fox island, eighteen miles off shore in Lake Michigan from Northport, was still unknown here tonight. Of the five airplanes which speeded to the rescue of the wood cutters, two were permanently disabled and the other three apparently lost."

Northport Schools Close.

Northport was buzzing with excitement all day and school children ran to the windows so often to see what was going on that the teachers finally had to close schools for the day, according to despatches. Business houses also shut down and everybody was peering at the sky, gossiping or looking out from the bluffs over the mist and fog of the lake toward Fox island and its mystery.

Word of the plight of the little colony of wood cutters on the island was first brought to the mainland on Wednesday by three men who had left the island in a small boat. Their boat was crushed in the ice, but they fought their way over ice floes, jumping and falling, and struggling for forty-eight hours, until they reached the mainland exhausted and barely able to tell their story. They asked that food be sent at once by airplane, as that was the only method of crossing the ice.

Of the five planes that responded, two have been accounted for in the story sent by Krum from Gaylord to THE TRIBUNE last night. Two others met with disaster near Northport.

The first, a big army plane from Selfridge field, Mount Clemens, Mich., fell in the harbor Thursday and was so badly damaged that it could not continue. A crew of men were trying to chop it out of the ice yesterday. The second, a De Haviland piloted by Lieut. Russell Meredith, flew from Selfridge field yesterday. Landing at Northport, the bomber was stripped of its propellor and landing gear as it crashed near the shore. The pilot and a Detroit newspaper man who accompanied him were unhurt.

WORD FROM TINSLEY

The fifth plane is accounted for in the following dispatch received last night.

BY MURRELL TINSLEY.

INTERNAL WARS ALARM SOVIETS; CHEKA IS CENSOR

The Tribune has learned from independent and indisputable sources that the censorship in Russia is now in the hands of the cheka, and that each letter is scrutinized and information unfavorable to the soviets strictly eliminated. The cheka opens and censors all the corespondence of the American Relief administration.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

RIGA, April 20.—[Tribune Radio.]—A strict censorship has been established at Moscow, but news has been received of an important joint meeting of the central committee of the communist party, the soviet people's commissars and the all Russian central executive committee. This meeting was alarmed by reports of MM. Trotsky, Radek, and Soronov, the secretary of the executive committee, who have returned to Moscow after a tour throughout Russia investigating the strength of the communist party.

The three investigators agreed that the situation was growing more and more serious because of the rapidly falling authority of the communists. Riots are breaking out in southern Russia and the Caucasian district which are hard to suppress.

MAN OF 2 WIVES NABBED TALKING TO NEW FIANCEE

Rude Police Burst Into Hotel Tete-a-Tete.

Chauncey Mitchell Miller stood in the lobby of the Plaza hotel yesterday discussing with Mrs. Beatrice Ann Campbell of Harrison, Ark., the details of their approaching marriage. To them entered Sergts. Guynn and Kerr of the detective bureau. They had come on other business, but Miller's marked resemblance to a man who was wanted intrigued them.

Polite but firm, they asked him a few questions. Mrs. Campbell listened anxiously. A few moments later she was horrified to see her prospective husband arrested on a charge of bigamy.

A Marrying Printer.

Miller, who is 31 years old and a printer, is said to have been married thirteen years ago to Miss Jessie Patton. Mrs. Miller the first and her 12-year-old son live at 4422-A McPherson street, St. Louis.

Last September Miller came to Chicago and made the acquaintance of Miss Lois Osmon of 715 East 50th street, meeting her at the Merry Garden dance hall. He represented himself to be Marion Mitchell, vaudeville artist and actor, scenario writer, author, theater manager, and a few other things. He persuaded her to be married to him and took her to New York for the world's series for their honeymoon, she says.

Two days afterward he left her at their hotel, giving her a large check. From then until a few weeks ago, when he returned to Chicago and called her on the telephone, she did not see him again. She went to his hotel and told him she was "through." Miller accepted her decision and, she alleges, gave her a check for $275 which proved to be worthless.

"Horrors!" Says Latest.

Meanwhile, still under the name of Mitchell, he continued his courtship of Mrs. Campbell. Miss Osmon became suspicious and made inquiries, the result of which led to a search for him. The arrest followed.

At the station Miller admitted his guilt. He said he liked "stepping out" occasionally and this was the result. Mrs. Campbell listened to his confession in amazement.

"Horrors!" she gasped.

When in St. Louis, Miller is employed by the River City Press.

JUNE MAY BRING NEW CRISIS IN CITY'S BUILDING

Delay in Signing Up Agreements Cited.

The controversy in the Chicago building industry between the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award and the Building Trades council will come to a crisis June 1 unless in the meantime contractors sign new agreements with the five open shop trades which have been living up to the provisions of the Landis award since early in January, Edward Ryan, president of the Building Trades council, announced last night.

These five building trades are the roofers, cement finishers, hoisting engineers, fixture hangers and laborers. They have been placed on an open shop basis by the citizens' committee for repudating Landis award agreements.

Letters Sent to Trades.

"Last December at one of the regular meetings of the Building Trades council it was decided to send a communication to each of the thirteen so-called anti-Landis award trades," said Ryan. The communication requested officials of these building trades to lay the matter of accepting the Landis award provisions before their memberships. Five of the thirteen have already notified the trades council of their acceptance.

"This action automaticly gives the five trades the 100 per cent support of the nineteen Landis award trades which comprise the Building Trades council. We are morally bound to aid these trades and we intend to do it."

Two Sign Up.

Discussing agreements between the Landis award trades and contractors Ryan said that up to the present, only the bricklayers and stone derrick men have signed new agreements. He said in former years most of the unions would have had their new agreements signed by this time of the building season.

Contractors who live up to their pledge to abide by the provisions of the Landis award will be supported 100 per cent by the citizens' committee to enforce the award during the ensuing building season of 1923-24, Thomas E. Donnelley, president of the committee, announced last night following a meeting with carpenter contractors at the Union League club. "New lists of contractors, who have expressed their determination to operate under the Landis award after May 31 will be published within a short time," Donnelley said.

GERMANS CLAIM FRENCH HELPED MULHEIM REDS

Police Break Siege by a Sudden Sortie.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, April 20.—The German newspapers are filled with implications of the connivance of the French with the communists in the Mulheim outbreak, in which at least eight lives were lost and about seventy wounded. The entire evening press declares the communist wounded were cared for by the French, and Belgian sentries made no attempt to prevent communists from crossing bridges into the city.

The Deutsche Allgemeine says the communists have turned over the policemen taken prisoner to the French. It is also claimed that the rioters were made up of criminal elements under communist leadership.

Reds Call Conference.

Unoccupied Germany is nervous tonight as a result of the Mulheim outbreak, fearing activities in other communist centers, especially Halle, where there were battles two years ago. The communists today ordered a conference tomorrow of all the unemployed councils in Barmen to discuss the situation, which is rapidly becoming more serious. The idleness is spreading rapidly throughout the industrial districts, and it is feared this may lead any day to dangerous results.

Pope Pius will not interfere in the Ruhr situation despite diplomatic advances from both sides, THE TRIBUNE learned tonight from an individual in close touch with Mgr. Testa. The papal degelate's first report has already been sent to Rome, but the final report will not be made until Testa returns to Rome. He visited President Ebert today and he will talk with Chancellor Cuno and Baron von Rosenberg, the foreign minister, tomorrow.

Mulheim Fears New Attack.

Mulheim, April 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—The citizens of Mulheim and its vicinity tonight are organizing for self-protection against the unemployed bands which were dispersed this morning from the center of the town and now are assembling in the outskirts.

Armed with axe handles and other improvised weapons, the people of Mulheim are ready to repel any further invasion of the town by the malcontents.

The Red Cross society's representatives say that nine or ten persons are dead and seventy wounded in consequence of the three days of mob rule; but this count is not an accurate one, inasmuch as those who had besieged the rathaus and other parts of the town carried away some of their dead and injured. Most of those among the unemployed who were injured were beaten over the head with clubs. Ten of the defenders of the rathaus received bullet wounds.

Defeated Rioters Plunder.

In the suburbs, where the bands driven out of the town are gathering, it is reported that they are holding up pedestrians and plundering. Some of the men entered a restaurant owned by a man named Rosenthal and ordered meals and drinks. When the bill was presented a fight was started and Rosenthal was killed and his son shot four times.

Thirty leaders of the besiegers were arrested. One of them, a man named Kurten, is said to have been the leader of the Kiel revolution in 1918. He resisted arrest and was wounded, probably fatally.

Burgomaster Lempke, with 300 city employés and a detachment of security police who are supposed to have been summoned from Duisburg and elsewhere in anticipation of trouble, had been besieged since Wednesday.

The besieging forces, who called themselves the "unemployed," numbered about 2,000, but the burgomaster declares there are only 800 unemployed men in Muelheim.

TIRED OF CLIMBING STAIRS

These teachers were among the 2,000 high school instructors who attended the spring conference yesterday at Hyde Park High school. They made a plea for smaller schools and voiced condemnation of schools where a teacher is compelled to climb several flights of stairs. Left to right in the photo are: Miss Kathryn Fleming, Mrs. Armanda Eiberg, Miss Luella Buckley, Mrs. Ruth Witt, Miss Miriam Hartman, Miss Margaret Murphy, and Miss Ruth Rathburn.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Decry Big Buildings, "Mob" Classes.

Lessen the strain on a teacher's ankles and you can increase the pressure on her brain. Hire a pedagogue to teach, not to climb stairs. Make her an academic professor, not the clerical head of a factory.

More than 2,000 high school teachers made these demands yesterday at their spring conference at Hyde Park High school when they staged a scholastic rebellion against large schools. No high school, they demanded, should have more than 2,000 pupils. They based their claims on ankles, stair climbing, overcrowding into auditoriums, pushing and shoving in the halls, and a general "factory method" of education.

Adopt "Revolt" Resolutions.

Under the leadership of Miss Mabel Blazier of the Nicholas Senn High school, they put their demands in the form of resolutions, which were adopted almost unanimously.

The pedagogue of the little red school house, they stated, may have had to build her own fires, but she never had to roll up mileage chasing Johnny from his English class to the gymnasium. She had to teach all subjects, but she didn't have to do clerical work that would stagger a trained office worker. And when she assembled her geometry class she didn't have to hire the Coliseum.

Evils of Large Schools.

The evils of large schools, as outlined in the resolutions, are as follows:

They require too much clerical work.

The necessary rapidity of motion in climbing dozens of flights of stairs daily, the pushing and shoving in the halls, and the incessant noises injure the nervous system and the heart of both teacher and pupil.

The shift system is wasteful.

The present tendency of the board of education is to build "still larger" buildings.

With the present school mobs, pupils are not individuals; they are numbers on a principal's record.

The charming qualities of youth are destroyed by "factory methods" of education.

JAMES LAWLEY, WIDELY KNOWN IN POLITICS, DIES

JAMES H. LAWLEY.

James H. Lawley, former alderman of the Fourteenth ward for five terms and chairman of the finance committee of the sanitary district board, died at the Norwegian-American hospital yesterday afternoon as the result of a nervous and physical collapse brought on by overwork. Mr. Lawley was one of the Lueder workers in the recent mayoralty campaign and was taken to the hospital shortly after the election. He was a former city hall adherent, but broke with the Thompson-Lundin machine. He was born in Chicago in 1876 and studied at the Illinois College of Law. Later he became a chemist and a department manager for the wholesale liquor firm of Dalemand & Co. His residence was at 1925 West Chicago avenue.

John Tracy, 8124 Justine street, died in the Englewood hospital yesterday from injuries received on Thursday when a boiler at the Herbert Boiler company's plant, 140 Root street, fell upon him.

DUST EXPLOSION IN ARGO PLANT KILLS 1, HURTS 10

One man was fatally burned and ten others seriously burned, scores of windows broken, and the whole town shaken by a terrific explosion in the starch plant of the Corn Products Refining company in Argo, Ill., early yesterday.

The man who succumbed to his injuries is James Ritter, who died last night at Wesley hospital.

The explosion, which occurred shortly after 8 a. m., is believed to have been due to spontaneous combustion of dust. It was followed by a fire in the plant, a two-story concrete structure, which did considerable damage to the machinery before being extinguished. The damage is estimated at $5,000.

The names of the injured men are Numanhomie Listhuck, Bernard Marshall, Clarence Wrenn, John Carrie, John Kumpus, Nathan Carter, James Paulton, Samuel Mustassa, John Richards, and Lonan Depuy.

SCORNS ALIMONY AFTER A $30,000 PROFIT IN DEAL

Real estate speculations which netted her $30,000 in one transaction made it possible for Mrs. Frances M. Peckham of the Congress hotel to scorn alimony from Frederick A. Peckham, Philadelphia contractor, in the hearing of her suit for divorce before Judge Timothy D. Hurley yesterday.

Together with the chorus of the "Follies of 1920" and several other women more or less favorably known in Chicago society, Mrs. Peckham was named as a confidante of "Rolls Royce" James H. Murphy in the divorce suit recently filed by Mrs. Meta Murphy, 219 Lake Shore drive.

The decree to be issued by Judge Hurley will affirm an agreement effected between the couple in which Peckham has guaranteed the education of their son, Frederick Spencer Peckham, at Peekskill Military academy, Peekskill, N. Y.

HARDING HEARS G. O. P. IS SPLIT ON WORLD COURT

Advised to Avoid Topic on Speaking Trip.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—If President Harding continues his advocacy of the world court plan he will do so at the imminent peril of splitting the Republican party wide open on the eve of a national campaign in which the closest unity may be required to win.

This was the warning conveyed to the President today by Representative Wood [Rep., Ind.], chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, upon his return from a trip in the middle west.

Mr. Wood's views are shared by Senator Moses [Rep., N. H.], chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, and it is understood, John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican national committee, as well as other organization leaders.

Mr. Wood carried with him to the White House letters from influential Republicans who support his views.

Divided Into Two Factions.

The controversy over the world court has developed into a tug of war between the Hughes-Hoover faction, broadly speaking, on the one side, and congressional and organization leaders on the other. Apparently the efforts of the anti-court forces to pull the President over to their side have been unsuccessful up to this time. Although no statement was forthcoming from the White House concerning Mr. Wood's visit, it seemed apparent that the President was still determined to go ahead with his advocacy of making the United States a member of the world court.

Party leaders are still hopeful, however, that they will be able to induce the President, if he will not abandon the court plan, at least to "soft pedal" it in the speeches he will make on his western "swing around the circle."

Arguments by the "Antis."

In the event he persists in featuring the court in his addresses they believe there is no doubt that "irreconcilable" senators—notably Johnson [Rep. Cal.]—will promptly take the stump against him in the country in which they are seasoned campaigners. Furthermore, they point out, the administration may have a long and tedious task to bring the court protocol to a vote in the senate after it reconvenes in December, in which event Mr. Harding might find it embarrassing to discuss it as an issue with influential members of his own party largely responsible for blocking action.

Following the visit of Mr. Wood, the President discussed the court plan with Elihu Root, former secretary of state, who is strongly in favor of an international tribunal of justice. Mr. Root, with his usual reticence, declined to discuss the conference, but it was understood he was giving Mr. Harding some information he had gained in his long experiences with the question of international courts, particularly The Hague tribunal.

Wood Finds Hostility.

Mr. Wood did not appear at the White House as a revolter himself. He was merely rendering a report. He expressed the opinion that the opposition to the court was based somewhat on misunderstanding, but said nevertheless the sentiment against the plan appeared to be even stronger than it was against the league of nations. The people, he said, regarded it as "another link in the league of nations sausage."

UNCLE SAM HAS DROPPED COAT IN FIGHT ON SUGAR

Plans Criminal Cases After Civil Suit.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—That criminal proceedings will be commenced in connection with the government's attack upon sugar speculation was reiterated today at the White House.

It was declared that the intention is to begin criminal prosecutions, supplementing the injunction suit started yesterday against the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange and the New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing association, as soon as complete evidence is assembled.

Aroused over the plans of the sugar interests to combat the government, Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, who is recuperating at Asheville, N. C., telephoned to Acting Attorney General A. T. Seymour to redouble efforts in preparation of the case.

Manly Asks Broader Inquiry.

Basil M. Manly, director of the people's legislative service, of which Senator La Follette [Rep., Wis.] is chairman, in a statement today declared the injunction proceedings alone would not cure the situation and that direct action against sugar speculators was necessary.

"The sensational decline of 75 points in sugar prices, following the announcement of injunction proceedings, vindicates the contention of the people's legislative service that the sugar market is purely artificial and not based upon sound economic conditions," said Mr. Manly.

"The form of action taken by the department of justice does not, however, seem to offer any probability of permanently curing the situation, or of reaching those who are actually responsible for the existing conspiracy to inflate sugar prices.

"Get After the Higher Ups."

"If the deprtment of justice and the administration are in earnest they will not stop with this injunction, but will proceed at once against those 'higher up' who control the sugar supply of the United States, including both cane and beet sugar."

BRITISH SEIZE DRUG SMUGGLER, $500,000 CARGO

Montreal, Que., April 20.—Seizure by the British authorities in midocean of a drug smuggler transporting $500,000 worth of narcotics from Germany to Canada, for distribution here and in the United States, was disclosed by the police today.

Members of the drug ring fled from Halifax in a hydro-airplane when their plans were discovered, it was reported here. They were said to have been in communication with their confederates on the boat, which was bound for Halifax.

Police believe that the conspirators planned to smuggle the drugs into the United States by air.

DRUMMER TAKES POISON IN FEAR OF LOSING GIRL

Ill, Jobless, and Broke, Ends Life at 64.

Ill, despairing over financial reverses, out of employment, and fearful that he would lose the girl he had taken to live with him "as his daughter," Edward Kelly, 64 years old, a cousin of Municipal Judge John K. Prindiville, lay dying in the county hospital last night as a result of swallowing carbolic acid in his room in the Majestic hotel.

Miss Rose Hummer of Council Bluffs, Ia., 27 years old, who is registered at the hotel as his wife, but who insists their intimacy was platonic and that they were to be married, told the police of the events which led up to Kelly's act.

"He was in financial trouble and afraid he would lose me if I found it out," she said. "But I wouldn't have left him for anything. If he had only known it!"

A Drummer, a Salesgirl.

Miss Hummer said she met Kelly, who was a millinery salesman, four years ago in Council Bluffs.

"I was a salesgirl then and he used to come into the store to sell goods. That's how I got acquainted with him.

"Well, finally, he bought the store and put me in to run it while he sold goods on the road. I made good, but he became lonely for me. At last I couldn't bear to see him so sorry to go away from me and I went with him—sold the store and went traveling with him. That was two years ago.

"We decided at last it would be best for me to go back into business again; he woud join me then and perhaps stop selling goods and settle down somewhere. His health began to fail and he thought more and more of this; but here recently, when he would have liked to carry out his plan, he didn't have the money.

"This morning he arose early as he was accustomed to doing. I awoke and he told me to remain and sleep a while. I dozed as he went away. In a few moments he came back and I thought he was sobbing. I became wide awake then. When I bent over him I smelled the carbolic acid."

"Forgive Me," He Writes.

Kelly left three notes. One of these was to Miss Hummer; one to Mrs. M. J. Hackett, 1359 East 48th street, his sister, and the third to Walter Joseph Sullivan of 6700 Sheridan road, a Board of Trade operator.

His letter to Miss Hummer read as follows:

"Rose: I have tried, O, so hard, dear, to keep my mind right. It has been a blank at times and I have not realized what I was doing. Forgive me, if you can, and will, I know. Well, be happy and give, if you can, a kindly thought to me. ED."

NEW LAW CHIEF FIRES 23 WITH NO WORK TO DO

Winds Up Busy Hour by Naming Four Aids.

Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch spent an hour yesterday hiring and firing law department aids.

He began by dismissing twenty-three of the Lundin-Thompson law investigators in the office. He said the order was not a political one. The chief reason for the dismissals, he said, was because he could not find any work for the investigators to do. Joseph Mueller, chief investigator, headed the list. He has been paid $3,000 a year.

"I am going through the department, ascertaining the work of each employe, and when I can find nothing for an assistant or an investigator to do I am letting him or her out," Mr. Busch said.

Names Four Assistants.

He named four assistant city prosecutors during the day. They are Joseph Belinski, 1906 South Ashland avenue; Anthony O'Malley, 6524 Yale avenue; Oscar S. Caplan, 3548 West 12th street, and Gibson Gorman, 2731 West 36th street.

Mr. Busch also announced the shattering of another of the Lundin-Thompson law department idols by declaring against the payment of $50 and $100 per diem fees to lawyers. He said it will be the policy of the department to assign all cases to regular assistants paid by the year. Under the Thompson régime there was a constant effort to increase the number of per diem lawyers.

Suits Action to Words.

Suiting action to his words, Mr. Busch turned the Western avenue widening case over to Frank M. Padden, a $6,000 a year assistant who is slated to be first assistant when he is broken in by First Assistant James W. Breen of the old régime. Attorney Roger Faherty, son of the former head of the board of local improvements, has been drawing down $50 a day for his handling of the Western avenue case.

Mr. Busch announced that Albert H. Veeder Jr., son of Albert H. Veeder, general counsel for Swift & Co., is one of the few assistants who will be retained by the Dever administration. He will continue to be paid $6,000 a year.

Job Pressure Keeps Up.

Despite Mayor Dever's absence, the pressure for city hall jobs did not abate. Former Ald. William J. Lynch and former Bailiff Ike Doff appeared to have strong backing for the $4,800 job of city harbor master. Four names are mentioned for the job of public service commissioner. They are former Ald. James B. Bowler, former Ald. Frank Roeder; James Dailey, and George C. Sikes of the bureau of public efficiency.

A LESSON IN COURTESY

Courtesy as a factor in police work was driven home to the entire police force yesterday when Chief of Police Collins, on his fourth day in office, suspended Acting Desk Sergeant Cashman of the Englewood station for grunting into the police telephone transmitter.

The chief called the station to make an inquiry. Cashman answered. To all questions he responded with a grunt. When the chief told Cashman he was speaking to the general superintendent, the acting sergeant intoned: "The hell I am!" and hung up. In five minutes an order was out suspending him.

"Had any citizen complained of such discourtesy, I would not have believed him," the chief said. "I'm glad it happened to me and not to a citizen. Cashman will go before the trial board and I hope to make an example of him."

HANDS OF DEATH

O'BRIEN AS "MAYOR"

Though neither the city ordinances nor the state law make any provision for appointment of an acting mayor in absence of the chief executive, Mayor Dever believes that some city official should be placed at the municipal helm during his absence.

Accordingly he sent a telegram yesterday from his vacation rendezvous naming Martin J. O'Brien to act as mayor until the latter's return. Mr. O'Brien took up temporary quarters in the mayor's suite and received the many visitors who came to call on Mayor Dever.

Fall from Belt Line Car Results in Man's Death

PORTO RICANS DREAM OF BEING MADE A STATE

they were frankly secessionists. The Unionistas, the dominant party, were threatened with reverses at the hands of the people, who are not in favor of independence, and they soon retreated from their position.

Seek to Avoid Some Obligations.

When you come to examine the sort of statehood the Porto Ricans want, according to their leaders, you realize how little sincerity there could have been in the demand for independence.

Under American rule Porto Rico has enjoyed a number of generous subsidies such as have been granted to none but dependencies. The customs revenue collected in Porto Rico is not turned into the federal treasury, but is retained and expended in Porto Rico. The same is true of certain internal revenue assessments. The Porto Ricans have been allowed likewise to adapt the federal income tax law to their own peculiar conditions and the revenue therefrom is not paid into the federal treasury.

As a result of these federal subsidies it has not been necessary for the Porto Ricans to tax themselves for the upkeep of their local government as do the forty-eight states. Real estate and personal property taxes, unknown under the Spanish régime as a result of aristocratic domination, came with American rule, but they are still negligible as a revenue producer.

So the Porto Ricans are seeking a preferential statehood status which it would be impossible to give them without amendment of the constitution.

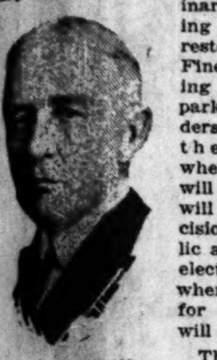
RESTORATION OF FIELD MUSEUM UP TO VOTERS

S. Park Board Assailed; Gives $500,000.

South park commissioners yesterday appropriated $500,000 for preliminary work looking toward the restoration of the Fine Arts building in Jackson park, with the understanding that the question whether the work will be completed will be left for decision by the public at the judicial election next fall, when a bond issue for that purpose will be submitted.



JOHN BARTON PAYNE.

Their action was taken over vehement protest from many men and women representing the organizations that have been active in the campaign for the restoration of the building. These citizens took the view that the commission should have voted a straight ticket—an uninterrupted program for the reconstruction, with sufficient money from the general improvement funds.

So insistent were the protestations that John Barton Payne, president of the board, declined to listen to the last of their arguments, and ordered a roll call.

"It's no use going on with this," Mr. Payne said to C. H. Hammond, vice president of the Association of Commerce, who had risen to speak.

Resolution by Sunny.

The following resolution by Commissioner B. E. Sunny was then voted, 3 to 1:

"Be it resolved by the South Parks commissioners that the superintendent be authorized and instructed to prepare plans and specifications for the permanent restoration of the Fine Arts building in Jackson park to restore the building in exact accordance with its original design and appearance.

"Said plans shall call for a substantial restoration with permanent materials such as the Earley or a similar process, which will, in the opinion of the general superintendent, produce same appearance and strength in the finished product.

"Be it further resolved that the South Park commission appropriate sufficient funds, not to exceed $500,000, to do all necessary preliminary work therefor.

"And further that there be submitted to the voters at the November, 1923, judicial election a bond issue sufficient to cover cost of said restoration and if the bond issue be approved that the restoration work be done as promptly as may be."

Bain Votes "No."

Commissioner John Bain voted "no," saying he didn't believe the plan did enough for the building.

Frank G. Logan, vice president of the Art institute; George W. Maher of the American Institute of Architects, Mrs. A. L. Headburg of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and Isaac Powell, president of the South Side Trust and Savings bank, voiced emphatic opposition to the resolution before Mr. Hammond was prevented from speaking and the vote taken.

Afterward Mrs. Headburg, Mr. Maher, and Mr. Hammond assailed the action, each charging it was due to the domination of Mr. Payne.

"He is an autocrat, who has outlived his usefulness to Chicago," declared Mr. Hammond. "Let it be understood the Association of Commerce is not backing this project through sentiment. To Chicago, the value of the building, restored, would be five times the cost. It is a practical matter."

Mr. Payne replied:

"The commission has not enough money available to appropriate for the completion of the work. What unused money we have was voted for our small parks improvement and we do not intend to use it for any purpose other than that. There are some people who believe the small parks are quite as important as this building. If the people want the restoration they can vote for it."

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—The appellate division of the Supreme court received papers today on an appeal taken by Stella Adler, known on the stage as Stella Larrimore, from the order of Justice James O'Malley, denying her the right to a jury trial as co-respondent named by Geraldine Farrar Tellegen for a divorce from Lou Tellegen. Louis B. Brodsky, attorney for Miss Larrimore, submitted papers for the appellant.

TRIANON OUT TO SHATTER 90 HOUR DANCING RECORD

Preparations for Chicago's own fox trot marathon went on merrily yesterday despite announcement of possible police interference by the new chief of police, Morgan A. Collins.

While ministers raised their hands in horror and physical instructors predicted all sorts of resulting maladies, entries continued to pour into the offices of the Trianon ball room, where the endurance contest is to be held next Tuesday night.

The race at the Trianon is to be on strictly scientific lines. "No cripples need apply," is the slogan of the management, which hopes by weeding out the unfit before the start, that all records will be smashed.

RUM FLEET MAY BE TARGET FOR U. S. NAVY GUNS

Cabinet Seeks Way to Stop Liquor Smuggling.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—The federal government is getting ready to use its strong right arm, represented by the guns of the navy, to stop rum running into the United States, particularly along the Jersey coast.

Means of breaking up the liquor smuggling were discussed at today's cabinet meeting, almost to the exclusion of all other business. President Harding, it was stated at the White House, does not intend that the governmen shall remain impotent against the rum runners, even though many of them fly flags of other nations, and he will reveal the plan decided upon to meet the situation within the next few days.

Admittedly the almost continuous presence of fleets of whisky laden vessels off the coast of New Jersey, ready to sell their cargoes to motor boats or other swift craft, willing to run the gauntlet to United States ports is a matter of grave concern to the administration.

Diplomatic Notes Unavailing.

This situation already has been the subject of international diplomatic exchanges, particularly between the United States and Great Britain, because many of the British island possessions off the American coast have served as bases of supply for the rum carriers, but the results of these negotiations have been far from satisfactory.

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes is known to favor an extension of the "prohibition navy" which is now composed of a few vessels that are not able to cope with the swifter small vessels that act as lighters for the ocean going rum runners that remain just beyond the three mile limit.

It is possible that some of the eagle boats, which were built during the war by Henry Ford, and some of the sub marine chasers will be assigned to the coast patrol.

Saw Smuggling in Dixie.

When President Harding was in Florida recently he had an opportunity to learn of the difficulties being experienced in the gulf states in preventing the smuggling of whisky, rum and other alcoholic liquors from Bimini and other foreign owned islands along the coast.

But the manner in which foreign vessels are flouting the American prohibition laws as reported in today's papers after Palmer Canfield, the new prohibition director of New York, had visited the rum fleet on the coast guard cutter Manhattan yesterday, was especially irritating and this came in for much discussion by the cabinet.

KIDNAPED AT SEA, CHARGE; ASKSFOR $50,000 DAMAGES

Lawyer Sues Capt. Evans and Ex-Aid.

Samuel S. Ripley wants $50,000 damages for his adventures in the south seas, according to a bill filed yesterday in United States District court here against Capt. Waldo Evans, now commandant of Great Lakes Naval Training station, and W. A. Macdonald of Lake Bluff.

Ripley alleges that he was thrown in the brig of the ship Sanoma when it reached Pago Pago and remained a prisoner throughout a cruise of sixty days, finally escaping when the ship reached Honolulu.

Bill Alleges Trickery.

According to the bill, Ripley sailed from San Francisco Aug. 1, 1921, and fifteen days later reached Pago Pago, where he expected to act as attorney for his parents, who are said to hold large interests in Samoa. He alleges that when the boat neared Pago Pago he was asked to deposit $100 with the purser as some sort of custom payment, the nature of which he did not know. Later demands were made for a second $100, Ripley alleges, which he paid.

Later Capt. Evans appeared with Macdonald and a man "who purported to be a customs official," the bill states, and ordered Attorney Ripley to be placed under armed guard "without any reason or probable cause whatsoever."

Held Prisoner, He Says.

He was held a prisoner until the ship got to Sydney, New South Wales, where he was unable to land because he did not have passports for that port. He was again made prisoner during a trip to several points, including Australian ports, and then taken to Honolulu on the homeward voyage.

Capt. Evans was governor of Samoa at the time of the alleged kidnaping, and Macdonald was his secretary, according to Attorney William D. Gemmill of the firm of Urion, Drucker, Reichmann & Boutell, attorneys, who filed Ripley's bill.

HIGH PAY PLUS PROFITS GIVES PROSPERITY.

The Illinois Central and Big Four railroads have joined the ranks of big businesses giving voluntary wage increases to their employés. More than 12,000 shop workers on one line and an army of maintenance of way men on the other are beneficiaries. There was no strike, no loss of time or production, no inconvenience to the public or to industry served. The incident will be universally accepted as a pleasant and profitable business arrangement.

Following, as it does, recently announced increases in pay for the many thousands of steel workers, packing house employés, eastern textile mills workers, and others—also without strikes—it reveals a situation in this country which should be as acceptable to employers as to labor. It offers the best possible argument against any agitation to lift the present bars against immigration for the purpose of providing cheap labor.

These raises are not only the effect of a labor shortage superimposed upon prosperity. They are, in part, a cause of prosperity. This additional sum of money distributed among some hundreds of thousands of workers is not removed from circulation. It is put into circulation. Probably more than 90 per cent of it is spent within a week after it reaches the recipients. That stimulates prosperity. The firms which are giving these raises are getting the money back in increased business. That is what they want.

The ill effects of a labor shortage and high pay upon business are infinitesimal compared to the good effects. Employers and employés alike will do well to remember this when agitation for admission of more workers at lower wages is promoted. We have no doubt the workers will remember it and impress it upon congress. Employers are not so likely to do so. Each is inclined to think that his own business would keep up regardless of wages in other businesses, and his own profits would be greater if he could hire cheaper labor. That is not true. Prosperity, to be worth the name, must be at least national in scope. It is that now. We cannot afford to imperil it.

MERIT ABOVE INTRIGUE IN CITY POLITICS.

The news that Mayor Dever is preparing to end the "sixty day appointee" scandal of the Thompson administration and restore the spirit as well as the letter of civil service in city government in preference to the discredited spoils system is one of the most encouraging developments of the new régime in the city hall.

Under the Lundin-Thompson machine "sixty day appointees" could become six year appointees. The machine discovered very early in its career that it could appoint "emergency" employés for sixty days, pending certification of regular civil service eligibles to the jobs. With the coöperation of Percy B. Coffin as president of the city civil service commission, the Lundin-Thompson machine found that it could virtually set aside civil service through this ruse and add hundreds of payrollers to the support of its interests. The extent to which this was done is revealed by the announcement that more than 2,400 such employés, who have never taken merit tests, are now on the city pay roll.

Mayor Dever purposes to throw these beneficiaries of Thompson political tactics into the street if they cannot pass the legitimate civil service tests, and to replace them with employés who earn the jobs through demonstration of merit for the work rather than through demonstration of ability as vote getters. That reveals honesty of purpose and assures efficiency of employés. That is what Chicago needs.

By continuing to think and act upon these lines Mayor Dever will prove that efficiency and economy in city government are a more valuable asset to political ambition than is the best "machine" ever evolved by intriguing politicians.

EXIT THE BLUE SUNDAY BILL.

The state senator who introduced the blue Sunday measure has withdrawn it. The members of the city council who would not vote a protest against it have been heard in a not very satisfying explanation. The incident is closed, but the outcome is the result not of any intelligent action by our legislators but of a spontaneous revolt of public opinion.

The affair is useful in two ways. It has shown the extremity to which fanatical reform will go and the response it may expect from public opinion. But it also reminds us that we have a right to be protected by our representatives from organized minorities, clamorous for special legislation which a consensus of the community does not demand or desire. We have a plague of such enactments, slipped into the statute books without any general mandate of public opinion, where they are unenforced or unenforceable. This is a considerable factor in the evil we call disrespect for law.

We need that our legislators shall do some thinking for themselves and have courage to resist the clamorous groups who regard nothing but their own specialty. Until we have them, as Chief Justice Thompson pointed out the other night, we shall suffer an ever increasing paternalism, and be running to the government for a remedy for everything.

AMERICA'S PLACE IN THE AIR.

A special dispatch from Paris to THE TRIBUNE reveals the military authorities of France—probably the most effective in the world—as laughing at American satisfaction with the recent endurance and speed records set by two of our aviators. It is to be hoped that the sound of this laughter will awaken us to the true situation.

It is all very well for American army officers and for the American public to congratulate themselves upon the brilliant achievements of individual American army aviators. But there is danger if we allow our satisfaction in these isolated achievements to blind us to our general inferiority in aerial military preparedness.

Last year while the American army air service was putting 200 assorted airplanes into commission France was adding 1,000 of the most modern type of military planes to its forces. France has subsidized twenty-six airplane factories, a single one of which can turn out more completed planes than the five biggest American factories combined. At the present rate of growth France will have ten times America's aerial strength by the end of 1925.

France is doing these things because she leads the world in military thought and ability, and intends to continue to do so. Her military scientists dictate this program. They force less highly militarized nations to follow suit for self-protection. Japan, we know, has made marvelous strides in military aviation since the great war. England is developing this phase of military and naval tactics. In the circumstances the United States is foolish to allow itself to become a poor fourth, or even lower in international rating.

Immediate military requirements aside, it is economy to develop an adequate and highly trained air force with a reserve of effective planes, and facilities for building more. An airplane, it is said, is worth 100 infantrymen. It costs much less to provide and maintain. But aerial forces cannot be improvised. We proved that at the cost of more than $1,000,000,000 wasted in the last war.

Simple intelligence should move us to bestir ourselves. Money spent for this purpose will not be wasted. Planes and flyers can be kept in commission, ready for emergency, by subsidizing them in use for postal service and similar activities. That would train flyers, promote building, develop landing fields, and provide mechanical skill.

SWEET AND SOUR.

Sugar speculators have been having a sweet time in this country in recent weeks. Acting upon what may or may not have been a "popular misunderstanding" of an official report, they have created a widespread belief that a serious shortage of sugar is impending, and acting upon that belief have bid the price of sugar up more than 50 per cent. It has brought them unearned millions and added probably $3,000,000 a week to the cost of living.

Now Attorney General Daugherty has instituted civil proceedings to halt this speculation and this tax upon consumers, and is considering criminal action. That is proper if he can make out his case. But there is a method of disciplining them without court action. It is in the hands of the consumers.

Numerous investigations by various bodies which have been undertaken since this sugar speculation developed indicate that there is no real or probable shortage of sugar. Consumers can punish the speculators effectively and at the same time reduce the cost of sugar by ceasing to buy beyond the bare necessities of the immediate present. Such an action would leave vast supplies of sugar and sugar securities in the hands of the speculators. Eventually they would be forced to sell at a loss. That would cost them incalculably more than any federal fine possible under the suits planned.

The consumers of this country demonstrated in war days that they can get along nicely with a fraction of the amount of sugar they have recently been consuming. They have proved since the war that they are capable of conducting a buyers' strike. If housewives and restaurant men, manufacturers and consumers of food and drink containing sugar will unite for even a few weeks to restrict use of sugar they will chasten the profiteers and bring the price to a level based upon supply instead of upon propaganda.

Editorial of the Day

MR. TAFT'S $10,000 ANNUITY.

[Peoria Transcript.]

In correspondence between Representative Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota and R. A. Franks, vice chairman and treasurer of the Carnegie corporation, it is disclosed that Chief Justice Taft of the United States Supreme court is receiving an annuity of $10,000 under the will of the late Andrew Carnegie, who specifically names him as a legatee. Under the same will Mrs. Edith K. Roosevelt, widow of Theodore Roosevelt, and Mrs. Frances F. C. Preston, widow of Grover Cleveland, are each receiving $5,000 a year.

The incident, of course, will make copy for yellow newspapers, and there will be an insistent demand that Chief Justice Taft renounce his annuity, inasmuch as it is derived from the income of $200,000 of mortgage bonds of the United States Steel corporation. We can see nothing in the facts thus far developed which should make such renunciation either necessary or desirable. Mr. Taft was a private citizen when made a legatee under the Carnegie will. It is the privilege of a private citizen to receive an annuity from any legitimate source. Taft and Carnegie were old friends.

The fact the annuity is derived from income accruing from bonds of the steel corporation is unimportant. The ethics of the situation possibly would be clearer if ex-Presidents had no income of any kind, but none but a demagogue would begrudge the chief justice of the United States Supreme court a total income of $25,000, including his salary of $15,000.

Mr. Taft is one of the most conscientious public servants America ever produced. He is not a spendthrift or money-grubber. The Carnegie corporation is an administrator, not a lobbyist. Carnegie is dead. The corporation made no concealment of the facts in its letter to Representative Schall. Even if the government made ample provisions for the economic needs of its ex-Presidents and their widows, it would not be improper for them to exercise the privileges of private citizens.

If Presidents or ex-Presidents of the United States are disposed to take bribes, it is not necessary for them to accept annuities. All wills are made public. The nature of the Carnegie annuity is the best evidence of its legitimacy.

LIGHTENING LUEDER'S LOAD.

Jinny.—Dr. Butler doesn't like it; but you've mastered the idiom.

Riquarian.—Twenty-five per cent of the guesses were correct.

Guido.—Vous êtes tres poli!

Senn High.—See reply to Riquarian. Thank you!

H. G. E.—A reasonable surmise were that he is the brother of Dr. Fell's sister; but, why commit ourselves?

W. E. C.—You should; but—er!—that is, just when, and in what connection, did Lorado Taft say it?

Iphigenia.—U. is about, and eager. Q. H. Flaccus is not so bad. And, dubiously but heartily, thank you!

Re Vera.—You err: so far, we're in receipt of no cheers from the Circulation Department. On the whole, thank you!

H. M. M.—Indubitably: it pays THE TRIBUNE.

George H.—Funny; but, is it fair to take advantage of a pied line?

J. L. C., Lyons, Ia.—You overlooked the meticulous punctuation which distinguishes the Voice.

J. H. R.—Speaking of the color of your stationery: well, you played safe.

ONE OF YOU MAY BE RIGHT.

Sir: I'm writing for three of us—self and two others. We've an open mind among us on the subject of columns in general and The Line in particular, for the reason that we read none of the others, and, so, know all about what The Line should be. And we don't like you, Tantalus: honest! We don't know why, although we talked it over at some length before deciding to let you in on how we feel. Even then, Old Bean, we drew lots to see who'd say it to you; for we knew, you see, just how awful you'd feel about it.
J., J., AND P., per P.

THOSE of our cities which maintain first-flight orchestras are, so far, in agreement that a year-round season is out of the question; and we have yet to examine a satisfying reply to the appropriate "Why?" Mid-October to mid-April—from golf to golf—makes the definition of a season here as in Boston; in Philadelphia as in New-York City. Why for a week beyond the half-year should we be credited with appetite for Mr. Stock's ministrations, and then have it assumed that, for a week less than the other half, we neither require nor long for anything in kind? We, ourself, know few of the subscribers and patrons, whether of Friday afternoon or Saturday night, who do not lament the recurrence of today or today's equivalent in the precession of April Saturdays. Of course, something ought to be done about it: the sole difficulty is that there's nothing to be done.

We have fewer reasons for delimiting the music-year than any other city; for we have the best of the orchestras. We know, vaguely, that an assertion of the kind generally is held to be open to discussion; but now, we feel certain, there is no need for further argument in the matter. Six years have passed since a writer in THE TRIBUNE called ours the First Orchestra: it remains that; and, by the token, Mr. Stock is the First Conductor. Those who, with right to an opinion, may have doubt might resolve it by taking a trip 'round—and it is suggested that, if they seek unqualified conviction, they would better go on beyond the Belle of Bedloe's and take in the orchestras of England and the Continent. Mr. Moore, of the music-desk, gave to you, last Sunday, eloquent statistics as to what Mr. Stock has been doing; and he did not tell it all. Mr. Stock is what is known in the more abstruse philosophies as there.

AND THIS IS ONLY OUR FIRST WEEK!

Sir: I've lost time and money since Monday raking the old memory; and now I've caught you! Something in the skippy scan of the little verse embodying the medieval usage of "dither" hit me like an old friend. I cogitated, ruminated, meditated. I even thought! Then I dug back into the scrap-book, and was rewarded. You know: the happiness of being right diluted with the discovery that you were laying a Line of least resistance. . . . Stand up and hear the charge! That verse was printed, with others in kind, over the name of Christopher Morley in the New-York Evening Post back in July of '21.

Believe me, O Tantalus, when I tell you that, were I on the firing-squad in this case, I'd bribe the sergeant to put the blank in my rifle! I was just a-gettin' so that I thought I loved you!
BOZONIA.

You have, as you gloat, caught us, Bozonia: à la vérité, you have! It was in Mr. Morley's column, The Bowling-Green, 'round then, and, as you aver, over his name. But, we seem to recall, 'way over. You see, we put it there: nobody else could have done so; for nobody else is in possession of the complete works of Diggoty Dell. Mr. Morley, you see, was at the time the victim of interpellation as to "dither"; and we rushed in with a view of helping him out. And, Bozonia, entre nous, the name signed to the verses belonged to us by, reading from left to right, (1) baptism and (2) entail.

AND THERE'S NOTHING IN IT FOR US.

Sir: There's nothing much may be done with "to dither" over here. I've tried it. Typesetters shy at it; proofreaders question it; readers snicker at it. A publisher, leaning on a "public propriety" clause in our contract, insisted that I take "dither" out of a book, telling me that he acquitted me of any vulgar impulse, but that the word "unquestionably emits a lewd, unchaste implication." What could I do? 'Tis a nice, utterable word, as you tell us, but one which defies importation. Some words are like that. I'm afraid, Tantalus, the best we can do is to bootleg it. Do you know "didder," too? That's the same kind of a word. And there are so many others!
DIXIT.

Liking "dither," we sought to defend it, moved thatwise by a letter asking R. H. L. to fight it off. We do not share Dixit's hopelessness; and there are other words as to which we have greater concern. "Dude" is one: nothing else has taken the place it held in our schooldays. "Boob" is another: the lexicographers seem to be content with "booby," which is nothing like it. What other word can say what is said with "blah"? . . . And there are words which have been demeaned in our haste to acquire a special vocabulary apposite in the matter of Amendment XVIII: "bootlegger," for one; and "hootch," and "moonshine." They now are used in a sense hostile to their wholesome, virile origin.

WHICH, somehow, turns the mind to the fear that Larry Rue, who is out for THE TRIBUNE in the Near-East, has lost touch with affairs at home. Telling us, as he did in yesterday's, about the tidal wave of synthetic arrack in Angora, he cabled:

"And here, as in America, the bootlegger gets fined when caught, and sometimes fifty strokes with a whip extra."

ANGORA might offer a fertile field for the Count Yaselli, who, if he told the half of it, Dearie, in his recent memoirs in the Chicago Evening Post, stands in need of nothing else so much as a new goat.

SO well, thinks M. M. B., have we been lastlining that he sends a special-delivery to say so. But he is eager for authentic information as to what we should do if we were without something choice by way of a tag. "If it's a craft secret," he yields, "forgive me for asking!" It isn't, M. M. B., bless you! Procedure is simple in such conditions: you see,

WE omit it.

INSURANCE TABLES.

HERE is a man who is planning to take out life insurance. The agent tells him that until a given date his premium rate is so much, but if he postpones taking out his insurance so much as one day beyond that date, the rate will be a certain higher figure. The prospective purchaser knows that this advance is not a deadline proposition used to whip him into line. He knows that the advance is not arbitrary. In a general sort of way he knows that it is based on some sort of a table. But he does not know what table it is and he has no way of knowing whether the table is fair from the standpoint of the insured.

If he cares to take the trouble, he can get the information now. Let him go to the library and ask for United States Life Tables by Prof. J. W. Glover, United States bureau of the census, 1921. This mine of information gives the several tables used by insurance companies in calculating premium rates for different ages. These tables show the life expectancies at different ages for many million insured people. They cover a long term of years. But these expectancies relate to insured people only, and that means people of some financial and moral stability, financially able to pay premiums and physically able to pass examinations made by physicians.

By the side of these tables, Prof. Glover places his tables based on very close studies of American death rates at each age period. Some of these studies go back as far as 1890. Most of them relate to the ten years between 1901 and 1910. The death rate is falling so rapidly that a premium rate calculated on the basis of conditions a quarter of a century ago, is unfair to the insured.

There are many other points as to which this book by Prof. Glover supplies exact information. It tells of the lower death rates of females from birth to old age. Just why the female should be better off than the male so far as fatal illness is concerned, is difficult to understand. Perhaps careful investigation based on just such information as this book furnishes may help to solve the problem.

A comparison of death rates at different ages in 1910 and 1900 shows us where we are gaining, where we are holding our own, and where we are losing. A comparison of death rates in the various countries of the world shows us which are the best racial stocks for us to draw our immigration from.

Scores of important questions are answered in this work.

TRY SUNLIGHT CURE.

E. R. S. writes: "My 3 year old boy is subject to night sweats and at his afternoon naps. Sometimes so bad that great drops roll off his body. I feel quite sure that it cannot be the result of improper diet, as I have followed faithfully instructions given in the pamphlets issued by the United States department of labor at Washington. He is an exceptionally fine and husky child. The only trouble he has had is a periodical affection of the bronchia and a tendency to contract colds. Do you think this might signify anything of a tubercular nature?"

REPLY.

Children who sweat that way are generally rickety. Is he bowlegged or has he knobs on his ribs near his breast bone? Is he swaybacked? Does he ever cry or wince when lifted?

For rickets the sunlight cure beats all others. Exposure to direct sunlight is the method. Sunlight that has passed through glass or heavy clothing or very dirty, smoky air is not especially helpful. Taking it is like drinking circus lemonade. Neither has much of a stick in it.

WASH THAT MILK BOTTLE.

Daily Reader writes: Can a grocer refuse to take an unwashed milk bottle?

REPLY.

Most cities now make it a finable offense to return an unclean milk bottle. This is proper legislation. Especially should such legislation be enforced where the bottle has been in a house where recently there has been contagion or where the bottle will be used next for a baby's milk supply.

Who can say what the next use of a milk bottle will be?

HEADACHES DISTURB VISION.

Mrs. C. G. B. writes: I am subject to a very annoying type of headache. It always is announced by visual disturbances of various kinds and durations. Sometimes I can see only a small portion of an object just at the margin of vision. Other times I see things greatly distorted. When the headache begins the vision clears. The ache is localized in region of forehead either at temples or over the eyes. The pain is severe.

I have been told it is migraine. Do you think it is?

What is migraine?

Eye specialists say they cannot help it. Intestinal specialist thinks it is nervousness rather than digestive trouble.

REPLY.

The diagnosis of migraine is probably correct. There is no better way to define migraine than by saying it is a headache with the symptoms you describe.

Migraine is a cousin to epilepsy. That should be borne in mind in your case.

ATTORNEY SEEKS TO TAKE THIRD OF ESTATE.

Chicago, April 10.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—When a will is contested and the estate is fought out and settled in court, is there any law by which the attorney who wins the case can claim one-third of the settled estate?
H. C. M.

No; he would be entitled to a reasonable fee, which might be greater or less than one-third.

Chicago, April 14.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a brother who is serving a life term in a Missouri prison. He is slowly dying of tuberculosis. It has been held that a witness cannot recover more than the witness fees prescribed by statute, even if large payment is agreed to.

WHERE DOES HE LIVE?

Lee, Ill., April 17.—[To the Legal Friend of the Peope.]—Will you please inform me of the law of Illinois in regard to the entering of pool halls by minors? How old must a boy be before he can legally enter a pool hall? What is the penalty for violation of this law?

DIFFERENCE IN TIMES CAUSES DELAY.

Chicago, April 17.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If a man is summoned to appear in court at 10 a. m., May 7, 1923, in Chicago, from a town which uses sun time, can he be fined if he is an hour late by daylight saving time?
L. T. M.

The penalty of failure to comply with a summons is ordinarily a default judgment rather than a fine. If a default were entered on such facts and the defendant could show that he had a good defense on the merits, he could probably have it set aside.

W. R. D.

No. The rule as to transient guests would not apply to you.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

The Strikes for the Eight-Hour System in New York City—Mining Property Burned by Strikers at Coalburgh, Ohio.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Delegates from all the trades unions in the city met last evening and heard the report from the committee appointed at the last meeting to ask the Mayor, Aldermen, and heads of departments for the enforcement of the Eight-Hour law. They seem to have obtained no definite answer from either, and stated that the matter is under consideration by a committee of the Aldermen. The trades-union committee was instructed to wait on the Aldermen for a reply, and to act further as was thought expedient.

There are seventeen Consulates vacant, and the Government proposes, in accordance with the Civil-Service rules, to subject applicants to a competitive examination.

Brigham Young has called for 7,000 of his subjects to follow him to Arizona, where he hopes, as he has said, to get beyond the reach of telegraph and railroad.

SAN SALVADOR.

PANAMA, April 5.—Reports from San Salvador state that the authorities still persist in rebuilding the city on the same site, although this is the eighth time within 150 years that city has been destroyed. Most of the people, nevertheless, have removed to Santa Tecla. The only building that stood the shocks without the least injury was a building erected of timber. The impulse at present is to import timber from California, for the construction of such earthquake-proof houses. Aid and money have been tendered and sent from all parts of the Republic. Everything has risen to exorbitant prices. Prisoners in jail were removed to other places, and the Sisters of Charity have been assiduous in their attendance on the sick and wounded. Capt. Kennedy, of H. B. M. ship Reindeer, gave all the assistance he could, and offered her for the use of Mr. Biddle, United States Minister. The latter, as well the Government, returned letters of thanks to Capt. Kennedy.

LET THE FILIPINOS DEFEND THEMSELVES.

Chicago, April 17.—The editorial of this morning's TRIBUNE, "Thinking Imperially," is advocating once more the bargaining of the Philippines for the West Indies. It is very surprising for a paper of THE TRIBUNE'S reputation in the journalistic world to suggest repeatedly such inhuman dealing, which, if I am not mistaken, is a challenge to the value of an American promise (the Jones Act, 1916). I doubt whether in its earnest insistence to effect such a transaction it is not inspired by extreme egotism and imperialism in utter disregard of the altruistic and democratic attributes of this great commonwealth.

I would like THE TRIBUNE to know that the Filipinos have a national dignity of their own, as well as any other people on earth, never hesitating to make sacrifices in the defense of their sacred rights.

It is said that the Philippines are military liabilities to America, and it would be a tragic folly for Americans to fight over them. Probably they are, and there is no necessity of fighting over them, for the Filipinos are willing and are asking peacefully that they be given the responsibility of defending their country.

The Filipinos at present have nothing but words of gratitude, admiration, and faith to the American people. They want their independence, not because they do not like the American people, but because they regard it as an inborn right of every liberty loving people. To give a death blow to their national aspirations, as THE TRIBUNE suggests, would be to destroy the amicable relations and good will between the two peoples and often lead to undesirable consequences.
EMIL EJERCITO Y LIZA.

GIVE THE PHILIPPINES INDEPENDENCE AND LET NATURE TAKE ITS COURSE.

Chicago, April 18.—In yesterday's issue of THE TRIBUNE there appeared in the editorial page "Thinking Imperially." I herewith submit to the said writer a reply affecting my country. I solemnly believe that the writer of the said editorial has misviewed and misunderstood the motive of the Filipino people and their problems. If this suggestion were to be executed, it would mean a great loss of faith, confidence, and respect to America, and probably one of the blackest spots in the history of American democracy.

I pray that the United States should not do us the injustice of breaking her promise and covenant in the Jones law of Aug. 29, 1916. The Jones law has promised us freedom upon one precedent condition—the establishment of a stable government; and no other prerequisite was required to hold us from our national existence. We today have such a stable government. I insist that this is the only logical and righteous answer the Filipino people can make.

Therefore, give us the independence we yearned for, covenanted by the Jones law, which you cannot now regard as a mere scrap of paper. It is not that we, the Filipino people, love America less, but our aspirations for freedom and independence are as dear to us as life itself. You must now unconditionally give us our freedom, irrespective of all risks and consequences. Ours is a faith in the amity between nations, and with a peaceful and united people there is no room for the catastrophe often depicted by pessimistic prophets. If the catastrophe comes, that is ours to meet. Above all things, you must know that we prefer death rather than be slaves under any flag save our own.
TOMAS EVARISTO DUMELOD.

SAVE YOUR STAMPS; THIS WILL BE ALL ON THIS SUBJECT.

Chicago, April 16.—As a reader of THE TRIBUNE for many years, I strongly protest against the editorial, "Mr. Page in the Abbey." It is not only unjust in the extreme but an insult to the memory of one of our ablest and most distinguished ambassadors who easily ranks with Lowell and Choate.

TAXES SHOULD EMPHASIZE VOTERS' RESPONSIBILITY.

Chicago, April 14.—In your able editorials on excessive income taxes you overlooked one of the best arguments against it, viz., that it is against good public policy for a republic to have a majority of voters who are not taxed. By so doing the majority of voters will vote for wasteful and crooked political leaders. The majority does not care how much public money is wasted because they do not pay it in direct taxation. And they vote for just the sort of men who will sell out to the big interests. The only way to make the average voter careful as to what politician he votes for is to make it cost him money if he votes for the wrong man.

My argument is that if every voter had to pay exactly the same per cent of his income to the government we would have a darn sight better government than we have now, and a far more honest one.

Kankakee, Ill., April 17.—The greatest defeat of Len Small ever pulled off was that in Kankakee today. Ben W. Alpiner was elected mayor by 365 majority over August Radeke on the Republican ticket. The magic hand of the "king" was everywhere evident. Pay rollers in scores all the way from Springfield to every do-nothing dub around the town and county was working overtime. Odds were 3 to 1 on Radeke and some of the $2,000,000 of our money returned to the people. Thousands of dollars were expended by the Small gang and they announced in Small's Daily Republican last evening that it was a landslide for their candidate. Autos were so numerous that they lined up two deep in front of the voting places. Prices paid for same ranged from $25 to $50 each.

What you have been trying to do is done. Len is a "political dead one." With his home town in the hands of his political enemy, who, by the way, is an honest Democrat, what show has he for further political favors?

NO 'ALF AND 'ALF FOR BRITISH IN BILL TO BAR RUM

Parliament Beats Law by 236 to 14 Votes.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, April 20.—[Tribune Radio.]—The first prohibition bill ever introduced in the house of commons was defeated today after a short and merry debate by a majority of 236 to 14. Edwin M. Scrymgeour of Dundee, the prohibitionist who defeated Winston Churchill on a combined dry and labor platform, was sponsor for the bill.

Mr. Scrymgeour said he was backing the measure because of a clearly expressed call of heaven to save men who had gone down and to advance the kingdom of Christ to which we all belong.

U. S. Held Up as Horrible Example.

Of course no prohibition debate is complete without America being quoted as a horrible example. Sir Arthur Holbrook told the story of the tired snake whose job it was to bite men seeking an antidote and he asserted that 90 per cent of the American population was involved in the efforts to break the law.

Admiral Sir Guy Gaunt told how he had always been able to get all the booze he wanted in America.

"Americans used to break state laws but never federal laws," said the admiral. "Now they break everything in sight."

Cut Price of Beer.

LONDON, April 20.—Saloons here are plastered with announcements of the reduction of a penny a pint in the price of beer owing to the remission of taxation. There is no relief, however, for the consumer of soft drinks, although two pence a gallon was taken off the duty on "sweetened table waters." The makers blame the increased cost of sugar.

The Scottish distillers in a petition to the chancellor of the exchequer declare that while beer may be regarded as the English workingmen's beverage, whisky is equally the beverage of workingmen in Scotland and Ireland and should have been granted an equal measure of relief from the "monstrous duty of 8 shillings and 5 pence a bottle, which is admittedly a war time measure."

Cite War Services.

The distillers remind parliament of their "great service rendered to the state in war time, without which the country would have been in the greatest jeopardy. The distilleries were diverted wholly to the production of munitions spirits for over two years, doing injury to the trade in potable spirits."

LAST DEPOSITORS IN SPURGIN BANK TO REGAIN MONEY

Last day depositors of the defunct Michigan Avenue Trust Company bank are to get their money back in full, under the terms of an order that Master in Chancery Edwin A. Munger will file today in the Circuit court.

Under the terms of his decision, between $120,000 and $140,000 is to be paid back to those who sued on the theory that the bank should not have accepted their deposits on the day it was closed. An exception is made in the case of those who deposited checks drawn against their accounts in the same bank.

Others who will participate in the decision, winning back between $40,000 and $60,000, are those who deposited checks on out of town banks within two or three days previous to the closing of the bank.

Litigation over these funds has been bitter. Other creditors of the bank contended that no preference should be given, that all depositors should be treated alike. As the shortage amounted to approximately $1,000,000, due to the speculations of Warren C. Spurgin, the missing president, the ordinary depositors had little expectation of a reimbursement of more than 20 per cent.

CHIROPRACTOR ARRESTED AFTER DEATH OF BABY

F. R. Trzynka, 9113 Commercial avenue, a chiropractor, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging the practice of medicine without a license as the result of the death last Tuesday of the nine months old child of Mrs. Martha Czubak, 8241 Escanaba avenue. Inspector John W. Follmer of the state department of registration and education swore out the warrant when it was alleged that Trzynka had "doctored" the child.

Trzynka and a midwife, Mrs. J. Kosinski, who was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury, were called in to care for the Czubak child, it is said. After their treatments the child was removed to the South Chicago hospital, where it was discovered that it had suffered a fractured hip and perhaps curvature of the spine.

Stanley Gatkowski, 1155 Milwaukee avenue, a self-styled herb doctor, was also arrested on a warrant sworn out by Inspector Follmer.

CHILD'S BURNS FATAL.

Ottawa, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Burned when her clothing caught fire from a piece of paper in the ash pan of a stove resulted today in the death of Margery McConville, 2 years olds, child of Ray McConville.

CHICAGO BOWS IN LAST TRIBUTE TO CHIEF O'CONNOR

Traffic stood still and passers-by bowed their heads yesterday morning as the body of Thomas O'Connor, former chief of the Chicago fire department, was taken to Calvary cemetery. As the procession, headed by two fire trucks hidden beneath their load of flowers and followed by uniformed firemen, passed slowly along Michigan avenue past the loop at its busiest hour, thousands of citizens took the opportunity to pay their last respects to the dead fire chief.

Every fireman who could be spared from duty attended the funeral and at an early hour stood on guard on both sides of Michigan avenue while long lines of friends and admirers filed in and out of the house at 4530. Shortly before 10 o'clock the procession was formed to escort the casket to St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic church at 41st street and Michigan avenue, where the service was held.

Veterans Act as Escort.

Beside the hearse came the pallbearers, Patrick J. Egan and Daniel J. Carmody, assistant fire marshals; Battalion Chief David J. Mahoney, and Captains Joseph Wagner, Charles Burke, and John Crotty, all veterans of the department. Fire Commissioner John F. Cullerton and Chief Arthur Seyferlich, who succeeded Chief O'Connor as fire marshal, headed the ranks of firemen. Delegations from the city council and numerous municipal departments joined in the procession.

There was not room for all at the church and hundreds had to wait outside while Mgr. Francis C. Kelley, assisted by the Rev. Thomas McNicol, conducted the services. Afterward the procession was re-formed and went slowly along Michigan avenue and through Lincoln park to the cemetery, a mile and a half in length.

Tribute from Firemen.

Conspicuous among the masses of flowers heaped on the two trucks which led the procession was a fire alarm box in red carnations, the tribute of the defense association of the Chicago fire department, of which the late chief was a member.

Among the officials who attended the services were County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer, James Whalen, sanitary district trustee, and Ald. Thomas Byrne and Ross Woodhull. Assistant Fire Marshal Buckley commanded the procession.

THE RIGHT WAY TO SERVE BRAN

It must be in flake form to be effective. The action is mechanical. It must be inviting, else people will not eat enough.

Pettijohn's is the best bran dainty you will find. It is rolled soft wheat—the most flavory wheat that grows. And those delicious morsels conceal flake bran.

Whole wheat and bran are two essentials in right diet. Make them delightful and people will eat enough. Try it tomorrow.

JUDGES ASK FOR 'HURLEY CHANGE' IN DIVORCE LAW

Amendment of existing divorce statutes to include provision for the issuance of interlocutory decrees in place of the present immediate and absolute divorce was recommended yesterday at a meeting of justices of the Circuit court. Resolutions urging the passage of the amendments proposed by Judge Timothy D. Hurley and now pending in the legislature will be drafted by the jurists and transmitted to Speaker Shanahan of the house.

Under the proposed decree, which would not be effective for one year after its issuance, divorced persons marrying in Illinois or at nearby Gretna Greens previous to a year's interval would be guilty of bigamy.

"As matters stand now," said Chief Justice Francis S. Wilson, "divorced persons can go to Indiana and get married within a few hours of their divorce in Illinois. Later, if they please, they can cry 'no marriage' and under the existing statute, the court is bound to annul the ceremony, making the children of such marriage illegitimate."

CECIL CALLS ON WILSON; VISITS HARDING TODAY

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Woodrow Wilson received a call today from Lord Robert Cecil, British proponent of the league of nations, who is in Washington for a two day stay. Lord Robert went to the home of the former President during the afternoon, but later declined to reveal the subjects discussed.

The British leader, who, on his arrival, expressed gratification at the reception he had received in American cities, has an appointment to call tomorrow on President Harding at the White House. Originally it was intended to have him pay his respects today, but the call was put over.

Lord Robert is the guest here of Henry White, one of the American delegates to the Paris peace conference.

Beauty Parlor Owners to Fight Listing with Barbers

Miss Esther Johnson of the Drake hotel and John Muller, vice president of the organization, will head the delegation.

REDS' COUNSEL FAILS TO PROVE "PLANT" BY U. S.

Claim Agent Put Papers in Defendant's Grip.

BY DONALD EWING.

St. Joseph, Mich., April 20.—[Special.]—An effort by Frank P. Walsh, attorney for Charles E. Ruthenberg, charged with criminal syndicalism, to show that one of the state's most incriminating pieces of evidence was brought to Michigan by a department of justice agent and "planted" in Ruthenberg's baggage furnished the surprise of today's session of his trial.

The evidence, a printed copy of the program and constitution of the communist party of America, was found in the defendant's suit case when it was seized during the raid last August on the communist convention at Bridgman, this county, according to Edward E. Shanahan, a department of justice agent, from Chicago.

Denied Seeing Constitution.

Ruthenberg, appearing as a witness for William Z. Foster here last month, denied he had ever seen the program and constitution in that printed form.

On cross-examination of Shanahan, Mr. Walsh questioned him closely about a file of radical documents kept in the Chicago office, and attempted, without success, to have the witness admit that he had seen some of the documents supposed to have been seized at the Bridgman convention prior to the raid.

Taking up the challenge, Charles W. Gore, prosecuting attorney of Berrien county, drew flat denials from Shanahan that he had ever seen any of the evidence before it was dug up from two buried barrels in the sandhills at Bridgman.

The prosecution virtually completed the story of the convention raid today and paved the way for the testimony of the state's star witness, Francis Morrow, who will take the stand Monday.

Star Witness a "Delegate."

Morrow, a government agent at Philadelphia, joined the communist party there and was elected one of the seventy-four delegates to the Bridgman convention. He sat through all its sessions and was among the seventeen prisoners arrested by Sheriff Bridgman and his posse of deputies and government agents.

Sheriff Bridgman spent nearly half a day on the stand today, most of the time under cross-examination by Mr. Walsh. The defense counsel sought to picture the sheriff to the jury as an iron-fisted martinet who used shot guns to cover unarmed prisoners while they had their pictures taken. The state offered a picture in which the "gunmen" were missing.

The state objected to Mr. Walsh's questions, and maintained it was no crime for a sheriff to handcuff his prisoners or to guard them well.

Bridgman was followed on the stand by Louis Loebl, a department of justice agent of Chicago; Shanahan, Willard Ackerman and Henry Getersonke, deputy sheriffs, all of whom assisted in the raid, and Mrs. Ethel McElke, a waitress, who identified Ruthenberg as one of those she served during the convention.

'CHICAGO JACK' DALY KILLED BY WOMAN ON 'DARE'

"He dared me."

Kate, alleged wife of "Chicago Jack" Daly, gunman, pugilist, slugger and, of late years, innkeeper at La Crosse, Wis., took the dare. She seized the revolver to which the husband pointed. Daly, in sudden terror, jumped up; too late. The gun went off, accidentally, his wife declares, and a bullet through the body ended his notorious career.

Twenty years ago Daly was a well known pugilist in Chicago. Then came the time when principals in a labor dispute hired him to get rid of Rush V. Denon, a printer, whom they wanted out of the way. They offered $50 in cash for the job. Daly took it and carried out the bargain.

Before the trial came on Daly turned state's evidence and secured immunity. But the slugging had frightened him and he left Chicago. Two years ago he appeared at La Crosse with the woman Kate, who passed as his wife, and then he met his death at her home yesterday.

LEAGUE HOPES TO WIN U. S. AS IRISH ASK MEMBERSHIP

GENEVA, April 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—League of nations officials believe league stock is looking up. The Irish Free State applied for membership today, Turkey is coming in when peace is signed at Lausanne, and the United States, they say, is at least, displaying a burning interest in the court of international justice, a child of the league. It is emphasized also that the American people are showing a greatly augmented spirit of investigation into the doings of the league itself.

Ireland's application for membership, which was presented today by Michael MacWhite, the Free State's representative in central Europe, is expected to be accepted by the assembly when it meets in September, making the league membership fifty-three countries.

Body Taken from River Not Larson, Relatives Say

The body of an unidentified man, apparently about 35 years old, was taken yesterday from the west fork of the north branch of the river at Roscoe street. Reports that the description tallied with that of Lewis E. Larson, missing realtor, caused a stir, but relatives said the body was not that of the former school official. Discolorations indicated the man may have been strangled.

Unidentified Man Found in Jackson Park Lagoon

The body of a man was taken from the Jackson park lagoon last night. In his pockets were found $61, a railroad ticket, and an appointment card with Dr. H. I. Van Tuyl, a dentist at 1160 East 63d street, dated Aug. 18. Dr. Van Tuyl will attempt to identify the body today.

BOOKS

Best Sellers of the Ages

By James O'Donnell Bennett

Seventieth paper—Scott and a Century after "Ivanhoe."

The Note of Grandfather's Time on Scott.

Who is there that, on looking back over a great portion of his life, does not find the genius of Scott administering to his pleasures, beguiling his cares, and soothing his lonely sorrows? Who does not still regard his works as a treasury of pure enjoyment, an armory to which to resort in time of need, to find weapons with which to fight off the evils and griefs of life? For my own part, in periods of dejection, I have hailed the announcement of a new work from his pen as an earnest of certain pleasure in store for me, and have looked forward to it as a traveler in a waste looks to a green spot at a distance, where he feels assured of solace and refreshment. When I consider how much he has thus contributed to the better hours of my past existence, and how independent his works still make me, at times, of all the world for my enjoyment, I bless my stars that cast my lot in his days, to be thus cheered and gladdened by the outpourings of his genius.
("Crayon Miscellany"; 1849.) WASHINGTON IRVING.

NEVER was book composed under conditions that so strangely united the grotesque and the distressful!

Like Marco Polo's "Travels" and Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations" and Thackeray's "Esmond" Scott's "Ivanhoe" was dictated, and one of the amanuenses was the Laird's fond old friend, Willie Laidlaw. He was not an amanuensis whose delight in what he was taking down found utterance solely in "an arch twinkle" or "an audible smack of the lips," as the admiration of Scott's other amanuensis, John Ballantyne, did.

Nay, when Willie Laidlaw especially relished a vivid or an exciting passage he punctuated it as it fell from the lips of the author of "Ivanhoe" with "Gude keep us a'!" and "The like o' that, now!" and "Eh, sirs! Eh, sirs!"

Nor was this all by way of distraction.

In the year 1819—the year before the bestowal of the baronetcy by George IV.—when Walter Scott, then 47 years old, was composing "Ivanhoe," he was fearfully ill with an affection of the stomach that declared itself in spasms so severe that they would draw from that valiant man screams of agony. Often, says the record of days which gave to the world a book which for more than a century has been a source of entertainment to young and old in many lands, he "turned himself on his pillow with a groan of torment," but "usually continued the sentence in the same breath." At such times Willie would beg him to stop dictating, but Scott, brave as his own men of "derring-do"—a phrase "Ivanhoe" put back into the current coin of the language—would reply: "Nay, Willie, only see that the doors are fast. I would fain keep all the cry as well as all the wool to ourselves; but as to giving over work, that can only be when I am in woolen."

That was an era in medical practice when violent maladies meant violent remedies. Dr. Baillie told Scott there was nothing of consequence about his ailment "except the pain"—"'Tis a pretty exception," interjected Scott dryly—and often the doctor would allow his patient to take, "within six or seven hours, six grains of opium, three of hyoscyamus, and nearly 200 drops of laudanum," all without any sensible relief of the agony.

If much of the dialogue of "Ivanhoe" seems to our more matter of fact age overkeyed—and that is the grave fault our age finds with the tale—we shall not, perhaps, have to go far from this medical record for a reason.

A dozen years remained to him. They were fruitful almost to the end. But "Ivanhoe" marked the climax of his best sellership, and beyond doubt it remains today the best seller among his twenty-seven long novels, each averaging nearly half a thousand pages and all produced in sixteen years. The number of characters which they and the four shorter tales contain runs to nearly 3,000. Amazing fecundity! Tragic fecundity, also, for with such an output it was inevitable that much bad work should go along with the good. The marvel is that the bad has not extinguished the good. "Be wise, old man," says Front de Bœuf, a medieval baron whose language we might suppose would be as forthright as his villainies, to Isaac of York—"Be wise; discharge thyself of a portion of thy superfluous wealth," and forges forward into ten more lines of language equally ornate.

Now, the writer who could be satisfied with such unactuality where actuality would have trebly served his purpose was also the writer who could give to Rebecca sitting at twilight in prison (chapter XXXIX.) the simple and moving pathos of the song of lamentation which ends—

Our harps we left by Babel's streams,
 The tyrant's jest, the Gentile's scorn;
No Censer 'round our altar beams,
 And mute our timbrel, trump, and horn.
But THOU hast said, the blood of goat,
 The flesh of rams, I will not prize;
A contrite heart, an humble thought,
 Are Mine accepted sacrifice.

But our great-grandparents—and our grandparents and parents, too, I think—took Scott the flamboyant and Scott the tender and true with lips of equal praise. Great-grandfather made him a best seller at a time in the history of bookselling when it cost a good deal of money to buy the favorite book of the day. "Ivanhoe" made its first appearance in three volumes, costing 30 shillings ($7.50, I make it), but even so it was a best seller from the start. That first edition ran to 12,000 copies and was sold as rapidly as it could be printed. In less than a month after the first copy came from the press old Lady Louisa Stuart, one of the most interesting women of her time, was writing from her home near Windsor, "Everybody in this house has been reading an odd new kind of a book called 'Ivanhoe,' and nobody, as far as I have observed, has willingly laid it down again until finished. The interest of it, indeed, is most powerful"—and she thought parts of it "worthy of Shakespeare."

In all sections of society the interest in the tale was passionate. Many women—called, however, in that day "some fair readers" (vide the close of the 1830 introduction to "Ivanhoe") roundly censured Scott because he had not closed with the marriage of Ivanhoe to Rebecca instead of to Rowena. Ten years later he made occasion gravely to tell them that that would not have been moral—that "a character of a highly virtuous and lofty stamp is degraded rather than exalted by an attempt to reward virtue with temporal prosperity. Such is not the recompense which Providence has deemed worthy of suffering merit." Let us trust that great-grandmother felt properly squelched. Nor were the women alone in surrender to Scott's wizardry. His printers shared it. That bit of human interest amid much that now seems dry and diffuse you will find buried in the copious Notes at the end of "Ivanhoe." You may recall the passage, in chapter XLII., wherein the old Saxon of the tale, Cedric, whom Lady Louisa Stuart called "that worthy forefather of the genuine English country gentleman," is lamenting the supposed death of Athelstane the Unready, last of the Saxon royal line, to whom he had wished to marry his ward Rowena. Then——

> It seemed as if Cedric's words had raised a spectre; for scarce had he uttered them ere the door flew open and Athelstane, arrayed in the garments of the grave, stood before them, pale, haggard, and like something arisen from the dead!

Scott granted that this resuscitation of the Unready One had been much criticized as too violent, but offered the printer for alibi, as many a lesser man has done since. A tour-de-force; yes, he acknowledged that, but declared that he was driven to it by "the vehement entreaties" of the printer, "who was inconsolable on the Saxon being conveyed to the tomb." If the printer had been equally vehement concerning the brazen "fine writing" in much of "Ivanhoe" and had pitilessly conveyed it to the Hellbox, as printers call that tomb of the superfluous in their art, Scott's best seller would have come a good deal nearer being his best book—that same being, as I suppose all now are pretty well agreed, "Old Mortality." "Alas!" says Rebecca, after the wounded Ivanhoe has expounded to her the laws of chivalry, "alas! and what is it, Valiant Knight, save an offering of sacrifice to a demon of vain glory? . . . What remains to you as the prize of all the blood you have spilled?" There are three more carefully balanced lines of rhetorical questions, and then this:

> "What remains," cried Ivanhoe, "Glory, maiden—glory! which gilds our sepulchre and embalms our name."
> "Glory!" continued Rebecca; "Alas! Is the rusted mail which hangs as a patchment over the champion's dim and mouldering tomb, is the defaced sculpture of the inscription which the ignorant monk can hardly read to the inquiring pilgrim—are these sufficient rewards for the sacrifice of every kindly affection, for a life spent miserably that ye may make others miserable? Or is there such virtue in the rude rhymes of a wandering bard, that domestic love, kindly affection, peace and happiness, are so wildly bartered, to become the hero of those ballads which vagabond minstrels sing to drunken churls over their evening ale?"

You could play that on a pipe organ, but it is not human talking. It is not, however, disposing of the matter as an art matter, to say that nobody ever talked that way. Nobody ever talked as Hamlet talked, though 'tis the best and truest talk in the world. That is because, as I think, when he was most rapturous he was also most timely, most actual. But Scott's raptures combine not the rapture of poetry with the actuality and urgency of the thought and the occasion. As a specimen of Edmund Burke when he was feeling fittest, Rowena on chivalry would not lack the power to exhilarate; but as a specimen of the talk of a young woman when she is trying to induct a little sense and humanity into her beloved it is, of course, too terrible for criticism. By contrast with it there is not a page in "Don Quixote"—which measures its best sellership by more than a third as many centuries as "Ivanhoe" counts decades—that is not up to the minute for freshness and actuality. And there are yards of that kind of thing in Scott's masterpiece—for such grandfather thought "Ivanhoe" to be. From Gurth the swineherd to Richard of the Lion Heart and Prince John, they all talk that way almost all the time. The book is the grand opera of novels. Its talkers talk like singers, but its singers, curiously enough, sing like honest talkers, and no reader could ask aught more spontaneous and on the square than the songs Wamba the Jester sings, or the blithe balladry of Robin Hood and his men beneath the oaks of Sherwood forest. Fittingly enough Scott makes King Richard, himself no mean poet—so tradition runs—join lustily in those roundelays.

But grandiose conversation could not kill "Ivanhoe." What, then, has kept it alive these hundred and three years? The full stage, the bright lights of festivity, the dark dungeons, the blazing castles, the pomp of tournaments, the mystery of the wandering and disinherited young Saxon and of the Norman monarch who calls himself the Black Knight, the rescued heroines (always scrupulously brought forward as "damsels"), and the incessant soldiering—these have done the trick. And it is no contemptible trick. Boys of wholesome mind have always responded to it. They always will, and that is well. The man who retains the wholesome mind of a boy responds also, for he has learned to differentiate which is false and excessive in Scott from what is spacious and exhilarating and fine, and he knows that the last greatly outweighs the first. A bright boy, if you help him along a bit, ought to be able to read like that. A boy ought not to read like a goose. Give him a hand! Show him that, in the early part of the last century, when court and church, statecraft and society, and manners and fashions still were highly artificialized, the public of which his great-grandparents were a part could read with equanimity, even with delight, the splendiferous in Scott's dialogue. Show him that it was only a symptom of those times and that what was truly fine and valid still remains fine and valid. Show him, too, how a man of a country not many leagues distant from Scott's, a man who took Scott as his model, nevertheless succeeded in writing the history of his people in the form of romantic novels without infusing conversational buncombe into it because he belonged to a race that is adept in the art of writing beyond any other race that has written since Greek literature was in its flower. Get the boy, in short, to compare a page of the talk in the "Ivanhoe" of Walter Scott with a page in "The Three Musketeers" of Alexandre Dumas. That is to show him how to read to discriminate. And to teach him to discriminate in literature and in life is to teach him everything. He will have to do it some day if he is to do and to be anything in the world.

U. S. RECOGNITION OF MEXICO SAID TO BE NEARER

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.] — Recognition by the United States of President Obregon's Mexican government seemed nearer than at any time during the Harding administration when it was stated at the White House today that President Harding considers the Mexican situation is growing more promising every day.

This was given added significance by dispatches from the Mexican capital this afternoon stating that the legislative reform project submitted by the Obregon administration to the chamber of deputies last December had been approved.

The bill, as received here textually some time ago, states that the Mexican government will recognize the validity of petroleum property rights acquired prior to May 1, 1917, and will confirm such rights definitely.

Bryan announced here today that the Commoner, a monthly publication edited by himself and his brother, William Jennings Bryan, for the last twenty-two years, would cease publication with the April issue, which is now on the press. Lack of time was given by the governor as the reason for the suspension of the paper.

BOOKS

These Two Books Will Intrigue Many, Critic Says

By Fanny Butcher.

Two novels have come almost simultaneously which may well be considered together. They will both undoubtedly be talked about this spring, both praised enormously and both disliked, though not by the same readers. They are "Impromptu," by Elliot H. Paul, and "West of the Water Tower," a book which was submitted for the Harper $2,000 prize and was chosen by them for immediate publication, because they thought it such a remarkable piece of work. It has been published anonymously and the only rumors that have sifted through are that the author is a man and has written one book previously, which very few read, not, one must admit, especially clear clews as to his identity.

Both "Impromptu" and "West of the Water Tower" have, as one of their chief contributing causes, one might say, the union of a boy and a girl consummated with no thought of the possible consequences. In "Impromptu" the consequences are suffered alone by the girl. The boy goes away to the war, where his moral fiber is torn into shreds, and returns to be a leech upon the girl, whom circumstances have driven into prostitution. In "West of the Water Tower" every one in the immediate circle of the boy and girl is affected, deeply but not spectacularly. "Impromptu" is, after its first somewhat light-hearted pages of the youth of Irwin Atwood and his romance settle down into a beautifully written melodrama, a poetic dime novel. "West of the Water Tower," after its extremely amusing picture of village life and its touching but very funny chronicle of the budding love of its hero and heroine settle down into a realistic exposition of the clutch of fate on lives which had seemed impregnable, not without its humor even in its depths.

"Impromptu" is an intense, highly dramatic tale. "West of the Water Tower" is a casual one, as casual as life is. "Impromptu" is written by a person who dips his pen into emotion, into beauty, into color, who writes at times with a poet's pen. The result is, while at times extremely moving, beautiful or depressing, the story of individuals too weak for their environment. "West of the Water Tower" has none of the beauties of fine writing, but it has an inherent beauty of reality, of everydayness which is wholly lacking in "Impromptu." It is, I dare say, as genre a picture of little town life as "Main Street" was and one with real humor in it. "Impromptu" is written with passion, passion against the social system, against the war, against everything. "West of the Water Tower" is written with tolerance of things as they are, with an evident feeling that all things are casual, and that life goes on somehow, despite everything.

"Impromptu" is realistic in the modern method of being "frank" in all of its disclosures and attitudes. "West of the Water Tower" is realistic without any method.

Some time ago there was a novel published called "Boone Stop." It was by Homer Croy and I was probably its most ardent admirer. No one else seemed to bother with it. It was one of the funniest stories I ever read. The first half of "West of the Water Tower" sounds enough like "Boone Stop" to have been written by its author, Homer Croy. The last half doesn't. It wasn't, probably, anyway, but if you were fortunate enough to have read that delightful yarn, you'll have some idea of the real amusement that is in the first half of "West of the Water Tower." It is immensely funny during that first part.

"Impromptu" is a thriller. It is a novel which five years ago would have been branded by the Watch and Ward society—it may even be now, I don't know what they'd do to an author in his home town—but which is written with a real gift for writing. "West of the Water Tower" isn't any more exciting than the lives of most of us, it isn't beautiful or inviting, and yet it has a most appealing hold on one, a grip of reality that "Impromptu" sacrifices somewhat to its melodrama.

There will be plenty of readers to say that "Impromptu" isn't melodrama, that it is life, sordid, cruel, and unhappy, but a picture of what our modern system drives boys and girls to. I am not talking about its theme when I say that it is melodramatic, but about the way the author has worked out his theme. He has done it bitterly and passionately. He has poured one acid upon another. You have a feeling from the very beginning of the misfortunes that his characters never had a chance with their author, that he, and not fate, is charting their lives. The anonymous author of "West of the Water Tower" has approached his theme and his characters with the casualness of the observer and not the manipulator.

"Impromptu" is a better piece of writing than "West of the Water Tower," but "West of the Water Tower" is, to my mind, despite the compromising weakness of its ending, a better novel.

More Clare Sheridan.

"West and East" is the title which Clare Sheridan has chosen for the collection of her articles which appeared in the New York World. They seem scarcely of enough permanent value to be preserved thus permanently, but they are pleasant papers, as were her "Mayfair to Moscow" chronicles. "West and East" contains the Kipling interview which caused such enormous ructions in the press of our United States. It seems like a very few words to cause brother to beat brother and sister to snub sister. It makes one think that perhaps the ghost of P. T. Barnum was hovering around.

Conrad Really Coming.

Joseph Conrad is either at this moment on the high seas or is buckling the straps of his portmanteau for his first visit to America. He will come on the Tuscania, which is commanded by his old friend and fellow author, Captain David Bone, and will arrive about the 30th of April. The—to our simple taste—greatest living English novelist, sailed the seven seas for over twenty years, but he never came nearer to this our own our native land than the Bahamas. He touched there in 1875 before it was America's playground and [shall we call it, so?] "watering" place. He will not go on a lecture tour, and no word is hinted of his journeying to Chicago. He is to be the guest of his publisher, Frank N. Doubleday, at Oyster Bay, whose house, by the way, Effendi Lodge, was named by Kipling.

JOSEPH CONRAD.
[As a European caricature artist sees him.]

Jane Austen Supplemented.

Jane Austen had entirely planned and written in part a novel when she died. Miss Oulton, a devotee of Jane Austen's, has taken upon herself the pleasurable duty of finishing the novel. "The Watsons" it is called, and her work has been done so conscientiously, they say, that the Austen heirs can't tell where their illustrious ancestor left off and her supplementer began. It is rather a shame, it seems to me, that an author may not choose what of his work shall be permanent. Obviously, Jane Austen did not care to publish this fragment, for, according to a preface, it seems to have been written before the publication of "Pride and Prejudice" and "Sense and Sensibility." Miss Austen's relative, the prefacer, gives it as his theory that the reason she abandoned the story was because she had set her heroine in too lowly a social scale. But whatever her reasons, Jane Austen never cared to finish the tale, and it does seem a little unkind to a helpless ancestor to finish her castoff creations for her.

"Keeban."

On Wednesday Edwin Balmer's new mystery-adventure tale, "Keeban," is being published in his home land and his "Breath of Scandal," a story of our exclusive Wilson avenue circles, is being brought out in London. "Keeban" has its being on the Twentieth Century limited and in New York.

Flappers of 1849.

The letters of James Fenimore Cooper are a delight. They are as unedited, as outspoken, as full of honest criticism and the kind of caricaturing that one always does for members of one's family and shrinks from having known, as any one could imagine. In a word, they are real letters, kept these many years from publication with the very charming result of their being able to be published without the usual emasculations which are performed on letters of the great—or used to be before it became the style to be "frank" about oneself and all of one's friends. There are two volumes of them, really charming and amusing letters, which give a vivid picture of the first half of the nineteenth century, when our country was in its salad days, though it was no less green in judgment than it is now, according to the story he tells of his own time. While he was in Europe he expressed such unflattering opinions of his own country that he was bitterly attacked by American newspapers, and he spent many years of his life instituting libel suits. Incidentally, in all of them except one, he was successful. Naturally he knew most of the important men of his time, and he enjoyed a social success as well as a literary one. The letters are all extremely outspoken, as witness this extract from one which he wrote to Mrs. Cooper in 1849. It would seem that the present day flapper is not wholly a product of the hectic intimacies of the war. "Their daughters, between the ages of 18 and 19," he says, "smoke large strong cigars, and drink brandy and water. . . . Culver sent up to complain that the young ladies had shut the dog up in a room that did not belong to them: 'Tell Mr. Culver to go to Hell,' was the reply of the fairy of 16, her mother being present."

"Like Edgar Guest."

"I'd ask that I might sing like Edgar Guest," says Joseph S. De Ramus in his volume of poems, "Sunshine and Shadows." Well, he has his wish. He does.

On Mohammedan Potteries.

A remarkably handsome volume is Dr. Riefstahl's "Mohammedan Potteries." It contains a most illuminating and interesting essay on that rather unusual subject and some of the most beautiful color plates that have been found in a book since the war.

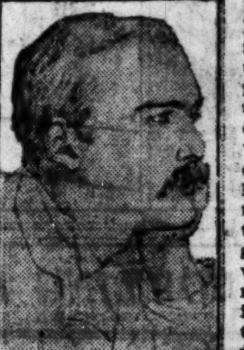
M. Chevrillon's View of England Not 'Convincing'

BY SIDNEY DARK,
[Editor of John o' London's Weekly.]

It has been said of M. Chevrillon that he "knows England better perhaps than any living Frenchman," and the recently published translation of his "Three Studies in English Literature" is certainly suggestive even when it is not convincing. The three studies are Kipling, Galsworthy and Shakespeare. M. Chevrillon regards Kipling as "the last of the English poets to champion the English idea of the self-governing soul directed by duty." He believes that in England "the beliefs that induced the habit of governing oneself according to the law" are on the wane. England, according to M. Chevrillon, no longer believes in God, and, therefore, is unlikely to continue to believe in duty. This is, of course, sheer nonsense. While the coarser kind of Puritanism is certainly losing its hold on the English public, there is a notable quickening of religious belief in this country, and the statement that M. Chevrillon puts in Mr. Galsworthy's mouth [I do not know that he ever said it], that hardly one Englishman in ten nowadays believes in a future life, is preposterous.



RUDYARD KIPLING.

The England, the spirit of which is to be found in Kipling's verse more clearly than anywhere else, was the blatant Imperialistic England that was the result of Victorian prosperity. That England, thank heaven, is as dead as the dodo!

The study of John Galsworthy was written ten years ago, and in it M. Chevrillon naturally does not realize how much the character of the wealthy middle class has been modified by the war.

A literary gossiper has rediscovered a charming book called "Hints on Hats," written by a Victorian hatter some sixty years ago. The hatter has much to say about the manners and habits of the great, and incidentally he tells us: "Nothing can be more shocking than Mr. Leigh Hunt's hats, though I am told he has written a charming essay upon them, except his friend, Mr. Hazlitt's."

Dr. C. MacLaurin is the lecturer in clinical surgery in the University of Sydney and this Australian scientist has written a quaint book which he calls "Post Mortem." In it, from his own particular point of view, he studies the characters of some of the great dead, his types varying from Joan of Arc to Samuel Pepys. Pepys, of course, interests Dr. MacLaurin immensely because he was fond of talking about his own diseases, and the doctor has written a story on the most entertaining gossiper who ever lived, which is positively fearsome in its medical guesses.

The Indian is pushing his way successfully into every form of western enterprise. He not only vehemently demands self-government, but he makes films and now writes novels. A long Indian novel and a collection of Indian short stories have just been published here, and they are certainly extremely interesting both as showing the influence of the west on the east, and also as demonstrating the subjects that attract the modern educated Indian. The Indian novel is a study of the evils which still arise from the caste system and from child marriages. The short stories are also concerned with unhappy marriages. They are written with considerable ironic humor and the characterization is admirable.

As all English fiction of any value sooner or later reaches America, it seems to me interesting to draw attention to new writers who seem likely to gain reputation and popularity. Such a writer is Miss Mary Butt, whose collection of short stories "Speed the Plough," evidence brilliant talent, for the moment, to some extent, wasted on unpleasant subjects and abnormal characters. This is the common habit of the young writer with ability.

Mr. Hardy's "The Return of the Native" is being translated into French by Mlle. Eve Paul-Margueritte.

The publication of Signor Mussolini's war diary is announced from Italy.

A volume of Queen Victoria's letters, 1837-61, was published some time ago under the editorship of A. C. Benson and Viscount Esher. Another volume of the Queen's letters is now in course of preparation, the editor being Mr. G. E. Buckle, former editor of the "Times" and author of the later volumes of the life of Disraeli.

E. F. Benson has a new novel in the press the theme of which is placed in the time of Queen Elizabeth.

Here is a chance for the rich book collector. In June we are to have an edition, printed for private circulation, of Joseph Conrad's dramatic version of "The Secret Agent." It will be limited to a thousand copies, printed on hand-made paper, and each copy will bear Mr. Conrad's signature. The price is three guineas, and when the edition has been printed, the type will be broken up.

CONFESSIONS

Dr. Van Dyke, one of Chicago's distinguished visitors this week, answered when I wrote asking him what book he would rather have written than any other:

Dear Madam:

To wish to have written another man's book amounts to wishing to be that other man—otherwise the book would not fit. 'Tis an impossible question, but I can make an equally impossible answer, "Henry Esmond." Yours truly,

Henry van Dyke

Five Authors to Speak at Dinner of Izaak Waltons

By Edward W. Bok

A new American biography of which The New York Times says:

"The same sort of racing narrative as 'The Americanization of Edward Bok,' having the same glow, the same human touch, that led the late Lord Northcliffe to call the latter book the best autobiography of the time."

A MAN FROM MAINE

In this narrative of the life of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Mr. Bok offers conclusive proof of his assertion that "business is a great adventure; a well of romance so rich in its thrilling moments that no man has ever sounded its depths."

"As a biography, 'A Man from Maine' stands out as one of the most virile and human stories ever penned," says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "But it is a great deal more than a biography. It is a practical guide book to success."

The New York Times:

"It is a sermon, with Cyrus Curtis as the text and the example; and if this be borne in mind when reading, the volume will acquire a degree of dignity and a degree of romantic beauty which might otherwise be missed."

"His America let loose," said one of the world's best judges of writing when he read this book.

LEONARD TO BOX "PINK" MITCHELL HERE ON MAY 29

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

Decisions of Tribune boxing representatives are:

At Milwaukee, Wis.—Ernie Goozeman technically knocked out Joe Sangor [1]; Joe Gans beat Jack Schoendorf [8]; Johnny O'Donnell beat Jack Condon [6].

At Cedar Rapids, Ia.—Eddie Morse stopped Johnny Baker [7].

At Toledo—Tiger Flowers defeated Jamaica Kid [12].

At New Orleans, La.—Dude Martinez beat Jimmy King [10]; Freddie Brewer beat Paul Donna [6]; Young Barrere knocked out Red Watson [1].

At Philadelphia—Johnny Gill and Al Verbecken, draw [8]; Sam Blackiston beat Joe Bush [6].

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Bennie Leonard, lightweight champion, and Pinkie Mitchell of Milwaukee yesterday were matched to meet in the main event of a boxing show to be conducted either in Chicago or Aurora on May 29. They will clash at catchweights, but neither is expected to scale more than 139 pounds. The match was made by Jim Mullen.

BILLY GIBSON.

The battle was arranged shortly after the arrival of Billy Gibson, the champion's manager, who was sent to Chicago from New York to see that everything possible is done for Charley Harvey, popular boxing manager who was injured in an automobile accident early in the week. The boxing alliance of New York is paying the expenses of Gibson, who also is representing Jimmy Coffroth, well known promoter and lifelong friend of the stricken manager.

Harvey Much Improved.

Incidentally, Harvey's condition was much improved, and if no complications set in Charley will leave the hospital inside of ten days, according to Dr. O'Connell, who has charge of the case. Harvey rested quietly yesterday. His brother Edward came from New York with Gibson.

Billy Mitchell, manager of Pinkie, closed for his brother, while Gibson attended to details of the match for the champion. Promoter Mullen did not state terms, but it is understood the principals will divide 60 per cent of the receipts.

According to Promoter Mullen, the bout will be staged at one of the local ball parks or in the fair grounds at Aurora. It is understood that neither of the major league parks will be available for boxing, as any show held in either park will hurt the attendance at a ball game in the other. Manager Gibson is stopping at the Hotel Sherman and will remain here until Harvey is out of danger.

Willard Works Here.

Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, who is scheduled to mingle with Floyd Johnson in New York on May 12, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to the eastern metropolis. The former title holder worked out at the Arcade in the morning, when he boxed three rounds with Charley Drake, his sparring partner. According to those who saw the workout, Jess looked fairly good, but did not show the speed of a few years ago. He has lost a lot of weight and confidently expects to beat Johnson. He was accompanied by Manager Ray Archer.

Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, returned to Chicago from Salt Lake, where efforts were made to close a match with Jack Dempsey for Shelby, Mont., on July 4. According to Manager Kane, the promoters have offered the champion $300,000 to meet the challenger. This is $100,000 more than the original offer. Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, will be in Chicago tomorrow or Monday, when all details of the match will be closed or called off. Mike Collins of St. Paul, who represented the Shelby syndicate, also came back to Chicago, but went to Milwaukee on business.

Legion Behind Boxing Bill.

Phil Collins, past commander of the Naval post of the American Legion, returned from Springfield, where he went in the interests of the proposed boxing bill. Collins asserted the American Legion is behind the bill 100 per cent.

Jock Malone of St. Paul, who was scheduled to meet Jimmy Darcy in one of the feature bouts of the Alliance boxing show at Dexter Park pavilion on Tuesday night, is confined to his bed in St. Paul with the flu and will be unable to go through with the engagement. Strenuous efforts are being made to match Harry Greb of Pittsburgh with Darcy. If this falls through, Eddie Coulon of New Orleans and Eddie Anderson of Moline will be added to the card.

Other boxers on the Alliance card are hard at work at local gymnasiums. Sammy Mandell of Rockford, who will trade punches with Johnnie Lisse of New York at Dexter Park boxed four rounds at the Arcade. Harold Smith of the stockyards, who meets Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, engaged in a long workout at Ferretti's, while Taylor contented himself with road work. Tickets for this show are on sale at 153 North Clark street.

Frankie Genaro, flyweight champion, who will swap punches with Pal Moore of Chicago, in one of the feature attractions of Joe Coffey's show at the Coliseum on Monday night, boxed six rounds with three different sparring partners at Ferretti's. Moore engaged in a busy afternoon at the Arcade, where he donned the gloves with Sammy Frager for four rounds. Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, who will mingle with Italian Joe Gans, worked at Ferretti's, as did Gans. Other boxers are working daily at the same place. Tickets for this show can be secured at Dolan's cigar store, Washington and Dearborn streets, and from Al Bloom, 129 North Dearborn street.

Pal Moore closed a match with Connie Curry of Sioux City at Des Moines, Ia., on April 27. The weight will be 116 pounds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the bout.

Patsy Flannigan, St. Louis bantamweight under the management of Joe Keefe, left last night for Minneapolis, where he will box ten rounds with Eddie O'Dowd of Columbus on April 25.

BOXING BILL IS DELAYED AGAIN

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Sponsors of legalized boxing for Illinois received another setback today when the house adjourned without reaching a second reading on the committee bill. Rep. Sidney Lyon, from whose committee this bill came, delayed second reading to study proposed amendments.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR Wake: There passed away in Chicago recently an old time minstrel who made an international reputation in the '60s and '70s, and not a line appeared in the newspapers except the usual death notices.

I refer to Francis Leon of Kelly & Leon's minstrels. He was a dancer and female impersonator known from Maine to California, and also appeared with success in London, Paris, and Berlin.

He retired many years ago, invested his savings in a piece of land at the southwest corner of Lake and Kedzie avenue, erected thereon a brick building of stores and apartments, converting the roof into a private roof garden for his own personal use. There, amid plants and flowers, he spent his declining years.

W. J. O'B.

In 1900-1902 we had a fast little boxer known locally as Jack Doyle who could step along with the best of them in the 118 and 120 pound classes. I met him the other day. He weighs 180 pounds and is owner of one of the finest gasoline filling stations in the western suburbs.

There's one you don't hear much about, but I've been hearing about him all winter.

Stable connections say this colt not only will start in the Kentucky Derby but will win it. He is doing nicely at Lexington. He has never been out of the money in seven starts. Once he was beaten by Zev on a muddy track and once by both Zev and Wilderness on a good track. Nothing ever beat him in the slop. He ran two of his seven races on a sloppy track and won them easily.

You know, Harvey, my January prediction of a muddy track was not a mere guess, but based on observations of the weather bureau indicating an unusually wet spring.

If good old St. Blaise will use his influence with Jupe Pluv on May 19 the closest the others will get to Nassau will be while they are at the post.

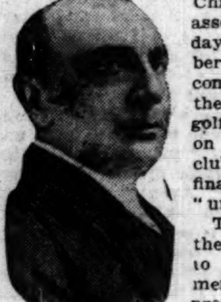
LIMIT NONRESIDENTS AT OLYMPIA FIELDS

BY JOE DAVIS.

Chairman Joe Lawrence of the general committee of Olympia Fields, at a luncheon at the Chicago Athletic association yesterday, told the members of the branch committees that the eyes of the golfing world were on an "unusual club" which was financing on an "unusual plan."



C. W. SMALLEY.

The object of the meeting was to acquaint the members with the proposition of selling 100 debenture bonds of $1,500 each and 350 bonds of $1,000 each to nonresident golfers.

These bonds, which will carry no interest, give the holders playing privileges for ten years, which, figuring interest at 6 per cent, gives the local man a year's golf at a cost of $90 and the nonresident player similar privileges for $60.

To Sell 350 Bonds.

Although the vote which carried the Greater Olympia plan authorized the sale of 750 bonds to nonresidents, the board of governors decided to issue only 350, as with the special assessment of $300 enough money will be realized for present needs.

Applications for nonresident bonds already have been received from Walpole, Mass., Philadelphia, and St. Louis. President Charles M. Smalley expressed firm belief that the bond issue would be taken up quickly.

Forty caddy chairmen and caddy masters of member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association met at the Union League club last night and discussed caddy problems. Dr. C. H. Searle, chairman of the caddy committee of the C. D. G. A., presided.

Bar Bad Language.

Cussing and swearing by members was declared by L. C. Calkins of Evanston to be a big obstacle in the matter of training the boys aright. "Let's talk like men," said Mr. Calkins.

WALKER HANDED CUE RACE UPSET

Bert Tredick gave Walker his first defeat in play for the Hemmer league trophy in the Chicago billiard league, winning 47 to 40, in 102 innings at Reading's last night. Each ran a 5. Walker and Tredick are tied for first place. In the other matches Magnus defeated Steffanson, 46 to 27, in 82 innings, Thurnblad defeated Helberg, 48 to 38 in 90 innings and Holzer won from Steffanson, 42 to 31 in 82 innings.

At Foley's Herrman defeated Fram, 32 to 29. Barrett will play Mann Monday night.

Gentry defeated A. Peterson [50], 50 to 44, in the class A three cushion tournament at Bensinger's Wabash avenue room.

Herrman [32] defeated Fran [35], 32 to 29, in Foley's three cushion billiard tournament last night. Monday night's game will be Barrett [35] and Mann [35].

Peterson Nips Cutler for World's Shortstop Title

St. Louis, Mo., April 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—Charles Peterson of St. Louis won the short stop 18.2 balkline billiard championship from Albert Cutler of New York in a spectacular match here tonight, after Cutler had staged a brilliant comeback, which fell just 17 balls short of tying the match.

Apollo and Union Park Fives Win Builder Titles

Two championships were decided in the Boy Builders basketball leagues at Central Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night. The Apollo quintet defeated Austin, 17 to 16, for the unlimited weight title, while Union Park grabbed the crown in the 135 pound division by smothering Unity, 26 to 16.

Gobs and Doughboys Mix on Commodore Tonight

Boxing matches between service men will be held tonight on the U. S. S. Commodore at the foot of Randolph street, under direction of the U. S. naval reserve force.

Local Golf

Chairman Frank Hibbard of the green committee at Shoreacres says the fairways and greens are in fine shape and that impromptu matches will be played today and tomorrow.

A team match between bond salesmen of Chicago and New York will be staged during the investment bankers' convention in New York next month. There will be five players a side, and Chicago will have Raymond J. Daly of Flossmoor, Chick Evans and Albert Seckel, as three of its quintet.

Green View, the new semi-public course in Higgins road just west of the Des Plaines river, will open today for play. Jack Tucker is the professional.

Spencer Meister, the Aurora professional, has severed his connection with the club and gone into the banking business. He served a term as alderman at Aurora.

The Flossmoor club, scene of the national amateur championship tournament next September, will soon start a campaign of information in connection with the big event. Joseph W. Busch will be chairman of the committee in charge of the work.

SANGOR K. O.'D IN 1ST, BUT BOUT CONTINUES

Milwaukee, Wis., April 20.—Ernie Goozeman, California, scored a technical knockout over Joey Sangor, Milwaukee featherweight boxer, in the first round of a scheduled ten round, no decision bout here tonight. Sangor was disqualified because after rising from being floored, he went down again to his knees without being hit. This action by the local boy evidently was a mistake and unintentional. Goozeman went to his dressing room and after much discussion by the boxing commission, it was decided to continue the bout, as an exhibition affair. In the nine rounds Sangor held his own.

CALZA FOE DUE IN TOWN TODAY FOR TUESDAY GO

Henry Ordeman of Minneapolis, who will meet George Calza, Italian heavyweight, in one of the feature bouts of Doc Krone's wrestling show at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium on Tuesday night, will arrive in Chicago today to complet training. The Gopher grappler, who is recognized as champion of the northwest, is considered one of the real trial horses of the mat game.

Johnny Meyers, claimant of the middleweight title, who will take holds with Bassanti Singh, the Hindu, is training daily at the Arcade, while the match between Jack Reynolds and Walter Keegan for the welterweight championship is attracting a lot of attention.

John Pesek, who is matched to meet Allen Eustace in one of the features of the Midwest A. C. mat show at the Second Regiment armory on Wednesday night, must win his bout decisively to gain the match with Ed "Strangler" Lewis for the world's heavyweight championship.

Hussane and Londas in Hour and Quarter Draw

Yousiff Hussane, the Turk, and Jim Londas, Greek grappler, wrestled an hour and fifteen minutes to a draw last night at the Star and Garter, being forced to stop at midnight, before either could obtain a fall. Londas was the agressor most of the bout, Hussane repeatedly slipping off the mat when in trouble. They have been rematched for next Friday night in a regulation ring.

Lasker Ill; Eleventh Game for Chess Title Postponed

Cleveland, O., April 20.—[Special.]—The eleventh game for the chess championship of the United States, between Edward Lasker of Chicago, challenger, and Frank J. Marshall of New York, titleholder, was today postponed until tomorrow afternoon at the Cleveland Athletic club, following a second attack of illness suffered by Lasker.

NOTES OF THE BOWLERS.

Leo Schuenemann will celebrate the opening of his new Portage Park bowling and billiard emporium tonight at Irving Park boulevard and Milwaukee avenue. Besides a musical program, Augie Kieckhefer and Charley Morin will give a three ccushion exhibition, an individual tournament for women will be held, and a sweepstakes of sixteen teams will roll. Thirty-two of the best women bowlers in the city have entered. In the team event the Windts, who won the A. B. The fourth semi-annual classic sweepstakes bowling tournament will be rolled tonight and tomorrow at Peterson's. Two hundred and twenty-four of the best bowlers in the country will compete for prizes totaling $5,600. First prize is $2,000.

It originally was intended to limit the entry to 160, but so many bowlers clamored to get in that it was necessary to put on three extra squads and start the event on Saturday. Harry Steers, Dominick De Vito, and Louie Levine won the former events.

The competition is total pins for eight games rolled across sixteen alleys.

In other events the shooting was low. Harris Winthrop Co. was high in the team event with 2,622, while A. Stegen and H. Strossner set the pace in the doubles with 1,144. Western Electric Co. performers will storm the tournament today with fifty-five teams. They will be in charge of Louis Lafont and John O'Brien and the company's band. CHARLIE PADDOCK ON WAY TO PARIS

New York, April 20.—[United News.]—Charlie Paddock sailed for Paris today aboard the French liner France. His trip is to "gather material for a lecture series" and also, it is expected, to keep his engagements, made some time ago, to run in the sprints at the University of Paris track and field meet starting May 1 and continuing for six days.

Paddock refused to give unconditional obedience to the A. A. U.'s recent order forbidding American athletes to compete abroad this summer. He said, however, that if the University of Paris officials would release him from his promise he would comply. It is thought unlikely that the Parisians will do this, and Paddock himself is not eager that they should.

THE SECRET.

An ever candid friend of mine
Was talking over this here now
Delirium I daily sign,
And tried to figure out just how
I put it over—said he saw
No reason—said he liked me well
Enough, but thought my work as raw Azzell.

The answer's very obvious:
I've little fancy and less wit;
I've never been a learned cuss,
And grace and charm I've yet to git.
My rhyme is limp and full of flaws,
Its value is of doubtful sort;
But people stand for it because It's short.

CURB ON SPORTS FOR WOMEN IS ADVOCATED

Opposition to all participation by women in intercollegiate and international athletic contests was voiced here yesterday by a committee of seven women recently named to consider the subject.

In a report made at the convention of the Middle West Society of Physical Education, the commission urged strict supervision for all sports engaged in by women and declared that girl athletes were not yet ready for intercollegiate or international contests.

Miss Blanche Trilling, director of physical education for women at the University of Wisconsin, asserted that supervision over the activities of women in sporting events would be exercised through the National Amateur Athletic federation in behalf of which the committee, appointed by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, is acting.

In support of its stand, the commission urged that facilities for training women for athletic contests were still far below those enjoyed by men and that adequate representation could not be obtained until these facilities were further enlarged and systematized.

CRITICS OF MEN'S SPORT

Athletic competition among American college women is far better organized than that of men, is guided by higher standards, and is free from the evil effects of intercollegiate contests, according to Miss Ruth Elliott of the physical education department of the University of California, who set forth her views yesterday in the second annual News Letter of the Athletic Conference of American College Women, published at Northwestern university.

Miss Elliott attributes the condition of men's sports to "the unfortunate emphasis on intercollegiate competition, the universal practice of narrowing down participation to a few expert players and the professional coach."

FARM AND GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

BIG CODLING MOTH CROP DUE.

COOK county's big crop of apples last year has paved the way for a good sized army of codling moth this year. That is the opinion of the county farm adviser, L. L. Heller, who says that there was more pruning and spraying in Cook county's orchards last season than ever before and the orchard owners who took care of their trees were well repaid.

Due to the educational work carried on by the Cook county farm bureau many farmers have pruned their trees and are planning to spray this season. Some sprayed their trees six times. Last year farmers in this county organized spraying rings and sprayed their trees four times. The same schedule will be followed this year.

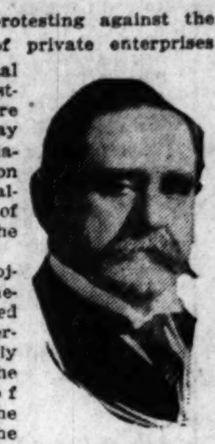
Free information is given fruit growers in this county by the adviser, whose office is at Arlington Heights, Ill.

Recently fruit growers in this county have been applying the dormant spray according to the bureau's directions. The spraying rings have been organized through the farm bureau. Instructions are printed for the benefit of farmers not in the spraying ring.

The farm adviser's schedule that is worked out particularly for Cook county and has proved successful in orchards in this section will be given later in this department.

IKES PROTEST PRIVATE USE OF NATION'S PARKS

Resolutions protesting against the encroachment of private enterprises on the national parks in the western states were passed yesterday by the first national convention of the Izaak Walton League of America at the Morrison hotel.



J. M. DICKINSON.
[Matzene Photo.]

Irrigation projects, which benefit only a limited number of persons, are rapidly destroying the beauties of streams and the wild life in the parks is being depleted, the resolution stated, and congress will be asked "in the interest of the whole people" to stop further inroads by corporations.

Venable Describes Growth.

Clark Venable of Indianapolis, permanent chairman of the convention, pointed out that the Walton league is not an organization of fishermen seeking more game for themselves, but a nation wide body backing every form of conservation.

"In March, 1922," said Mr. Venable, "the league was organized, and by August we had secured a membership running into the hundreds of thousands. Our aim is to save the lure of the great outdoors, to turn over to posterity the heritage of woods and lakes and streams that is their by right.

"We are figthing just as earnestly to stop pollution of running streams, to halt deforestation and to save wild animals of all kinds as we are to maintain an adequate supply of game fish."

Commends W. J. Stratton.

It developed that millions of black bass of all sizes from the tiniest up to the eight pounders, are being distributed throughout the state of Illinois from Thompson lake, a large expanse of water on the Illinois river south of Peoria. The convention accordingly sent a telegram to W. J. Stratton, state fish and game warden, commending him for the measures he has taken to preserve this vast quantity of Illinois' chief game fish.

Today is the convention's last day. Officers will be elected and installed this morning.

The convention will end this evening with a banquet at which more than 1,000 guests will be present. Among those slated to speak at the banquet are Dr. Henry Van Dyke and Jacob M. Dickinson, former secretary of war. Others expected to be present, are Zane Grey, Dr. Preston Bradley, and Emerson Hough.

HOUSE COMMENDS IKES

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The house of representatives today passed a resolution unanimously commending the acts and purposes of the Isaak Walton league.

Woods and Waters by BOB BECKER

WHEN IKES GET TOGETHER.

WE have been wondering what Izaak Walton would have said if he could have been present at the first national convention of the Walton league, which closes its sessions today in Chicago. Wonder what comment he would have made when he heard about the pollution of our streams, the state of our fishing laws, and the conservation of our natural resources?

Somehow or other we believe this beloved angler, whose name and fame have been enhanced by the league now holding its first national convention, would have said some pretty harsh yet truthful things about present day conditions. On the other hand, we're inclined to think that there would also be included in his comment some observations about the comradeship and good fellowship that are fostered when outdoorsmen get together under one banner as they are now enrolled in the league.

The Hello Ike movement at the time of its first convention is something that you and I can well meditate upon. Its growth has been both phenomenal and encouraging. There is no doubt but what outdoor America needs this kind of an organization. It has attracted to its banner a high type of sportsman and conservationist.

Working for higher ideals of sportsmanship, sensible conservation, fair laws, and good fellowship, the league deserves to grow. And there doesn't seem to be much doubt but what it is and will.

Chicago's yachtsmen, thawed out by the balmy weather, will meet this afternoon at the University club to fix the racing schedule for this year. The schedule committee of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, through Chairman Samuel Dauchy, summoned the committee, and it will set the dates for the Mackinac race, the Michigan City race, the annual regatta to Milwaukee, and the triangular Labor day race, as well as for the Lipton and Nutting cup races.

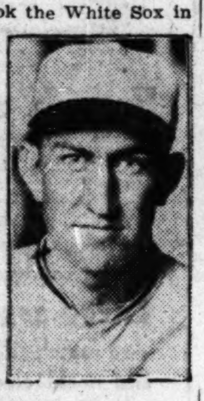
Sox Hurlers Hand Indians Third Straight Victory

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Cleveland, April 20.—[Special.]—Misfortune overtook the White Sox in the waning innings again today and what looked like a sure win was converted into the third straight defeat at the hands of the Indians. The final count was 8 to 5, and for a terrible exhibition of the so-called national pastime the game couldn't be equaled.



JOUBERT DAVENPORT.

The chief cause of the day's trouble was the pitching, or rather the lack of same. No less than eight mound workers, four to a side, endeavored to display their skill. They were either wild or ineffective, the lone exception being Urban Faber, who was Gleason's last choice, and who was beaten only because of miserable luck in the seventh inning, when the Indians counted five runs and clinched the matinee.

Sox Hurlers Weaken.

At one stage the Sox had an advantage of five to one, as the result of walloping a young Mr. George Metevier, late of Jersey City. With the lead in his grasp, Ted Blankenship proceeded to blow up. George Connally rushed to his rescue in the fourth and got the side out after two had scored.

After this Davenport pulled Connally out of a hole in the sixth, but in the seventh started to hand out passes with reckless abandon, so Faber was called forth but couldn't get away with the task assigned him.

When Faber went to the slab in the unlucky seventh Summa was on base as the result of a pass and Davenport had already thrown two wide ones to Sewell. Faber completed the ticket. Then misfortune intervened.

Bad Bound Costly.

Lutzke grounded straight at Collins for which should have been a double play, but the ball hit a pebble, bounced over Eddie's head for a single and Summa scored while Sewell went to third. O'Neill followed with a Texas leaguer and Sewell counted. Then Faber weakened and a couple hit batters with a single and sacrifice fly sent three more Indians over the pan.

After driving Metevier off the hill the Sox offense collapsed like a punctured balloon. Morton faced them for two innings and the best they could do was two hits. Then Boone handled them effectively for one round. Next came Uhle and a single by Collins, followed by two passes in the eighth, filling the sacks with two down and in the crisis Schalk popped to Wamby.

CUB NOTES

BRANCH RICKEY and his St. Louis Cardinals open a four game series at the north side lot today at 3 o'clock.

* *

Yesterday's cash and ladies' day customers totaled over 14,000.

* *

The eight homers nearly set a record. The record for home runs in a single game is nine, and the mark was set in 1894, when the Braves made five and the Reds four.

* *

Chief Cheeves is practicing for home runs. The big hurler lifted two over the right field fence and into the street in batting practice before the game.

* *

Hack Miller made a fine running one handed catch of Tierney's line drive to left center in the second inning. Hack is getting speedy.

* *

Barnhart pulled the one hand stunt on Hartnett in the fifth, running in fast and just getting his gloved paw under the ball as he skidded to a stop.

* *

Outfielder Howard Fitzgerald, secured from the Amarillo, Tex., club last year, was released outright yesterday to the Decatur club of the Three Eyes league. Fitz left last night.

* *

The first straw hat made its appearance in the fourth inning, some gent in the right field bleachers heaving it onto the field. He probably was wise enough to come to the contest with a cap in his pocket.

* *

Hartnett's homer in the ninth was a real drive. The ball sailed over the bleachers in left field. One fan tried to stop it, but decided it was coming too fast and just touched the ball with his fingers as it topped the wall.

SOX NOTES

CLEVELAND, O., April 20.—Final of the series tomorrow. Gleason probably will work Charles Robertson.

* *

The victories of the Indians in the first two games brought out about 12,000 patrons. Among them was Commissioner Landis, who tarried on his way home from the east.

* *

Clarence Rowland umpired his first big league game behind the bat and got away well. The players differed with him on a couple of strike decisions, but that's to be expected.

* *

Because of illness, Falk was excused from pastiming. Elsh took his place, but didn't do much with the stick, one single being his contribution.

* *

Connelly looked good except for lack of control. He wasn't scored on, however. He might have finished if Gleason hadn't wished to put a left handed hurler on the slab when Speaker sent up a left handed pinch hitter in the sixth.

* *

Kamm didn't have much of a day at bat. He bounced to the pitcher for a double play with the bases filled in the first inning and in the eighth fanned for the second out with two men on the paths.

* *

The Indians got two runs in the fourth on clean hits off Blankenship. Sewell doubled and Lutzke walked. O'Neill scored one run with a single and a long fly counted another. When Wamby singled, Blankenship was yanked in favor of Connally. Speaker was purposely passed, and the round ended when Gardner batted for Guisto and popped up.

Reds Release Dever of Army Desertion Fame

Cincinnati, O., April 20.—Danny Dever, the soldier-pitcher, has been released by the Cincinnati Nationals to the Johnson City, N. Y., club. Johnson City is in a midget league which has just been formed in that territory. While with the Reds at training camp Dever was taken into custody as an army deserter.

LAKE FOREST VS. ST. VIATOR.

Lake Forest college nine today will attempt to break the four year series of defeats at the hands of St. Viator, when the two open the race for the championship of the Illinois intercollegiate athletic conference with a game at Bourbonnais.

BABE CLOUTING HERO OF YANKS' 4-3 WIN

New York, April 20.—A stirring ninth inning rally today enabled the Yankees to make it three straight from Boston, 4 to 3. Ruth came up in the ninth with the bases full, one out and New York needing one run for a tie. Piercy pitched three straight balls, then two strikes. Ruth then hit far over Center Fielder Collins' head, scoring Haines and Witt.

Ruth's hitting featured the game, as he hit a triple, a double and a single, scored two of New York's runs and knocked in the other two.

Boston got off to a three run lead, when Reichle, recruit outfielder, hit a home run in his first time at bat with Collins and Burns on base. Score:

CITY SEMI-PROS SCHEDULE THREE GAMES FOR TODAY

Three games are on the semi-pro schedule for this afternoon. Pete Hill's Milwaukee Stars will be the visitors at Logan Square, the Cermak Indians will travel to Pyott field, and the Horlicks of Racine will tackle the Romeos in an exhibition at Justin Park.

The Milwaukee Stars are one of the new teams in the Negro National league. Hill was formerly a star with the American Giants. It will be the first game of the season for the Cermaks. Manager Niesen will have Black, the high school twirler, on the mound, while the Cermaks will depend upon Ed Ruzicka.

Dick Cantwell will do the twirling for the Logan Squares and Ernie Dennis will be back of the bat. At Justin park Johnny Meder and Eddie Miller will divide the mound work for the Horlicks, while Jimmy Ryan will use "Lefty" Schields and Jack Walsh to take care of his battery interests.

Rohrke Is Ruled Eligible for Clash with Hawkeyes

Fourteen University of Chicago ball players left last night for Iowa City, where they meet the Hawkeyes in a Big Ten conference ball game today. The chances for a win by the local men were strengthened by the assurance that Lloyd Rohrke, pitcher, who has been eligible under conference rules all season, also has been declared O. K. under the stricter University of Chicago rulings.

MORTON, 4; CRANE, 3.

Tight hurling by Swade and Dahlquist in the pinches gave Morton a 4 to 3 victory over Crane at Cicero yesterday in an abbreviated game. Dahlquist relieved Swade in the final inning, the fifth, and struck out the side. Morton opens its Suburban league season at La Grange today. Score:

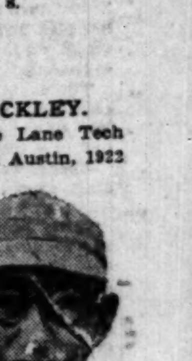
Bungling fingers gave Lane Tech a 3 to 2 victory and cost Austin, 1922 City league champion, a tough extra inning practice fray at Pyott field yesterday. Lane knotted the count in the seventh on Rane's tally and won in the eighth when Puckelwartz doubled, advanced to third on an out, and scored on Kretchmer's error.



HERBIE MAAS.

Landrebe went the full route and held Lane to five scattered hits. He fanned ten, but his wildness gave the winners life nine times and kept him in hot water almost continually. Maas and Thorp handled Lane's slab assignment in fine style, checking Austin at five bingles, whiffing thirteen, and issuing only three strolls. Score:

APPEALS MADE FOR ADOPTIONS OFTEN DESIGNING

Child's Future Has Little Part in Aims.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

"I want a baby."

The tall, angular woman with the heavy lines under her eyes shouted out her plea hysterically, almost as a command, as she rushed into St. Vincent's orphanage.

The sisters, famous for their experience with orphans and adoptions, led her down corridors, through rooms, and past row after row of white cribs.

There was 2 months old Jimmie, alert, sassy, appealing, but the visitor was bored.

Little Jane, with golden curls, stuck her chubby foot through the rails in her crib and brushed the woman's skirt. She swished aside.

The brown eyed youngster in the corner smiled a challenge. But the woman shuddered as she heard three babies cry in different keys.

Mechanically she passed from room to room. And always the bewildering, passionate refrain, "I want a baby."

Sentiment Lacks Force.

The sisters watched.

They knew that an office desk plays as important a part in adoption proceedings as a baby's crib. So they waited.

Down in the office, Sister Superior Raphael, for fifteen years head of the orphanage, questioned the visitor as to her reason for wanting to adopt a waif.

"My husband and I have no children. And we are lonely."

"Because I just love children."

"I want to do something for somebody. I'd like to give some poor little baby a home and a mother's love."

Plans to Hold Husband.

Noble sentiments, but unconvincing, as the woman recited them in a dull, colorless tone.

At last, slowly, the truth came out.

The woman and her husband, married for seven years, and permanently childless, didn't get on well. There were violent quarrels, divorce threats. Other women, a blonde. It wasn't a pretty tale.

"And I've heard," the woman seemed desperate, "that a baby often keeps a home together. I'm not crazy about kids, but I'd do anything to keep my husband. He doesn't care what I do; he'd let me adopt a youngster." And again the refrain: "I want a baby."

She didn't get the baby.

And she never will, according to the regulations of St. Vincent's, and the other accredited home-finding agencies in the city.

A homeless baby, welcomed into a disturbed family, as a possible stopgap in front of the divorce court, is not the solution of a domestic difficulty, the experts maintain.

No Place for Orphan.

"A baby from a broken home," says Sister Raphael, "above all others, should not be placed in another broken home. A child is better in an institution, without a home, than in a home that is on its way to the divorce court."

In order to strengthen its position in regard to the status of the home into which its babies may be sent, St. Vincent's makes certain definite demands of its prospective foster parents.

There must be a certificate of marriage signed by a priest or a minister.

Strict as to Standing.

"We feel," say the authorities at the orphanage, "that if the couple did not realize the sanctity of marriage sufficiently to have the ceremony performed by a representative of their church, they may not realize the sanctity of the home."

Hundreds of applications for children are turned down yearly by the local agencies because of the inability of the adopting parents to give reasons for wanting to take a child.

There are many strange cases that come to the attention of the authorities.

There was the Canadian couple. He was an engineer, she a schol teacher. Both were of good families in the small town from which they had gone to the city to work.

Seek Home for Baby.

They were married two months ago. They have a 3 weeks old baby.

"Take him," the father begs. "Put him in a home, see that he gets the best of care. But don't let anybody adopt him. Save him for us.

"In a year, perhaps two years, things will be so arranged that we can adopt him back into our family. It's the only way out."

The mother, ill, and nervous, hopeful the plan would be acomplished, was fearful lest it should be.

There were conferences, discussion, tears, a baby's cry, and they left with the baby.

Keeping a baby in its home, the officials say, is just as much a work of the baby placing agencies as seeing that other babies are taken out of their own homes and put in others.

When Hearts Command

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Jean Carnay and her daughter Alice come to the Italian Riviera for an extravagant vacation after a lifetime of frugal living. They meet for the second time Dr. Philip Ardeyne, the famous London alienist, and renew the acquaintance. After a few weeks he and Alice become engaged. Jean learns that her husband, who has been in an asylum for the criminal insane, has been released and is about to join them. She is frantic, as not even Alice knows that he is alive.

INSTALLMENT VI.

CARRIE EGAN ARRIVES.

She tried to imagine what he would look like. No doubt one must be prepared for a change. Would he show a mark of that terrible place, Broadmoor? For fifteen years he had lived in close association with criminal lunatics, many of them murderers, like himself. No, not exactly a murderer; the jury had called it manslaughter. He had never meant to kill Tony Egan, of course. Jean lay in bed, her eyes fixed wearily on the bars of sunshine which streamed across the counterpane, and thought of Hugo Smarle's crime. Hugo had killed his best friend in a squalid quarrel over money. He had always been mad, always. The family history on his father's side was really appalling. It had been disclosed at the trial and recorded in the dossier which committed him to Broadmoor. Because his grandfather and one aunt had ended their unfortunate lives in madhouses, and another aunt committed suicide and because Hugo, himself, had shown the wildest eccentricity since his earliest youth, he had escaped at least prison, if not actually the gallows. Yet his maddest act had remained unrecorded, and to that, Jean herself, had been a party. No one but Jean and that man of silence, Hector Augustus Gaunt, knew that Hugo's maddest act had been his marriage.

"Mumsey, your bath's ready. O, you lazy girl!"

Here was Alice, already dressed for their excursion, looking so fresh and lovely in her white wooly frock and lace panama. "Look!" she cried, holding out her left hand.

Mrs. Carnay looked and gasped.

Yesterday that sapphire and diamond ring, with its regal, old fashioned setting, had been in the antiquity woman's window. Alice had admired it ever since their arrival, and Jean had privately inquired the price, only to sigh regretfully that it was far and away beyond her means to buy. And now it glittered on Alice's slim little hand.

"B—but—how—when?" Mrs. Carnay stammered.

Alice laughed and blushed and looked adorably self conscious.

"It's after nine, you lazy girl. Philip and I were out before eight o'clock. We climbed all over the Old Town, and when we went down to Gallo's for coffee, and coming back the antiquity woman was just taking down her shutters and—and Philip wanted me to choose a ring at once. So I did."

"O, Phil—what luck!"

Mrs. Carnay sighed inaudibly, but there was a fiercely maternal gleam in her eyes. The ring somehow decided things—the ring that Alice had wanted and they couldn't afford to buy. It was now safely anchored on the third finger of her left hand, her engagement ring, the gift of her accepted lover. Thus are promises to marry signed and sealed. There was no retreat from the gift of that ring. It seemed to settle the affair for Jean. She was not going to break her daughter's heart for all the Hugo Smarles in this world. If Hugo refused to agree to her plan, then—but he couldn't refuse. She wouldn't allow herself to think of that evil possibility.

"Can you be ready in half an hour?" Alice asked anxiously, as her mother scuttled about in dressing gown and slippers, gathering accessories for her tub.

"I can try."

"I'll order your coffee, and lay out your things. What are you going to wear?"

"O, anything—anything!" No, that wouldn't do. Jean stopped short and smiled in a wintry fashion. "Mr. Gaunt used to be a great admirer of mine," she confessed unexpectedly. "I think I ought to look as nice as I can. No, I won't be ready in half an hour—nor anything like it. Run down to your Philip, my dear, and expect me when you see me."

Alice was inclined to think this a great joke. She ordered the coffee and then, as bidden, went down to join Dr. Ardeyne who was waiting for her on the terrace. The mule, which was to convey Mrs. Carnay up the rather stiff little mountain, had arrived in charge of a half grown peasant girl. He wore bells on his bridle and a voluminous saddle like an easy chair, carpeted with faded plush. Several of the hotel staff were admiring him from the doorway, when an enormous silver touring car, preceded by an insistent horn, sharply rounded the drive and pulled up in front of the hotel. It was driven by a hatless woman with bobbed hair, and beautiful arms bare to the shoulder. She was as brown as a gipsy, with a reckless smile and a careless eye, which helped to explain the forlorn attitude of the Italian maid huddled so fearfully amidst a welter of luggage in the tonneau. With a final, hideous roar, the engine subsided and the woman jumped out before the attentive concierge and his underlings could go to her assistance.

Alice, watching the arrival, failed to notice that the handsome man at her side was slightly affected by it. Dr. Ardeyne gave a start, and if there had not been quite so much noise before the engine was turned off, one might have overheard a remark he made to himself.

The woman left her car and her maid and her luggage, and rushed across to him. Her legs, like her arms, were bare and she wore bathing sandals; under the sleeveless cloak of striped Roman satin, she was clad in a bathing suit. Her fuzzy short hair, standing out so grotesquely attractive, dripped little beads of sea water.

"O, Phil—what luck! I knew you were here but I didn't expect to find you up so bright and early," she exclaimed. Then she broke off short, staring at Alice, with a look which said as plainly as speech, "Who's this girl you're with?"

And Alice hated her, as one may hate instinctively at first sight, without the least rhyme or reason for it.

"How do you do?" said Dr. Ardeyne.

"I do pretty much as usual. Going for a mule ride?"

Contempt, ridicule, silent laughter, were expressed in the hold, bright eyes. But most of all, intimacy. And again the eyes asked that impertinent question, "Who is this girl you're with?"

"Mrs. Egan, may I—er—Alice——" For Alice was turning away in the half abstracted fashion suitable to such a situation. Alice turned back again, forcing a hypocritical smile for the (to her) detestable woman in the half concealed bathing suit. "May I introduce my—er—my fiancée, Miss Carnay? Alice, Mrs. Egan is an old friend of mine——"

"Your fiancée!"

The gipsy looking woman stared at him as completely taken aback as though he had pointed a revolver at her breast. But it was only for a moment. Then she laughed and said: "I've just motored over from Monte where I've been staying for a few weeks. Pots of luck. Thought it best to quit while I was on the right side. Took a dip at Cap Martin on the way over——"

"You'll catch cold," admonished the doctor.

Mrs. Egan made a funny little grimace at him. "Not I! By the way, Phil, I've got a bone to pick with you. Never mind about it now. I must find somebody to run the car down to the hotel garage. My chauffeur's laid up at Monte with flu. See you later."

She raced off without a word to Alice, and disappeared into the hotel.

Alice said: "Who is that woman?"

"O, just a friend," Philip Ardeyne replied with a poor attempt at being casual.

"An old friend," Alice reminded him.

"Yes, she's—er—well, considerably older than she looks——"

"She looks a good thirty-five," Alice said coldly.

"Does she, by jove? How clever you women are at guessing each other's ages. I suppose Carrie Egan is about thirty-five, although most people think she's younger." Then, feeling that perhaps some further explanation was necessary: "I've known her for years. Her husband was a college pal of mine——"

"O, she's married."

"No, she's a widow," Dr. Ardeyne admitted reluctantly. "Hello, here's your mother! How quick she's been."

As Jean Carnay, on her absurd high heels, tripped daintily across the graveled terrace, Alice gave herself a little shake and a mental reprimand. Why should she be annoyed because Philip had friends, women friends? This was a poor beginning for one who was to be a doctor's wife. Never before had the girl surprised jealousy in herself. She was hurt and mortified by the revelation.

"Here I am," Mrs. Carnay announced. She looked radiant. "Do I get up on that thing, now? Oh, I think not. Wait until we've left the town behind. Are we quite ready?"

The cavalcade started, led by Tomaso the mule and his guardian, Mrs. Carnay pattering behind a little breathless, a little uncomfortable because of her shoes; the lovers silent, somewhat contemplative.

Good morning!

For those of you who have an ingrowing grouch and feel the need of a good spring tonic to chase dull care away, I commend to your favorable consideration this comedy—which I dessay will start the circulation in the neighborhood of your funnybone. If you don't laugh at the picture you'll surely laugh at the enjoyment your kiddies will get out of it—so take THEM. (Always thinking about yourselves and everything!)

It was SOME rainy evening, so bad that the Town Belle offered her suitor shelter for the night, and while she goes to prepare the spare room he dashed home through the storm to get his pajamas. Old joke, sure, but sometimes the old ones go over big, as in this instance. Even the cows and pigs know enough to come in out of the rain, and the Town Belle has a FULL HOUSE. They play the DEUCE and it makes her WILD. When the SHOWDOWN comes the next morning——!?!

Louise Fazenda has always been a clever comedienne and in this parody on Mary Pickford's "Tess of the Storm Country" she's a riot. She's a sort of feminine Harold Lloyd. Great sense of comedy and how and where to make a laugh go across.

EXTRA! EXTRA!
A Lloyd Hamilton Comedy.
Presented at the Chicago Theater.

Pity the poor newspaper photographer!

He had a checkered cap—ALSO a checkered career. The police were looking for the mysterious man with the checkered cap, and when they discovered the press cameraman with his, they presented him with a nice clean white one so he would be safe from assault.

BUT, my dears, it was an ill wind that blew his way and carried the nice clean white cap off his head right through the restaurant window on to a waffle iron. The waffle iron came down on the nice, clean, white cap at just that moment, and, presto! printed a neat checkered pattern thereon—hence, MORE trouble for our hero. He also had a trick overcoat which had a nasty habit of not staying hung where it was put, and all in all, poor Lloyd had a continuous series of misadventures.

Usually, Mr. Hamilton bores me, but this time he is vurr' droll.

Go see him and give him the laugh. See you tomorrow!

Ziegfeld on Warpath; News of the Theaters

Florenz Ziegfeld Jr., leaves Chicago for New York today with fire in his eye for Messrs. Gallagher and Shean, who want to leave his "Follies." These former vaudevillians, a great hit in the Ziegfeld show, propose to spurn Mr. Ziegfeld's $1,500 a week for George White's $2,000 and stardom. Mr. Ziegfeld declares it shall not be.

"My contract with them," he said last night, "is 'for the run of the Follies of 1922 and in all other respects the Equity contract to prevail.' Equity 'run of play' contracts end in June unless otherwise specified, but this one is otherwise specified. These fellows were glad to get their contract when I signed it with them in Chicago. They'll play the Follies or I'll spend every dollar I've got to stop them from playing anything else. There's going to be a fight and a good one, and if the Equity wants to come in on it I'll fight them again, too."

Which, being interpreted, means that if Mr. Ziegfeld has his way, Gallagher and Shean will be reluctantly present when the "Follies" come to town next Christmas. So we haven't that to worry about.

"The Cat and the Canary" celebrated its 300th Chicago performance at the La Salle last night. It has outlived all its competitors in the way of mystery melodramas hereabouts, and has had a longer run by far than any other play outside New York this season.

"Lady Butterfly," the musical version of "Somebody's Luggage," is said to be appointed for arrival at the Studebaker on or about May 13. The report causes pain to William Hodge's managers, who insist that he intends to stay at the Studebaker quite a while longer. S. B.

Legalizing Sunday Shows in New York Now Seems Likely

BY BURNS MANTLE.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—The Producing Managers' association is modestly exultant over news from Albany that the codes committee of the senate adopted an amendment to the Meyer Levy Sunday theatricals bill legalizing all Sunday shows and amusements.

The original bill sought only to legalize Sunday theatrical performances and stood a fair chance of being killed. But with all other sports and amusements included the bill's sponsors believe they can rally enough popular sentiment to its support to guarantee its passage.

The question of "blue laws" would unquestionably have come to an issue long ago if there had ever been any general demand for Sunday theaters in New York.

As it happens the actors do not want them, the church goers do not want them and the playgoers themselves are apathetic.

William Harris Jr., just back from Europe, announces that he has brought with him the manuscript of John Drinkwater's new play, "Robert E. Lee." He will present the piece in New York in the early autumn. It is probable that Mr. Drinkwater will come to this country to take part in the final stages of preparation. The play also will be produced in London this fall.

Florence Reed will appear under Charles Dillingham's management in an Edward Knobloch play, "The Lullaby," next season. Meantime, she will play as stock star in Minneapolis. "The Lullaby" also will be produced in England.

Harding Sorry He Can't Be at 'Uncle Joe's' Celebration

Washington, D. C., April 20.—President Harding today told a delegation from Danville, Ill., that much to his regret he would be unable to participate in a celebration to be held in that city May 7 in connection with the eighty-seventh anniversary of the birth of "Uncle Joe" Cannon. Mr. Harding said that if there was any way of delaying the celebration until June he would be delighted to be present.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

It was announced, through an error, in THE TRIBUNE yesterday that a dance was to be given by the Oak Park post at the Elks' clubhouse last night. The date of the dance is May 5.

In the obituary notice of Dr. C. S. Case, Chicago dentist, which appeared in THE TRIBUNE on Wednesday, it was stated that he was born in 1868. The date should have been 1847. The name of his daughter should have been Mrs. John Lind, and not Mrs. John Laid.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 each for questions accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune." For today's question Miss Marie Amsler, 113 East Jefferson street, Ottawa, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you believe in long engagements?

Where Asked.

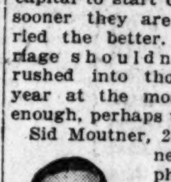
At rehearsal of National kindergarten and Elementary college play to be given at the Studebaker theater this forenoon.

The Answers.

Miss Miriam Cutler, 1040 Lake Shore drive, student—I do not! (dramatically snapping two nimble fingers.) Girls are supposed to know the men before they become engaged to them, anyhow. If they don't they ought to. If you once decided to marry him, go ahead; make it short and snappy.

W. A. Brown, 1657 North Meade avenue, newspaper photographer—Not too long—not over six months, a year at the most. I not only believe in short engagements but in early marriages. Early marriage is more important than the length of the engagement, as the children can grow up with the parents with no great disparity of ages.

Miss Clarice Von Barandy, 2934 South Michigan avenue, student—As soon as a couple is sure of the steps they are taking, and have enough capital to start on, the sooner they are married the better. Marriage shouldn't be rushed into thoughtlessly, but one year at the most is certainly long enough, perhaps too long.



Sid Moutner, 2050 Potomac avenue, newspaper photographer—That can't be answered unconditionally; but under average circumstances I am in favor of comparatively short engagements. Some married couples go half way through life and are not thoroughly acquainted, showing the futility of long engagements.

Miss Ruth Barr, 2918 Michigan avenue, student—Marry in haste and repent at leisure. On the other hand, long engagements are likely to show up each other's faults too prominently. If you wait too long you may be out of luck.

Junior Colleges in High School Cites Urged by Teachers

A resolution approving the establishment of junior colleges in all cities of Illinois having high schools was adopted yesterday by the Illinois State Teachers' association, Lake Shore division, at a meeting at Evanston. The object of the colleges is to relieve the crowded conditions in the universities throughout the country, which educators view with concern.

"It is generally agreed that the junior college, which will give high school graduates two additional years of training in their community, is the only solution of the college problem," asserted Prof. Paul W. Keller, chairman of the resolutions committee.

"Difficulty in enrolling in the larger universities and colleges, partly due to expense and partly to conditions imposed by the universities themselves, has discouraged many students from plans for further advancement in their educational activities. The junior colleges will also prove popular because they enable the student to remain at home, which many prefer."

Seven Minute Wooing Wins Star for Eddie

Los Angeles, Cal., April 20 [Special]—All previous movie colony records for swift woolngs were shattered this morning at the Charlie Chaplin studio, for—

At two minutes after 10, Eddie Sutherland, Charlie's director, suddenly espying petite Marjorie Daw standing near the set, knitted his brows for a second, then dashed to her side, hurling his megaphone behind him.

At three minutes after 10, he asked her to be his wife.

At four minutes after 10, Marjorie went into a close-up clinch with Eddie as she murmured the little word "yes."

At five minutes after 10 they had decided on a "location" for "the big scene."

By 10 minutes after 10 they had selected the necessary cast, all save the preacher, and so:

Eddie and Marjorie were seen in "Their Greatest Triumph" tonight at 8 o'clock at Mary Pickford Fairbanks' Beverly home. Mary Pickford was bridsmaid, with none other than Charlie Chaplin officiating as best man.

Mrs. Cook Is Elected President of D. A. R.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Election of Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook of Cooksburg, Pa., as president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution was announced at today's session of the society's annual congress. Tabulation of the ballots cast yesterday by delegates showed she had received 940 votes to 779 recorded for Mrs. G. Wallace Hanger of Washington, her only opponent.

Announcement of the result, which will place Mrs. Cook at the head of the organization for the next three years as a successor to Mrs. George Maynard Miner of Connecticut, swept away the bitterness that marked the triennial election campaign.

From Athlete to Pastor to Be Topic of Lecture

"How I changed from an athlete and a train despatcher to a minister," will be the subject of an address by the Rev. M. L. Thomas, pastor of the Deerfield Presbyterian church, next Monday noon at the business men's meeting at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street. The Rev. Mr. Thomas conducts boxing and other athletic contests in his own church near Highland Park and took a stand recently in favor of amateur boxing when the subject was up for discussion at the meeting of the Chicago Presbyterian ministers.

Stock Makes Event of Last Day Concert

Conductor Is Applauded from Start to Finish.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"I hope that all of us—you and we—will be back here next fall for some more of this fine music," said Frederick Stock to the audience at the end of the final Friday afternoon concert by the symphony orchestra yesterday. There was just enough undercurrent in his voice to make it sound more earnest than the ordinary speech of thanks and au revoir at the close of a season, as though of conveying a hint of possible new conditions. As a matter of fact, within a few hours the hint became definite enough and serious enough to get into the news columns.

The audience treated this last program as an important event. They began applauding as soon as Mr. Stock made his appearance through the stage door, and the last ripple of pattering palms sounded long after the musicians had disappeared from the platform. Mr. Stock had prepared a last program much like the first, with no soloist, with much music that is well known and some not so well.

It included a work that has one of the three dullest sections in the standard repertoire of any symphony orchestra; also the only piece to have two performances this season. This is Ravel's "The Waltz," which would seem to be the waltz of Vienna as seen through the astigmatic spectacles of modern France, with sometimes surprising but generally inspiriting results.

Also in the list was "The Dance of the Seven Veils" from "Salome" by Richard Strauss, or, as it became better known a couple of seasons ago at the Auditorium, "The Dance of the Three Handkerchiefs by Mary Garden." The rest of the catalog held Chabrier's "Marche Joyeuse," Brahms' Second Symphony, and two Wagnerian excerpts, the first and the last music of "Tristan and Isolde" and the last of "Die Götterdämmerung." It represented a steady progress up the path of excellence, with the Wagner music at the end so magnificently done that it was worth all the applause of the audience, and more.

For months, even for years, there has been talk around the Chicago Opera about how difficult it is to find good tenors. That such conversation can be hushed by looking in the right quarters was demonstrated last night when Joseph Bobrovitch gave a song recital at Orchestra hall. He was unknown here until then, but in only a few minutes he demonstrated himself to be first class operatic material. A Lithuanian, a former member of the Imperial Opera at Moscow, he is of the lyric persuasion, young, alert, possessing a voice that has the true tanging quality and cultivation to boot. What was heard of his recital was in a language foreign to the acquaintance of this department, but his voice needed no translator. It belongs in opera. He is said to be versed not only in the Russian but in the Italian and French repertoires. Unless the Chicago Civic company is more lavishly provided with such material than its last statement indicated, Mr. Bobrovitch would be reasonably certain of a welcome from its patrons.

DAILY HOROSCOPE
Doris Blake Says:

TODAY IS UNLUCKY FOR THE QUARRELSOME.

Mars and Neptune dominate today in uncertain aspect. It is a time when romance is not likely to be dominant in the thoughts of men and women; rather the selfish and the sordid may rule. So it is well to keep a bridle on your baser emotions and restrain the word that may lead to quarrels or dissension.

Those whose birthdate it is have the warning to be careful of their money and not to waste it on unnecessary things.

Children born on this day may have a strong leaning toward extravagance and idle pleasures unless well directed in youth.

You have a tenacious nature, you of this birthday, and make up your mind definitely and positively. You are generous and fond of good things, which you like to share with your friends. You are the most hospitable soul, never happier than when your table is spread bountifully and your friends share your board. Those whom you like will never want for anything while you have enough. You aim high, but if conditions tend downward you can dive low. You are fearless, busy, dominating, and apt to be argumentative. You belong to the class of people who "know it all" and sometimes it requires rare indulgence on your friends' part to appreciate your true worth. With all your positiveness you are at times likely to be too easily led and influenced by the minds and wills of others. It is almost useless to argue with you.

Her Heart Is Broken.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a boy called 'Teddy.' I went with him for almost one year. But now we are angry at one another. O, Miss Blake, I love him dearly, but I don't think he cares for me as much as he did. Kindly advise me as to how I can gain his friendship again.

"ELEANOR."

Perhaps he is no more angry with you than you with him. Perhaps he is wondering how he can win you back. So, on this perfectly reasonable theory, suppose you give the boy opportunity to speak to you. You can contrive some means of meeting and talking to him, can't you?

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

Pineapple Tea.

Until you have given the subject direct attention, maybe you will not take much stock in the idea that the temperature of a fruit has a great influence in its attractiveness, or unattractiveness, and so in its digestive fate.

Mrs. Edith O'Shaughnessy, in one of her books on Mexico (rich in eating facts and ideas) says: "We had been refreshed with one of the national beverages—shredded pineapple in powdered ice, most delicious—before leaving the legation."

In Italy the pineapple ices are greatly popular, and we are beginning to like them. But we may like almost as well much the same thing, quite hot, for a spring tonic. Cut a large slice of pineapple in bits, pour over it a cup or a cup and a half of boiling water, cover closely, and keep hot, but not cooking, for two hours. Drink it without any addition, or flavor it up and season it with sugar to suit the taste. As a fruit tea it is surely excellent, and liking it, you will gain respect for the thrifty use made of pineapple peelings, which are treated in the same way by some housewives.

The following way of cutting up a pineapple is coming into increasing use: Wash and then "cut off the top and split the pine in half lengthwise. Cut out the hard center core; then with a fork shred the fiber, which can then be sweetened if wished and placed in the half shell."

"Now, look here, Robert," I said severely, "I won't have you coming home crying like this every time you go over to Billy's. You will have to stay home if he hurts you that way."

"I isn't crying 'cause he hurt me," Robert explained between sobs. "I'se cryin' 'cause I couldn't fight hard enough to make him cry." M. C. R.

Ethel had been ill for several days.

"Yes, mamma," she replied, "but not all the better there is." N. L. G.

Now, a Quick Quaker Oats

Cooks in 3 to 5 minutes

The quickest cooking oats in the world

Now your grocer has Quaker Oats in two styles. One the kind you have always known—the other is Quick Quaker.

Quick Quaker cooks in from 3 to 5 minutes. And it cooks to perfection. So it is almost like a ready-cooked dish.

No other oat flakes on the market cook anywhere near so quickly.

The two styles are identical in quality and flavor. Both are flaked from the finest grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats. A bushel of choice oats yields but ten pounds of these delicious flakes.

But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Ask for Quick Quaker if you want this style. Your grocer has both. But always get Quaker Oats for their delightful flavor.

Rose Display at Flower Show Wins High Praise

A rose display as splendid as was ever assembled at a flower show anywhere in the world, was the verdict of visiting florists at the Chicago Spring Flower show in the Broadway armory. More than 300 florists from the middle west and many from far-away states have registered at the show since last Monday, and more than 100 were present yesterday, "Rose day," when the rose exhibits were judged.

First prizes were awarded in the various classes as follows:

Columbia rose, Poehlmann Bros., Morton Grove; premier rose, A. F. Amling company, Melrose Park; butterfly rose, C. C. Pollyworth, Milwaukee; Milady rose, William Spangikow, Maywood; Crusader rose, Albert F. Amling company, Maywood; Sunburst rose, Wehrman & Wehrman, Chicago.

Last night was Kiwanis night at the show and today will be "Children's day." The show will close tomorrow evening.

HOW TO WIN A MAN

Flirtation Is No Cornerstone on Which to Build Temple of Happiness, Girls Are Told.

Miss Blake continues today her series of articles of advice to young women readers of The Tribune who find themselves facing life without romance.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A girl writes me that the only way she can see it possible for her to meet men is by flirting with them and asks my opinion on this method of acquaintance making.

If you want to have to spend the rest of your life living down an unfavorable impression, this would be the course to pursue.

Your manner of getting acquainted with men is important. And there are what might be termed chance acquaintances which have a legitimate beginning. A situation of distress to the child where the young man jumps in with strong, protecting arms, perhaps. But these acquaintance making without formal introduction opportunities are of a most impromptu nature and really rare. Even in such instances the girl is required to be on her guard in maidenly reserve that no unfavorable impression may be lent.

◆

But to flirt openly and deliberately on the street is courting disdain in a man's heart even though he may be the one to give encouragement in the first place.

He will figure that if you are willing to make appointments with one total stranger there is nothing to prevent your making another such acquaintance on the next corner. You cannot argue down that conviction in the heart of the male, try as you may.

I would most certainly advise any girl to demand for her own future comfort and happiness a proper, formal introduction. Show every young man you come in contact with that you are not cheap or common, and you cannot lose anything by assuming this attitude, while there is everything to lose with the other.

No matter how gross of nature, nor how low a man may sink in reputation, he still responds to respect for a girl who respects herself.

Above all, men do not like a girl who is forward—when they are considering mates for life. She may be courted for a time by a certain type of man. He may seem to approve of her forwardness but that is only because he assumes she is more than ready to go half way with him in doubtful ventures.

With the very act of an easy flirtation, by which I mean a pick up acquaintance, the girl is put in an archive in a man's mind where are stored none of the ideals of the better man in him.

Illustrative of this was the incident of a quarreling couple who called me in as a sort of referee, as nearly as I could make out, because all hope of beginning over again had been abandoned months before. In the midst of the undignified brawl in which each accused the other of all manner of things, he burst out with: "Well, what else could I expect? She was nothing but a street vagrant when I met her. She flirted with me." And this was the master argument as to her character.

He forgot in his unseemly rage that he too, must have been a willing party to the meeting. It was not gentlemanly; not fair even. But it illustrates my point that there is born a moral grudge against a girl whose acquaintance is made without introduction which is apt to bestir itself on any provocation.

I have outlined in previous chapters how girls may make acquaintances through the girl chums and women acquaintances and through other legitimate channels where respect is included with the form of introduction. But, girls, do not ever make the mistake of the free and easy, what you call "pick up," as it is no cornerstone upon which to build your temple of happiness.

In The Tribune tomorrow Miss Blake will continue her series dealing with the problems of young women who would learn to attract desirable suitors.

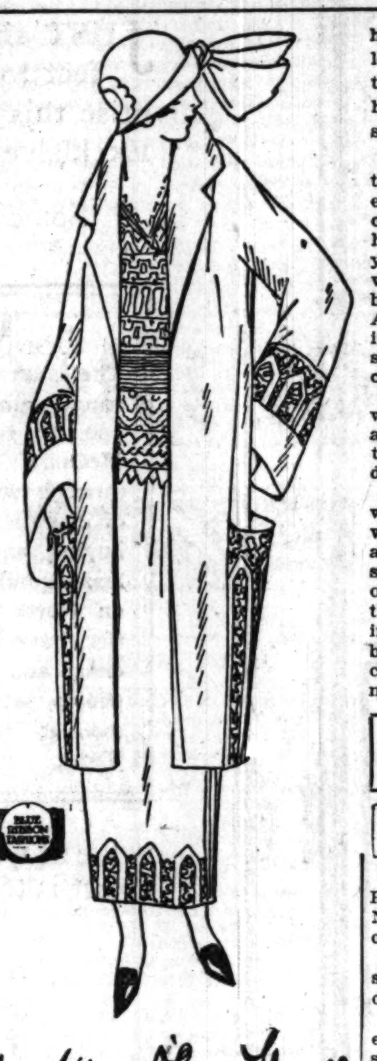
White Alpaca Suit Embroidered Gaily.



by Mary O'Connor Newell

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Inch it as you may down the spring figure, wherever you stop you will find a coat that stops there, too. The styles could do no more than they have in coat lengths. Only the knee length was missing in suit coats at the beginning of the season. Now here it is, the latest innovation in coat styles.

Imagine a white alpaca suit costume, trimmed with brilliant embroidery in yellow, green, and blue. Or any color of silky alpaca, trimmed with harmonizing patterned silk crêpe, and you have this import from Agnes, which is now taking on many embodiments for the American market. A most attractive one was worked out in putty colored wool, with printed silk used to trim coat and skirt and compose the bodice of the dress.

The simplicity of the neck finish, with a wide notched rever completing a narrow, upstanding collar, is particularly fortunate and so are the deep, ornamental pockets.

As for the huge bowsprit trimming which the hat of the model affects, worn on the left side of the brim for a change, it is quite in the mood of spring. Huge bows box the compass of the small hat, taking name from the point at which they light; as for instance, Alsatian when they cross the back. Display of several hues of one color are much fancied in all trimming, both of garments and hats.

Sunday fashion page will be found in the New Color Section.

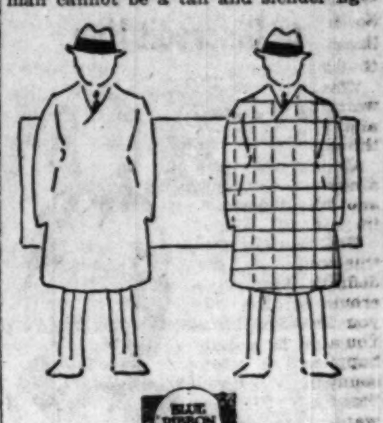
MEN'S FASHIONS

BY A. T. GALLICO.

Optical Illusions.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The woman walking beside a man on Broadway the other day, let us say it was his wife, may have been by actual measurement only two inches taller than he, but because of the way he was dressed she looked nearer five or six inches taller.

No man likes to look a whole lot smaller than his wife. And yet every man cannot be a tall and slender figure.



But he can take into consideration little points of dress which will give him the benefit of all the height he has.

That is where the man in question on Broadway made his mistake. He was short and inclined to stoutness, yet his topcoat was of a light color with a large overcheck pattern. A small man cannot wear checks, especially large ones. For the optical illusion is such that he appears smaller than he really is. Overplaids and overchecks make attractive topcoatings, but it takes a moderately tall and slender man to wear them.

Answers.

J. R. Jr.: Later in the season there will be an article on hot weather suits which should cover your question. Your striped white trousers with your navy blue double breasted coat is correct for summer sport or lounging wear. The color of socks for oxford depends upon the color of the shoes and the general color scheme.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Just Like a Nightmare.

Several years ago, when I was living in a large boarding house, I had a most embarrassing experience. While dressing for luncheon one day I remembered an important letter that should go out on the next mail. Without finishing my toilet I went directly to my desk, fearing that I might forget the letter if I did not "do it now."

After finishing the letter, other things occupied my mind until the luncheon bell rang. Then I hurried down to the dining room as I wanted to get an early start to my work uptown. I gave my order, leaned back in the chair to relax while I waited to be served, and dropped my hands into my lap. It was then that I had a real nightmare—a film comedy sensation, for instead of the woolen skirt my hand came in contact with my silk jersey petticoat.

FIGHT TO KEEP HART HANSON ON SCHOOL BOARD

Friends See Lundin Plot to Discredit Him.

Friends and foes of School Trustee Hart Hanson were yesterday reported active, for and against, his possible reappointment by Mayor Dever — the foes seeking to discredit him as a witness for the prosecution in the trial of Fred Lundin and Trustees Edwin S. Davis and Albert H. Severinghaus which will begin Monday.

HART HANSON.

Charles E. Springer, chairman of the public schools committee of the Oakland Business Men's association, launched the move to retain Hanson as a trustee. He declared he had information that Trustees Davis and Severinghaus, whose terms have several years to run, have offered their resignations to Mayor Dever, conditional upon his not again appointing Hanson, whose term is now up.

Springer Sees Ruse.

Their purpose, Mr. Springer said, is to have Hanson off the school board when he takes the witness stand against them, so their attorneys could stress the point in arguing to the jury, giving the inference that Hanson was dropped as a trustee for cause. That might tend to lessen his credibility, Mr. Springer pointed out.

If Severinghaus and Davis are still school trustees and Hanson is not, when he testifies, the effect might be such as the defendants would wish, Mr. Springer declared in a letter he wrote yesterday to Mayor Dever. In addition to the letter he caused to be spread broadcast a series of petitions addressed to the mayor, seeking the signatures of citizens.

Text of Petition.

The petition reads:

"To the Hon. William E. Dever, Mayor, Chicago, Ill.—Your Honor: A crisis seems to have been reached in matters pertaining to the Chicago board of education. The past mayoralty campaign demonstrated clearly that the school issue was the preeminent question before the voters of Chicago. We, the undersigned, therefore petition your honor in the interest of the school children and also the taxpayers of Chicago, to consider the reappointment of Mr. Hart Hanson, present outgoing member of the board of education.

"Mr. Hanson's record as a school trustee has been an inspiration not alone to the school children, but to all men and women who believe in a more efficient and cleaner school system. It was primarily through the unselfish efforts of Mr. Hanson that the school investigation started over a year ago has successfully reached its present status."

BEFORE GRAND JURY

Chester Cleveland, former assistant corporation counsel, Col. J. H. Strong, former public administrator, J. Thompson White, member of the firm of Adams-Beatty-Francois, appraisers, and Michael F. Schiovone, a real estate dealer, were among the dozen or so witnesses that appeared last night before the regular grand jury investigating city hall graft.

They were questioned concerning the work of appraising the property of the Chicago Surface lines done by the Adams-Beatty-Francois company two years ago. The grand jury is investigating the deals of the concern, inasmuch as it has been reported that the $387,000 paid by the city for the work was four times what it was actually worth.

The action of the jury in the matter of two newspaper reporters who refused to answer questions concerning "leaks" of past happenings in the jury room was continued indefinitely. At the last session George Wright of the City News bureau and Harry Read, reporter for the Evening American, made their refusal to talk in such an emphatic manner that the jury considered holding them in contempt.

Damages of $2,500 from Edward J. Hallihan, a salesman who, she said, jilted her two weeks before their wedding date, were awarded to Miss Irene McNulty of 833 South Oakley boulevard by a jury in Judge James S. Baldwin's court yesterday.

JOHN STEWRER, 8, SCHOOL BOY, MISSING; WIDE HUNT LAUNCHED

The help of THE TRIBUNE has been asked in the search for John Stewrer, 8 year old son of Frank Stewrer of 2550 Haddon avenue, who has been missing since Tuesday last. The boy left St. Aloysius' school, which he attended, at 8 o'clock a. m., and has not been seen since, despite an extensive search by relatives, friends, and schoolmates. No reason can be ascribed for his mysterious disappearance.

8 SENTENCED TO PRISON IN TRUST LAW VIOLATIONS

Fines of Earthware Makers $178,000.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Eight prison sentences were imposed by Judge William C. Van Fleet in the United States court today in the cases of the twenty individuals and twenty-three corporations, engaged in the manufacture of sanitary earthenware for building purposes, who were convicted before him of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

In addition, the court imposed fines aggregating $178,000 upon the various corporations and individuals for their conspiracy to fix prices and restrain competition.

Maddock Gets Longest Term.

Archibald M. Maddock, president of the Thomas Maddock's Sons company of Trenton, received the heaviest sentence. He was ordered to serve ten months in the Essex county penitentiary in Caldwell, N. J., and also directed to pay a fine of $5,000.

In imposing sentence, Judge Van Fleet denounced him as the head and front of the Manufacturers' association and the conspiring brain that carried it on.

Others Sentenced to Prison.

The others who received prison terms were Raymond E. Crane, vice president of the Eljer company, six months and $5,000 fine; Philip J. Faherty, treasurer of the Lambertville Pottery company, six months and $5,000 fine; William B. Maddock, secretary of the John Maddock & Sons Co., six months and $5,000 fine; Arthur Plantier Sr., president and general manager of the Sanitary Earthenware Specialty company, six months and $5,000 fine; George C. Kalbfleisch, factory manager of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company, six months and $5,000 fine; Elzey S. Aitkin, general manager of the Trenton Potteries company, six months and $5,000 fine, and J. E. Wright, president and general manager of the Wheeling Sanitary Manufacturing company, six months and $5,000 fine.

92 PROMOTERS OF OIL FIRMS NAMED IN FEDERAL WRIT

Fort Worth, Tex., April 20.—Ninety-two oil promoters were indicted by the federal grand jury Friday on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The oil companies involved in the indictment have taken in over $7,000,000 in cash, and into three of the companies were merged 458 companies which had sold $136,000,000 in stock, United States District Attorney Henry Zweifel declared the investigation had disclosed. Approximately 2,064,450 persons were stockholders in the merged companies and the companies named in the indictments.

Among those indicted and made public were:

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, sole trustee and president of the Petroleum Producers' association.

Three Seized in Chicago.

Gen. Robert A. Lee.

Philip Goldstein, alias Ralph P. Gibson; Nathan H. Sang, alias N. J. Lang, and Max Hirsch, arrested in Chicago, and Walter Marks, connected with the General Lee development interests.

Among the figures disclosed by the government and said to have been obtained by postoffice inspectors in their probe was Dr. Cook's company, stock $2,500,000; cash collected, $500,000.

According to the postoffice inspectors, there were 313 companies merged into the Dr. Cook company. They were capitalized for $388,861,000 and sold $90,000,000 in stock.

Later in the day Dr. Cook and forty-five others named in the writs had made bonds from $5,000 to $40,000, the latter surety being furnished by Cook. Trials will start early in May.

GET CONTINUANCE HERE.

Three men arrested here and wanted in Fort Worth in connection with alleged oil frauds yesterday obtained a continuance of the removal proceedings before United States Commissioner Glass until April 25. The men are Philip Goldstein, Nathan H. Sang, and Max Hirsch. They are at liberty on bond.

TWO HANGED AT BUTTE.

Butte, Mont., April 20.—William and Monte Harris, convicted of the murder of Cyril Schilling, were hanged in the county jail building this morning.

EXPECT TO QUIZ BOYLE TODAY IN SMALL JURY CASE

Resumption today of the grand jury investigation into alleged jury tampering in connection with the trial of Gov. Len Small will depend upon appearance in Waukegan of several important witnesses wanted by the state. Chief among these are Michael F. Boyle, head of the electrical workers' union, and Ben Newmark, former chief investigator in the state's attorney's office.

It is rumored that Boyle will appear today, but deputy sheriffs have been unable thus far to obtain service on Newmark. If either appears he will be taken before the jury this morning. If not, the jury probably will return an indictment against William J. Riley, the Antioch bartender who confessed to passing a bribe of $350 to John B. Fields, one of the Small jurors, and then adjourn to a future date.

Eddie Courtney and Eddie Kaufman, the two gunmen who are under indictment with Fields, are expected to appear for formal arraignment today. Courtney is also under subpœna as a witness.

$80,000,000 PAY RAISE IS SOUGHT BY RAIL CLERKS

Decision to open negotiations on all railroads for an increase in wages was reached by general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, and Station Employes prior to the closing of a two-day meeting here yesterday.

The roads will be asked to restore the wage cut made by the labor board on July 1, 1921. About 250,000 men will be affected and if the increase is granted the pay rolls of the railroads will be increased by approximately $80,000,000 annually.

Indications are that a wage increase will be granted by the Pennsylvania railroad to 4,000 maintenance of way men in the northwestern region. The union committee met with rail officials here yesterday. Boosts also are to be asked for by 26,000 other maintenance of way men employed in other regions of the system.

TWO FREED OF FLIRTING CHARGE.

E. K. Donohue, 22 years old, and Fred Calbot, 21 years old, 1628 West Monroe street, arrested on Thursday for flirting on State street, were dismissed yesterday for want of prosecution.

Kellogg's Bran is nature's most wonderful food. It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation and it will do that as no other food can! McGuire & Orr Offer a Small But Extremely Choice Group of

North Shore Homesites On the Lake

At Prices Lower Than Any Comparable Property Is, or Is Likely Ever Again to Be Available

JUST sixteen home building sites, with frontages varying from 100 feet to 130 feet, and with depths ranging from 200 to 435 feet, comprise this little restricted subdivision, for which McGuire & Orr are the Exclusive Agents.

Some of the lots extend to the water's edge, with full riparian rights.

Note

The statements in this announcement are made upon the responsibility of McGuire & Orr, who, through twenty-nine years of operations—as brokers buying and selling — in loaning millions of dollars on North Shore properties, have held the confidence and respect of the people who have made their homes on the North Shore.

All of the lots have access to the lake, through a private walk for the perpetual exclusive use of the owners of this subdivision.

Friends desiring to locate on adjoining sites, have here a splendid opportunity, provided they act promptly.

All improvements, such as sewer, water, pavement, gas, electricity and telephone, will be installed as soon as possible by the city of Highland Park and Utility Companies.

In order to market this property quickly, the owners have authorized very low prices. When the improvements are completed, it will be clear to all that these prices are substantially under the value at which the lots could be sold at the normal rate of selling. The object is to dispose of the entire property almost simultaneously.

Building Restrictions are of a Character That Will Forever Insure a High Class Residential District

Prices—$75 Per Foot and Up

This property will be shown from our Highland Park Office, 391 Central Ave., just northeast of the Chicago and Northwestern and North Shore Electric Depots. This Office is open daily and Sundays.

SUGAR PROBLEM IS MUCH "SUGAR" NOT CANE-BEET

BY SCRUTATOR.

If all the "sugar" in the sugar problem came from beets and cane, it would be simpler.

The industry has been tied up with war, colonial expansion, slavery, and politics from the time white men first brought the cane to the new world. For this reason, criticism of the suit of the department of justice against the sugar exchanges is slightly wide of the mark, when predicated on the usual objections to governmental attempts to control prices. Sugar prices have been largely made by bounty, tariff and other government action for a century or more.

When the last tariff increase was slapped on an impulse was given, which, market experts well know, naturally leads to pyramiding. It may be true, as the tariff commission is said to believe, that present prices are due to speculation, not to the influence of the tariff change. Yet the initial impulse came from congress, and the consumer is not vitally interested in whether it was a direct result of the tariff or not.

On the other hand, it is very probable that if the government had kept hands off, the speculators would have landed eventually where so many of them lit after the last orgy. Some of the big refining corporations yet carry claims for millions on cancelled orders, which followed the collapse of the Palmer sugar boom.

Sooner or later the American people must decide whether they want to maintain their small domestic sugar production at relatively high cost, or boldly assert national suzerainty over the Carribean, and insure a practically limitless supply, from sources which can be developed in peace and protected in war.

During the sugar jazz of 1920, in the state of Colorado, where such talk almost amounts to treason, a young sugar engineer returned from Central America told this writer that the American people would be buying sugar at three cents retail in this generation, if the development of Central America, Mexico and the Antilles is not curtailed. He was a native of Louisiana's bottle fed sugar bowl. That string of parishes, with its political and ecclesiastical allies of the upper mountain states, furnishes the political force which has backed up the native producers.

The engineer argued that in the long run, tariff or no tariff, white men intensively cultivating beets on high priced irrigated land, cannot compete with virgin soil, where cane comes up spontaneously, a land peopled with peons to cut the cane and haul it to the mill—spending the rest of the year in cock fights, reading lottery returns or revolutioning.

Beet sugar originated from one world war and its relative decline became noticeable with the last one. Caesarism must keep its capital in a good humor. The Little Corporal found that Paris demanded pastry as well as wine, women and song. Nelson had cut off cane sugar. The savants were ordered to produce it at home. They found a ton of beets carries as much sugar as a ton of cane. Followed a century of technical triumph in the beet industry—a century of manana in the cane countries which puddled along with ox carts, open kettles, delicious molasses and rum—yum, yum. Then Der Tag. The beet fields of France and Belgium were laid waste, the factories leveled.

Wall street summoned science to the cane fields. The cane people had begun to pep up a bit after the Spanish-American war, and in the first decade of the century beet sugar had reached its maximum output relative to cane—the score stood about 50-50. Today the sugar mills in the tropics are giants and equipped with the latest stuff.

Eight hundred thousand tons of beet sugar are produced in the irrigated west, together with the beet sugar from Michigan, Ohio and California. Louisiana's high cost cane crop amounts to about 200,000 tons. American consumption is 5,000,000 tons and growing, but sugar meets ever increasing competition from corn by-products and malt syrups.

TRADE REVIEWS OF WEEK

Marshall Feild & Co. say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods exceeded considerably that of the corresponding period of a year ago, and was greater than last week. The total of road sales for the week showed a marked gain, both over the figure of last week and the same week last year. Fall lines still being shown are being sold in greater volume than during the corresponding period in 1922. There were more customers in market than last year during the same period. The uncertainty of retail trade in certain sections of the country, due to a continuance of adverse weather conditions, was responsible for a decrease in collections as compared with the figures of a year ago."

The John V. Farwell company says:

"Favorable weather this week has given dry goods business a good impetus, resulting in increased number of buyers in market and freer buying for immediate shipment. Improvement in industrial conditions is reflected in increased wholesale dry goods business, which is now proceeding with an even proportion of gains in distribution each week, in comparison with corresponding period of last year. As a large share of orders are for future shipment collections do not show the proportionate gain. The effect of present merchandise commitments on collections will be felt later in the season."

The New York Times.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—To what extent today's decline, both on the stock exchange and in the wheat and cotton markets, had any connection with the government's singular performance in the sugar controversy must be a matter of conjecture.

Undoubtedly the evidence of official hostility to anything like the speculative extravagances of 1919 and 1920 would of itself exert some sentimental influence on the markets; it would add emphasis to the warning attitude of the banks and of the business community itself. To this extent, today's decline in wheat and cotton may have been partly attributable to the sugar trade incident. But the tendency toward prudent reaction had been plainly enough visible, and for obvious enough causes, before the government stepped into the ring.

The day's decline on the stock exchange ran to a point or more in a fairly long list of shares, and there were few exceptions to the downward movement. Apparently it reflected both sales by speculative holders of stocks and professional operations for the decline. Railway shares yielded ground along with the rest. The bond market moved irregularly, with some points of weakness; but European bonds as a rule were firm, the French Republic 8 per cents touching par for the first time since October.

Further recovery of the German mark from its violent decline of Wednesday was the outstanding movement of foreign exchange. Measured as usual in ten-thousandths of a cent the mark, which ended last week at 47½ and which fell on Wednesday to 37½, got back for a moment today to 40 and closed at 38⅝.

Stewart-Warner Hikes Dividend Payment to $8

The dividend rate of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer corporation was raised $8 annually from the former $6 rate, at the meeting of the directors yesterday. The board declared an extra dividend of 50 cents, in addition to a regular dividend of $2 quarterly, payable May 15 to stock of record April 30.

Net earnings of the company, before federal taxes, for the first quarter of this year, were $2,072,400, against $516,418 net in the same quarter of last year. This was the highest net for any quarter in the history of the company, and total sales also set a new high record during the quarter. March sales and net earnings established a new high mark for any month.

To provide for the great increase in business the directors authorized the construction of an addition to the plant. This will be a six story and basement building of concrete construction, work on which will start at once.

Acme Steel Goods.

F. W., West Brooklyn, Ill.—The Acme Steel Goods company is a large manufacturer of hoop and strip steel, with plants at Chicago and Riverdale, Ill. It has issued $1,500,000 of an authorized $3,500,000 of 6 per cent bonds, series A, which constitute its only funded debt. These bonds are secured by a first mortgage on all fixed assets, given a valuation of $2,937,705, or over 1.95 times the present issue. Net current assets, after giving effect to this financing, amount to over 1¼ times these bonds and total net assets, after deducting all indebtedness other than these bonds, are $5,069,386, or over 3.37 times the bonds. Ample restrictions are placed on the issuance of additional bonds. Net income, after depreciation and inventory adjustments, but before federal taxes, for the last ten years have averaged about 4 times annual interest charges on these bonds, and for 1922 such net income was $483,000, or over 5.36 times such interest charges. A semi-annual sinking fund will retire 68 per cent of these bonds before maturing in 1943. The bonds have a wide margin of safety. They are a sound investment.

FINANCIAL NOTES

The annual report of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company will be made public probably the early part of next week. According to statements made in official circles, this statement will show net earnings of $31,500,000 after all expenses, all taxes, including Mexican and United States, and reserves for depreciation and depletion. This will compare with earnings of about $18,162,000 in the previous year. In regard to current earnings, it was estimated that based upon returns for the first quarter of the current year, the company would ean about $33,000,000 or more this year. Earnings for the first quarter of the current year are said to have been almost double those of the first quarter of 1922.

Officials of the International Lamp company announce they have acquired full patent rights to manufacture the Weinman davenport. It is stated the concern will begin manufacturing this line in its new Central Manufacturing district factory about May 1, turning out a general line of furniture. Future orders for 25,000 davenports are already on hand, it is declared, which will total considerably more than $1,000,000 in gross sales for this product alone.

PLAN $2,000,000 HOTEL IN SOUTH SHORE DISTRICT

BY AL CHASE.

Plans are being drawn for another big apartment hotel for the south shore district. Clarence T. Seipp yesterday took title as the head of a syndicate of Chicagoans, from the Chicago Title & Trust company, to a site at the southwest corner of South Shore drive and 71st street, overlooking the lake and the South Shore country club, for $110,000. On this a hotel, probably to be ten stories, although the actual height has not yet been decided on, will be erected at a cost of approximately $2,000,000. The tentative name is South Shore View. William P. Doerr is architect. The site is irregular, 166x118x127x211. A Greenspahn, of Newman, Poppenhusen, Stern & Johnson, was attorney for Mr. Seipp.

An indicated $260,000, subject to $150,000, was paid by Eleanor Perbohner to Benjamin Goldberg for the two story building, 91x124, at the southwest corner of Clark and Devon, containing stores and offices. Ruekberg & Burr were attorneys for the buyer.

Madeline R. McKay, of New York, has sold to Imogen and Lauretta Bosch the 40x170 fee at 25 South Wabash for $300,000. It is subject to a ground lease for ninety-nine years from May 1, 1908, at $14,400 annually. Frederick T. Hoyt was broker.

With the filing for record of the ninety-nine year lease on the property at the southwest corner of State and Grand avenue, 100x118, it was learned that the leasees, Frederick A. Cooper, Frederick H. Winston, Louis Manierre and Francis E. Manierre, intend in the next year or two to improve with a two story white tile front building to contain stores and offices. Alfred E. Manierre will be architect. The lessor was Floyd B. Evans and the lease calls for $4,000 for the first year, $5,000 for the second, $7,500 annually for the next ten, $8,500 for the next ten and $10,000 yearly for the remainder of the term. Dibblee & Manierre were brokers.

A Fifth Simple Truth About

THE LANDIS AWARD

Strikes

Everybody loses in a strike—the employer, the employee, and, most of all, the public. Since this committee was organized in 1921 there has not been a strike worth mentioning in the building trades. The honest, decent workingmen and leaders haven't wanted to strike. The grafters are afraid to because they do not wield the vicious influence and monstrous power they did before this Committee undertook the task of establishing the just principles of the Landis Award.

Tell us what work you want done and we will send appropriate lists of architects or contractors, or both. Insist that your building, repairing, painting and decorating be done under the terms of the Landis Award.

ARMOURCOMPANY IS SWUNG 'OPEN'; REPORTS PROFIT

BY O. A. MATHER.

The plan to make Armour & Co. more of an "open" corporation, with its securities widely held by the public and employes, and with all interests represented in the management, was announced yesterday by President F. Edson White at the stockholders' annual meeting.

At the same time further details of the acquisition of Morris & Co. were given, together with an estimate that the consolidation will result in economies of about $10,000,000 a year. President White outlined the strengthened position of Armour & Co. as the result of the recent $110,000,000 financing and stated that operations for the last seven months have been profitable.

Huge Losses in 1921-1922.

The terrific losses sustained during the postwar deflation are shown by a further reduction from surplus of $32,703,378, of which $20,640,522 was represented by losses on foreign exchange. A revaluation of plants added $9,625,083 to assets. For the fourteen months from Oct. 29, 1921, to Dec. 31, 1922, there was an operating loss of $7,628,637, after writing off $8,275,000 as depreciation. After preferred dividends there was a deficit of $12,062,856. The company's surplus now stands at $40,376,402, compared with $63,454,697 on Oct. 29, 1921, and $80,711,493 on Oct. 29, 1920.

"There is no reason to doubt that the postwar readjustment is over and that our business is now on a permanently profitable basis," Mr. White says, adding that all subsidiaries are showing substantial earnings and that foreign business is improving.

Here Are New Directors.

In pursuance of the plan for an "open corporation," the board of directors of Armour & Co. was reorganized to include nine new directors. They are:

C. F. Curtiss, dean of agriculture at Iowa State college, Ames, Ia.

Harvey Sconce, Sidell, Ill., farmer and stock grower and one of the organizers of the American Farm Bureau federation.

James Simpson, president of Marshall Field & Co.

Robert Lamont, president of the American Steel Foundries company.

B. A. Eckhart, president of the B. A. Eckhart Milling company.

Samuel McRoberts, president of the Metropolitan Trust company, New York.

Arthur Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial banks, Chicago.

Albert H. Wiggins, president of the Chase National bank, New York.

M. W. Borders, Chicago attorney representing the Morris interests.

BOARD TO VOTE ON RULES MONDAY.

Board of Trade members are to vote Monday on the proposed change in rules to give nonresident members the right to vote by proxy. President John J. Stream favors the change. The records of the secretary's office show that a majority of the nonresidents favor maintaining present rates of commission. The fears of the outside members favoring lower commission rates have been the main objections to the measure.

General average price of hogs yesterday was forced to within 5c of the lowest point of the year at $7.85, an accumulation of weighty packers and mixed grades helping considerably to press the average down. Lightweight hogs and pigs were comparatively scarce and sold readily on shipping account at steady prices, with other classes mostly 10@15c lower and in many cases off as much as 25c. General range of prices widened, "spread" between common weight "packers" and choice light hogs being widest in over six weeks. Top yesterday at $8.45 equaled previous Friday, while average price at $7.85 stands 20c under a week ago.

Comparatively small receipts of cattle helped yesterday's trade, yet there was no quotable advance in values. Quality was only fair, with 1,149 lb long yearlings topping the market at $10.00. Heavy steers reached $9.80, averaging 1,338 lbs. Some 932 lb yearlings sold at $9.75. Prevailing prices are strong to 25c higher than a week ago, light steers and choice cows and heifers showing most gain.

Sheep Receipts Large.

This week's receipts of sheep and lambs passed the 90,000 mark, being larger than any week's offerings this year and considerably above corresponding period a year ago, when prices were about $1.00 above the present level. Yesterday's arrivals were above normal for that time of the week and prices ruled steady to 25c lower, weighty kinds showing the loss, while top equaled the week's high point at $14.60. Clipped stock comprised a large part of the day's receipts and sold mostly at $10.75@11.50, with one load to city butchers at $11.60. Sheep were scarce and unchanged.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 7,000 hogs and 5,000 sheep, against 626 cattle, 4,869 hogs and 4,307 sheep the corresponding Saturday a year ago.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Grain traders were moderately bearish at the close owing to the heavy selling by eastern longs, who have been instrumental in furnishing a good percentage of the buying power of late. It was said that the market had been overbought and was in a position where a reaction of more than 2c would do it good. The short interest was increased on the break. A good class of buying on resting orders was noticeable at the last.

With the good break in wheat prices those bullish said the market was placed in better position to respond to bullish news. There has been a drought in western Kansas and Nebraska for months, and one rain does not make a crop.

It is said that those who bought May corn expecting to take delivery of the cash grain the first of May have changed their position and have been liquidating for several days. Prospects of a late opening of navigation, scarcity of boats, and high rates, which are higher than all rail rates, have been the factors in inducing a change in their position. The spread at the close yesterday was 2c between May and July.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of 300,000 to 400,000 bu wheat, 150,000 to 200,000 bu corn, and 50,000 bu rye were reported at the seaboard. There were bids for durum wheat in the market for nearby shipment, but the cash grain was hard to secure. Germany bought corn and rye and the United Kingdom took corn, while the wheat went to the continent.

Chicago handlers sold 20,000 bu wheat, 125,000 bu corn, and 90,000 bu oats sold to the domestic trade, with 95,000 bu rye and 40,000 bu Manitoba wheat to exporters.

Basis on cash wheat showed little change except that red winter was nominally firmer at 10@14c over May for No. 2. Basis of No. 2 hard was steady, with sales at 1c over May. Receipts, 32 cars. Outside markets unchanged to 2c lower, latter on red winter at St. Louis.

Cash corn gained ¼@½c as compared with May in some instances, the cash not following the full decline in futures. No. 2 grades sold at 1¼@2½c over, No. 3 grades at ½@1¾c over, and No. 4 grades at May price to ¼c over. Receipts, 104 cars. Outside markets 1c higher to 1c lower.

Offerings of cash oats were not large, with the basis slightly firmer at 1¼@1¾c over May for No. 2 white and ½@1c over for No. 3 white. Receipts, 61 cars.

"BEARS" CONTROL GRAIN MARKETS; VALUES DECLINE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A combination of bearish influences more than offset bullish estimates on the winter wheat crop and a prospective reduction of 5.5 per cent in the spring wheat acreage. The trade were impressed with the rains in the southwest and west, the government's efforts to stop trading in sugar for future delivery, and a belief that further moisture would be received in the southwest, longs liquidating freely, making a sharply lower range with the finish about the bottom. Net losses were 1½@2¼c on wheat, ⅞@1⅜c on corn, ½@⅝c on oats and 1¼c on rye.

Rains in parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska will be highly beneficial for the crop in sections bordering on the extreme dry belt, and the forecast for relatively low temperatures had little effect. Showers in the northwest will cause little or no delay in seeding.

Liverpool Wheat Shows Strength.

Liverpool wheat showed unexpected strength, closing ⅝@1d higher. There was a fair export business at the seaboard and considerable buying of May here for eastern account, but there was also free selling of deferred deliveries by houses with eastern connections.

Corn showed fair resistance to pressure early, but weakened rapidly toward the last with wheat and finished within a fraction of the low point. The government report suggesting an acreage of 105,091,000, against 102,428,000 acres last year, was construed as rather bearish.

Weather conditions over the greater part of the oats belt were favorable for seeding operations, and with other grains weak local traders became good sellers toward the last and made a heavy close.

Rye Off with Wheat.

While there was fair buying of rye at times, presumably to remove hedges against export sales at the seaboard, the break in wheat caused scattered longs to sell and the close was at the bottom. Two northwestern markets received 74 cars.

A light trade was on in provisions. At ribs unchanged to 5c lower. Prices follow:

NEWS OF THE CROPS

A prospective decrease of 1,051,000 acres in the area to be seeded to spring wheat this year is indicated by a department of agriculture report. Corn may increase 2,663,000 acres and oats 858,000 acres, while the flax acreage will be nearly doubled. Indicated spring wheat acreage is 18,052,000; corn 105,091,000; oats, 41,751,000 and flax 2,472,000 acres. Last year's harvested area was: Wheat, 19,103,000; corn, 102,428,000; oats, 40,693,000 and flax 1,308,000 acres. The prospective acreage of the various crops as compared with that harvested last year and with the five year average and the prewar average follows:

	Pct. cent '22 acreage.	Pct. of past 5 ys. 1918-22	Pct. of 5-yr.av. 1909-13
Corn	102.6	103.2	100.9
Oats	102.6	97.8	111.9
Barley	105.7	100.5	102.5
Flax	189.0	162.7	99.3

Based on a par yield of 18 bu per acre, which is about the same as used by the government in its July report the Kansas state crop report given to the trade yesterday indicated a yield of 110,000,000 bu winter wheat, or 13,000,000 bu less than harvested last year. Abandoned acreage was 3,346,000, leaving 8,069,000 acres for harvest against 8,320,000 acres in 1922. In many important western counties abandoned acreage will exceed 50 per cent. A condition of 64 on 1,541,000 acres of oats was also given. Corn acreage is expected to increase 9.5 per cent, indicating 5,500,000 for the state.

There has been no official revision in the estimated Argentine crop, according to the Argentine minister of agriculture.

GRAIN FUTURES TRADING GOES ON IF IT "FITS" LAW

Washington, D. C., April 20.—The department of agriculture issued a formal statement today declaring that trading in grain futures would not be interrupted by the operations of the grain futures act, upheld by the Supreme court, so long as the exchanges complied with the law. Several exchanges, the statement said, already had met the requirements, and the Chicago Board of Trade had announced its intention to coöperate in enforcing the regulations.

"Reports that this law will put the grain exchanges out of business or interfere with their legitimate functions are entirely without foundation," said the statement. "It does not interfere with hedging transactions on the boards of trade that receive designations as "contract markets." Neither does it interefere with ordinary speculation in the buying and selling of contracts for future delivery on such markets.

"If, however, there should be evidence of undue manipulation, or attempts to corner the market, or of the dissemination of false or misleading information about crop or market conditions by members of the exchange such conduct would be inquired into and promptly dealt with. The law gives authority to observe and inquire into the operations on grain exchanges and to speak with authority concerning such matters."

WANTED—A YOUNG WOMAN OF
GOOD EDUCATION,
22 TO 25 YEARS OF AGE.

A very good position in the advertising department of a large newspaper is awaiting a substantial young woman, preferably a college graduate, whose major subjects should be of help to her in advertising sales work. However this training is not essential.

The young woman in whose application we are most interested is probably just entering commercial life, and has hesitated only because of her inability to make a connection with an organization where environment and association were suitable.

This position will not pay a large starting salary, but after you have received a thorough training and develop your sales ability your earnings should be larger than those of the average secretary.

The work is interesting—not monotonous—neither is it difficult. Every assistance will be given to enable you to make a success of the work.

To qualify you should be attractive, possess a pleasing personality and the ability to convince people with whom you come in contact of your viewpoint.

If you are interested in such a position and wish to work permanently, write us a letter, giving your age, whether married or single, as well as salary desired, address, and telephone number. Address A N 571, Tribune.

CHICAGO MOTOR
KILLINGS SPEE
TO U. S. RECOR

Fatality Rate Spur
Safety Drive.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Automobile killings are increasi in Chicago at a far greater rate th in any other large center in Americ and various agencies are preparing f a drive to make the streets safer.

A few days ago Coroner Wolf record sheet showed 175 deaths so f this year from automobiles, while th same day he had a telegram that sim lar deaths for the same period in Ne York, with more than double Chicago population, were 125.

With warm weather and the a proach of summer, the Chicago rate i growing, and Coroner Wolff and oth ers, among them the big automobil clubs, the crime commission, the saf ty council, and business and civic o ganizations, say the situation is becom ing more and more appalling.

Two a Day for Twenty Days.

On THE TRIBUNE'S "clock" th "hands of death" now register 18 automobile killings for the first 11 days of 1922. In the last twenty day automobile deaths have occurred at th rate of two a day in Cook county Children are being killed at the rate o nearly twenty each month. In addi ion to the deaths, from six to ten per ons and perhaps more are injure every day in Chicago by automobile Statistics from states in which car ul check has been kept for years in licate that for every person killed b automobiles, from three to five per ons are injured.

Last year there were 736 automobil atalities in Cook county. In 1921 ther were 664. In the first quarter of 192 there were 142, which is at the rate o 568 a year, but these were winte months and the summer time, wit rowded boulevards and greater traf ic, increases the hazard on the streets

Holds Record for Killings.

In 1921 for every 100,000 automobile in Chicago there were 321 automobil illings, while in Detroit there wer nly 113. On the basis of automobile n the streets, Chicago's rate was early three times that of Detroit.

In 1922 within the city limits of hicago there were 651 automobile kil ngs. That year the entire state of assachusetts, which has a million ore population than Chicago and ore than twice as many automobiles he automobile deaths numbered 522. he death rate in Boston per 100,000 utomobiles in 1921 was 226; in Chica o 321. Massachusetts has stringent ws and rigorous enforcement. Cor er Wolff is proposing amendments the Illinois vehicle laws, providing r mental, physical and mechanical ts for all automobile drivers, with owers to revoke the licenses of offenders and impose jail sentences for d cases, as in Massachusetts.

Pedestrians Lead Victims.

Much study is being concentrated on statistics of automobile killings to termine predominant causes and here safeguards can be applied. The roner's records for 1922 show that of 736 fatalities, 403 were caused by rsons being struck by automobiles, hile 172 were struck by trucks.

Of the 736 persons killed, 406 were destrians and 180 were passengers in tomobiles or trucks. No less than 89 ildren playing in the street were ctims.

Drivers of automobiles or trucks who re killed number 27; those in other hicles, wagons, buggies, motorcycles, . Seven were killed as they worked ound their automobiles and two men orking in the streets were killed.

Of the 736 killed, 559 were males and 7 females. Most of the accidents occurred in daylight—425 were in the ytime and 251 at night. In 60 cases time was not determined.

Forty-five "Vampires" at Large.

In no less than 45 cases the drivers sing the death sped away and are l unidentified. In 1921, 23 of these mpire drivers" drove away leaving victim. In the first three months this year there were 12 such cases of 142 killings.

As to the drivers who make the eets unsafe they constitute less n 10 per cent of the driving public— many experts have maintained for rs past. The coroner's office holds t intoxicated drivers form the bulk the menace, and next to them come speeders and the incompetent driv , while many a killing is caused by sing at the wheel after long driv . At present any moron can climb a car and cut loose. Only two ys ago Judge H. M. Walker in the eders' court found two men deemed
